RACERS WILL LEAVE VLADIVOSTOK TO-DAY

Dispatches to Berlin Say Thomas, Protos, and Zust Cars Will Start for Paris.

FRENCH AUTO MAY GO ALSO

Original Backers of the Protos Car Are Furnishing Plenty of Money to Complete the Contest.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 19.—Dispatches from Vladivostok received in Berlin to-day state that all is in readiness for to-morrow's start on the last great phase of the New York to Paris automobile race. The dispatches say that three cars remain in the contest—the Thomas, (American,) Zust, (Italian,) and the Protos, (German.) According to the latest arrangements of the Paris Race Committee they will leave Vladivostok simultaneously.

The Marquis De Dion has officially taken his car out of the race, alleging that the Trans-Siberian Trans-European route is so similar to the Peking to Paris course that the race has no longer any attractions for his firm, but it is understood in Berlin that the drivers of the De Dion car may make the trip privately for their own satisfaction.

THE NEW YORK TIMES's correspondent is authorized by the Berlin Mittag Zeitung, the backer of the Protos car, to state the untruthfulness of a story emanating from Paris that the German General Staff raised a subscription of $5,000 for the purpose of aiding Lieut. Koeppen. All the funds necessary to enable that officer to complete the race have been furnished exclusively by the original backers of the German entry—namely, the Mittag Zeitung and the Protos Automobile Company. The Lieutenant's only aid from his brother officers is their enthusiastic moral support.

As a German officer, Lieut. Koep'pen's professional honor requires him to contest the race to the bitter end. When he represented this phase of the situation to the parties who organized and financed the expedition they agreed that he must be properly supported. It was therefore arranged to provide him with all the necessary sinews of war, including ~~two expert~~ German chauffeurs, who were sent on to Vladivostok from Berlin to help the Lieutenant in the dash across Asia and Europe.

Lieut. Koeppen telegraphed to-day: "Our crew is full of confidence. We still hope to be the first to enter Berlin, around July 1."

The start from Vladivostok has been delayed on account of the Nobel Oil Company's inability sooner to arrange the establishment of gasoline stations in Siberia.

TWO NEW RUSSIAN PRIZES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 19.—Two more valuable prizes have been placed at the disposal of the commission in charge of the New York to Paris race, to be offered to the contestants. One is a prize of 5,000f. offered by the Trans-Alaska-Siberian Railroad for the car which, leaving Vladivostok, arrives first at Tchita; the other a prize of equal value offered by the Russian Automobile Club to the car which arrives first at St. Petersburg. Both prizes have been accepted by the commission, and will be awarded to the cars, with the restriction that instead of money objects of art will be awarded.

Loicq de Lobel, a member of the commission, but acting on behalf of the Trans-Alaska-Siberian Railway, makes the tender of the latter's prize. He declares that the intention of the railway was to recognize the car that should make its way through the arctic to Irkutsk, but in view of the necessity of changing the route of the race, it had been decided that the bravery of the autoists was entitled to recognition.

The stretch between Vladivostok and Tchita on the Trans-Siberian Railroad constitutes the hardest portion of the journey in Asia, and the first car to arrive there will deserve the honor. It will have crossed the extreme eastern end of Siberia, crossed Manchuria, and covered half of the Trans-Baikal district, Tchita being the capital of Transbaikalia, and only 370 miles east of Irkutsk.

The proffer from the Russian Automobile Club comes from the President of the Russian committee in charge of the race, and is believed to have been inspired by the keen interest of the Russian nobility in the contest.

ROBERTS MAY ENTER NEW RACE

Thinks Run to San Francisco and Back the Greatest Contest.

Montague Roberts, who goes abroad to-day on the Adriatic with the Thomas car, which will be a contestant in the Grand Prix at Dieppe in France, is anxious to return immediately after the race to be a competitor in the double transcontinental endurance contest which will start in August. The Grand Prix will be run on July 8, and Roberts hopes to be back in America within a fortnight thereafter to begin the preparation of a Thomas racer to compete in the big American contest.

"That will be a bigger contest than the Grand Prix or the Vanderbilt Cup in my opinion," said Roberts yesterday. "It ought to arouse a bigger public interest than the New York to Paris race, which was certainly the most popular competition ever held in automobiling. With simple common sense rules automobiles would be tried out in such a race more effectively than by any other kind of test, and the winner of the contest would have a victory that would be worth while."

CANNOT AGREE ON CURRENCY.

Aldrich Admits That the Situation Is Practically Hopeless.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—The prospects for agreement on a currency bill at this session have nearly faded out. The first formal meeting of the conferrees is set for to-morrow morning, but it has been demonstrated already that there is practically no hope of accomplishing anything.

Senator Aldrich and Representative Vreeland have had a number of informal talks in an effort to reach a basis for negotiation, but they have only emphasized the difference between the Senate and House. Aldrich has gone so far as to withdraw in part his opposition to the commercial paper feature of the Vreeland bill. His proposition was to adopt the House plan for National Clearing Houses, and permit the use of commercial paper as security for 50 per cent. of the emergency currency, the remainder to be secured by bonds of the classes described in his bill. But the House is unalterably opposed to the Aldrich bond proposition.

Last evening Aldrich took Hale and Allison out for a spin in his automobile, the trio not returning until midnight, and to-day the information was allowed to leak out that the situation was practically hopeless.

THAW SUMMONS LITTLETON.

Lawyer Says He's Sane Now—Talk of New Proceedings.

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., May 19.—In response to a telephone call from Harry K. Thaw, his former attorney, Martin W. Littleton, who conducted his last trial for murder, came to Poughkeepsie this afternoon and had a talk with Thaw in his quarters in the Court House. The two were closeted for about an hour.

Mr. Littleton's visit revived rumors that Thaw contemplates another change of counsel, and that he despairs of a favorable judgment from the court in the pending proceedings to free him from Matteawan. There is talk that Mr. Littleton will ask Judge Morschauser to reopen the case and have Thaw examined by the Board of Allenists proposed by Jerome.

Mr. Littleton, after leaving Thaw, said: "I would defy any allenist to find insanity in Thaw now, no matter what his preconceived opinion might be."

In explanation of his visit Mr. Littleton said that Thaw wanted to talk over with him matters of business connected with the last murder trial. There are still some unpaid bills, but they do not amount to a large sum. He denied that Thaw owes $200,000 or anywhere near that amount.

In reply to a suggestion that Thaw had retained him in place of his present lawyers, Mr. Littleton said:

"I am not retained now by Thaw. His affairs are in the hands of Mr. Peabody and Mr. Graham. I have no criticism to offer of their course."

THIEVES DESECRATE CHURCH.

Throw the Holy Wine and Wafers on the Floor and Steal the Vessels.

The congregation of St. Raymond's Roman Catholic Church in Westchester is enraged at sacrilege committed in the church last Sunday night, when thieves broke into the edifice.

They threw the sacred bread and wine on the floor of the church and stole the whole golden communion service. Several people said last night that it was possible that an organized band of church despoilers, such as is known to operate in Europe, may be at work here. Since the church was erected two years ago, it has been robbed several times.

Father Edward McKenna, pastor of the church, and the members of the congregation have sent out an appeal to all other Catholics to aid in running the thieves to ground and ending the sacrileges of which they have been guilty. The theft and the desecration of the altar were discovered on Monday morning.

How the thieves entered the church is not known, but it is supposed that they forced the lock of a window and closed it after leaving the church. Particles of the sacred wafers of the communion were ground into the floor in front of the altar and places where the wine had been spilled were still wet when the work of the thieves was discovered.

Prosperity Association Persuades Corporations to Re-engage 4,000 to 5,000.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, May 19.—The Executive Committee of the National Prosperity Association, after conference with the leading manufacturers and jobbers, has named June 1 as Employment Day, and they have the word of the business men that thousands of men thrown out of work during the business and financial depression will be re-employed. It is expected that between 4,000 and 5,000 men will be put at work.

The movement will also be taken up among the railroads and other corporations. They will be urged to follow the example and take back as many of their laid off employes as possible on that day and to start the wheels moving in their shops and factories.

WATCHES HIS BLOOD SAVE DYING WIFE

BROUGHT COLOR TO HER

He Was Left Almost as Weak as She Had Been—Smiles Over the Sacrifice He Eagerly Offered.

Josephine Marasco, a bride of only nine months, and her young husband, Dominick, with whom she fled to this country from her home in Italy when her parents objected to her marriage, are in the Washington Heights Hospital, he recovering from the weakness occasioned by the loss of a great quantity of blood which he allowed to be transfused from his veins into his wife's yesterday afternoon; she, on the highway to health because of her husband's sacrifice. Before the operation was performed doctors at the hospital had given up all hope of saving the young matron's life.

Mrs. Marasco was carried to the hospital from her home at 2,494 Amsterdam Avenue late on Monday suffering from internal hemorrhages. Dominick followed the ambulance. Throughout the night he sat in the hospital reception room, inquiring eagerly of every nurse or doctor he saw for news of his wife. Over her the hospital staff was exhausting all its skill, and early yesterday Dr. C. C. Sichel told the young husband as gently as possible that his wife's death was only a question of hours.

"She simply has no more blood," explained the physician. "Her veins have been drained to almost the last drop, and her heart action cannot continue much longer. There might be one chance for her if it were possible to transfuse a large quantity of healthy blood into her veins."

"Couldn't you take my blood?" demanded the eager husband. "She can have it all." And Dominick threw off his jacket and, rolling up his sleeve, exhibited a mighty arm. He is a stone mason by trade, and his work has developed him into almost a perfect specimen of manhood.

Dr. Sichel gazed at Dominick's muscles in admiration, and consented to try the operation. At 4 o'clock he was led into the operating room. His young wife was strapped to the operating table, with her right arm hanging over its edge. She was made unconscious with mauvocaine, a new anaesthetic.

The young husband was seated in a chair beside his wife and his left arm was bared to the elbow. The doctors offered to put him under an anesthetic, but he refused to take it, saying that he wanted to see the effect of the operation.

Dominick said he was ready and Dr. Newult made an incision in the main artery of his left arm. At the same time Dr. Sichel made a similar operation in Mrs. Marasco's arm, and Dr. Quittner quickly slipped a three-inch glass tube into the wounds, connecting the arms of husband and wife, so that about an inch of glass remained visible.

Instantly the clear glass filled with blood, which began flowing from Dominick's arm into that of his wife. Dr. Quittner opened his watch, glancing alternately at its dial and back at the tiny piece of tube. For ten minutes the flow of blood was allowed to continue.

Slowly the color which had faded from Mrs. Marasco's face returned to her cheeks until they were actually rosy. Her pulse gained strength and her breathing became easier and stronger. As his wife gained, however, Dominick slowly lost his strength. His lips, compressed together tightly, turned slowly from a rich red to an ashen color. The color left his cheeks and the perspiration started from his face. The doctors watched him carefully as he grew weaker, moment by moment.

At last the ten minutes were up, and it was evident to the watching surgeons that Dominick had reached the end of his strength. At the same instant Mrs. Marasco's eyelids quivered and she half opened her eyes. Quickly the doctors drew out the tube, and while one closed the wound in Mrs. Marasco's arm other surgeons dressed the wound they had made in Dominick's. As the last dressing was applied the young Italian glanced toward his young wife, smiled happily at the evidence of returning strength in her, and then suddenly collapsed.

He was hurried into a ward and put to bed beside his wife, but by 7 o'clock last night he had so far recovered that the doctors permitted him to take a short walk. He returned to the hospital, however, by their orders, and went back to bed. He will be as strong as ever soon, they say.

Mrs. Marasco's condition was so much improved by the operation that the surgeons said last night they were almost certain of her recovery. When Dominick takes her back to his Amsterdam Avenue flat, they hope that there may be three in the family.

NIGHT RIDERS SANG HYMNS.

Offered Prayer as They Set Fire to Tobacco Barn.

LACENTER, Ky., May 19.—Kneeling on the ground in the moonlight with their heads bowed, while their leader offered prayer, a band of "night riders" last night destroyed the big tobacco barn of H. G. Maddox, not far from this place.

The spectacle was witnessed by Flint Randall and Miss Maggie Tate, two young people who were returning from a party, and who were captured by the raiders and forced to accompany them to the prayer meeting and barn burning. After a torch had been applied and the flames were under good headway the young people were led some distance away with instructions to go home. As they left they heard the strains of "Nearer, my God, to Thee," floating through the air.

MRS. A. G. VANDERBILT HERE.

She Slips Into Town Presumably for Conference with Lawyers.

Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt arrived in New York late yesterday afternoon and went to the Hotel St. Regis, where she will remain for several days. She came from Newport, and refused to see any but her closest friends.

It is supposed that Mrs. Vanderbilt is here to consult with the attorneys who represent both sides of her suit for divorce against Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt. She has told her friends that she hoped for an early termination of the case, but it is said that the financial settlement has delayed her freedom for several weeks.

Mr. Vanderbilt is now in London, but has been instructing his lawyers by cipher cable.

Mrs. Vanderbilt is at the St. Regis alone with her maid, and they occupy a suite of three rooms on the Fifth Avenue side of the hotel. It was thought that Mrs. Vanderbilt was motoring in New Hampshire with Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wagstaff.

O'LEARY BETS ON RAIN.

Handbook King Won $10,000 on April Weather and Has May Wager.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 19.—"Jim" O'Leary, Chicago's handbook king and former gambler, stands to win another $10,000 if the weather man permits it to rain seven more days out of the twelve left in this month. O'Leary is betting that it rains twenty days out of the thirty-one in May. It has rained thirteen days, including today.

Last month O'Leary bet it would rain more than half the days of the month. It did, and he won $10,000.

"There have been six days in this month without rain," said Prof. Cox, "and it rained a little to-day, but it is going to clear up and be warmer. I don't know about the rest of the month. It looks clear ahead."

When Mr. O'Leary was told of this he stepped to the front, and, chancing an eye on the sky, winked it wisely.

"I have heard that before. But what if it does clear up to-day, it rained this morning. That suits me. Last month I won by a nose, but it might as well have been a length, just so I get there first. I would be satisfied to win by a whisker. It looks like soft picking for me."

"BILLY" ELMER SHOT.

Had Trouble with Bernard Rosenthal Over Club Affairs.

After resigning in anger his place as President and General Manager of the Consolidated Club and Physical Culture School, at 1,199 Broadway, on Monday night, "Billy" Elmer, well known among sporting men, returned to the gymnasium yesterday afternoon with his wife, and exchanged hot words with Bernard Rosenthal of 126 West Sixty-fifth Street, who, Elmer believed, had usurped his place. Rosenthal, who was dressed in his gymnasium suit, crying "I'll fix you, all right," ran into his office, grabbed a revolver from his desk, and fired at him wildly.

At his home Elmer said the trouble grew out of differences with Rosenthal, starting in criticism of club affairs.

A POLICEMAN HE WOULD BE.

But Little Joe Narrowly Missed Arrest for Running Down a Woman.

The one ambition of young Joe Arolowitz is to grow up and become a bicycle policeman, to chase speeding automobiles and win fame as the fastest sprinter on the force. And Joe believes in taking time by the forelock and training for his goal. He has been doing this conscientiously for a long while now, and is already something of a sprinter awheel.

Yesterday Joe was speeding through Avenue B at Seventh Street, head down and working his little legs as fast as they would go, with an imaginary automobile full of millionaires just ahead, breaking the speed laws for all they were worth. Joe was gaining fast, and was almost ready to reach out and say tag to the chauffeur, when his front wheel struck something soft. There was a scream, and Joe went tumbling over his wheel and landed, stunned, in the middle of the street.

In a moment there were fifty or more men, women, and children surrounding Joe, his bicycle, and Mrs. Ella Smith, 57 years old, of 101 Avenue B, for it was she Joe had run down in his chase of the imaginary automobile. Dr. Miller of Bellevue Hospital found that Mrs. Smith was not hurt seriously enough to go to the hospital, so he conducted her to her home. Joe in the meantime had recovered from his shock and wheeled away.

YALE STUDENTS FINED.

Found Guilty of Resisting the Police at a Recent Fire.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 19.—"Dutch" Goebel and "Pop" Foster, the Yale football guards and heavyweight wrestlers, were to-day found guilty of disorderly conduct and resisting police officers at a fire two weeks ago, when an encounter occurred between several hundred undergraduates and the police, in which Foster's nose was broken and Goebel's head was badly cut by a billy.

Goebel was fined $35 and Foster $15, aside from the costs, which will be at least $100 for each student to pay. Charles H. Gilbert of Brooklyn and Benjamin Wallis of Boston, two other Yale students who were arrested at the fire, were declared not guilty. Wallis is stroke of the Yale crew, which will row Cornell at the American Henley races Saturday. Goebel and Foster's friends say that they plan to bring civil suits against the police.

Dean Rogers and Prof. Wurts of the Yale Law School have denounced the clubbing of the athletes. Thomas Van Alstyne, son of a former Albany Mayor, is in a serious condition at the Yale infirmary with a clot of blood on the brain following a pounding received at the same fire.

CALMLY WAITS DEATH FROM HYDROPHOBIA

William H. Marsh, Brooklyn Manufacturer, Told He Has Only Three Days to Live.

TAKES VERDICT HEROICALLY

Discovering too late to be cured that he was suffering from hydrophobia, William H. Marsh, a manufacturer of water meters, is waiting, as he believes, for death at his home, 74 Ocean Avenue, Brooklyn.

Accepting the verdict of the physicians at the Pasteur Institute that there was no hope for him, Mr. Marsh has resigned himself to what he regards as the inevitable, and is calmly awaiting the end.

The case is one of the strangest and most pathetic that has ever come to the attention of the experts at the institute. About six weeks ago a spaniel puppy which had strayed into Mr. Marsh's office, at 249 Robinson Street, and been permitted to remain a few days, was attacked and bitten in front of the place by a dog suffering from rabies. A veterinarian who was called found that the puppy had been only scratched.

Mr. Marsh thought no more about the matter until ten days later, when the spaniel died in convulsions. Even then he had not the faintest fear that there was anything wrong with himself. On Saturday last, however, the dread truth began to reveal itself.

On that day, he had a strange nervous attack, the muscles of his face and throat being particularly affected. He also discovered, to his bewilderment, that he could not drink water. On Monday he experienced a mild sort of convulsion, and, becoming uneasy, went to a physician, who informed Mr. Marsh that he had symptoms of hydrophobia. Mr. Marsh hurried to the Pasteur Institute, and there the physicians gave him a thorough examination, which confirmed the diagnosis of his own physician. He was informed that he was in an advanced stage of hydrophobia.

Mr. Marsh then recalled that at the time the spaniel was bitten he had a hangnail on one of his fingers which was sore. He had permitted the pet puppy to lick his hand, and in this way the poison was introduced into his blood.

The physicians at the institute gave Mr. Marsh treatment and told him to return yesterday. On this second visit it was apparent that the malady was progressing.

"The treatment," the physicians told him, with some hesitation, "has not had the slightest effect on you. You have waited too long before seeking this aid. We are convinced that neither our treatment nor any other can save you."

Mr. Marsh heard them through calmly and accepted their verdict bravely. After a moment's thought he asked, without a tremor in his voice:

"You say there is no hope. How much time do you give me?"

The physicians were plainly distressed at the question. They consulted, and then one of them, apparently with more courage than the others, turned to Mr. Marsh and replied:

"Not long—probably not more than three days."

Mr. Marsh faced the prospect of dying in the agonies of hydrophobia without exhibiting the slightest fear. His face was drawn and his expression profoundly sad, but he talked quietly and coolly.

"Well," said he, "if I am doomed to die I can face it like a man. Of course, I know how hard it is—I would rather die in some other way—but I am not afraid."

Shaking hands with the physicians, Mr Marsh walked with firm step out to his waiting carriage and was driven to his home. Down Broadway and across the bridge went the carriage, and none in the hurrying throngs through which it passed had the faintest idea that the well-groomed, steady-eyed man sitting within was going home to prepare to meet what he believed to be a horrible death. Before leaving the institute Mr. Marsh had told the doctors that his business interests were in the best of shape and that he believed a few days would be enough for him to settle his affairs.

At the Marsh home, which is one of the finest in Flatbush, it was said last night that Mr. Marsh had taken to his bed. He was under the care of physicians, but he himself and the members of his family seemed to feel that the end was near, his condition having steadily grown worse.

At 2 o'clock this morning Mr. Marsh's family remained about his bedside, that they might be with him as long as life remained. His physician, Dr. William H. Culinan of Linden Road, stayed in the house for the night also, although it was not believed that Mr. Marsh would die in the night. The doctor held out no hope, however, of his living beyond to-day or to-morrow.

F. S. KINNEY'S WILL FILED.

Cuts Off His Son Joel with Income from $50,000 Trust Fund.

The will of Francis S. Kinney of 135 Broadway, who died on April 4 last at his home, 19 West Fifty-fourth Street, was filed for probate in the Surrogates' Office yesterday. The value of the estate is given as over $10,000 each in real and personal property, but the will disposes of property valued at over $2,000,000.

The income from a $25,000 trust fund is left to Bridget Gallagher, his housekeeper. On her death the principal reverts to the residuary estate. The same conditions prevail in a trust fund of $50,000 in favor of the testator's son, Joel. Should the latter contest the will, the $50,000 is to be divided between the other three children. The sum of $750,000 is to form the nucleus of a trust fund in favor of his son Warren, who is to receive the income from it for life. At his death the principal is to go to his children. Should he die without issue, it is to be divided between the testator's children Beatrice and Morris, or their children. A like provision is made for his son Morris.

The residuary estate is to be divided equally between his children, Beatrice, Warren, and Morris.

DISMISSES OUR CONSUL.

Britain Cancels the Exequatur of J. H. Shirley at Charlottetown.

LONDON, May 19.—The Gazette tonight publishes the quite unusual notification of the withdrawal of a Consular Exequatur. The individual in this case is an American, John H. Shirley, the Consular representative of the United States at Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island. The notice is dated at the Foreign Office, May 16, and reads:

"With reference to the notification that appeared in The London Gazette Feb. 1, 1907, it is hereby notified that his Majesty's Exequatur issued in favor of John H. Shirley as Consul of the United States at Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, has been withdrawn."

ALL THE CLASS DUCKED NOW.

N. Y. University Freshmen Have All Undergone the Stunt Bloch Dodged.

There was a ducking bee at New York University yesterday afternoon, the victims, numbering about a score, being the members of the football squad, whom it is forbidden to haze in the football season, and other unfortunates of the freshman class who entered the university after the time-honored Hallowe'en "stunt" had taken place.

Henry Bloch, the freshman whose protest against the ducking which is accorded to every first-year man caused the whole junior class to be suspended, was an interested spectator of the event.

The duckees came near getting more than a fair share of hazing for the water in the fountain wherein freshmen are immersed was low and the upper classmen suggested that a swim in the Harlem would be good for some of them. President Arthur Sherin of the Student Body vetoed this move.

AIRSHIP IN SHORT FLIGHT.

Baldwin Machine Again Has Mishaps in Hammondsport Tests.

HAMMONDSPORT, N. Y., May 19.—Lieut. Selfridge made two flights this afternoon in Baldwin's aeroplane White Wing. In the first experiment the machine ran 210 feet in 6⅓ seconds on the race track before leaving the ground, and made a flight of 100 feet in 2 seconds at an elevation of 3 feet and ran 210 feet on rough ground after landing without injury to the running gear.

In the second experiment the machine made a steady flight of 240 feet at an elevation of at least 20 feet in the air, but landed badly in a newly plowed field. The aeroplane is uninjured, but the truck carrying the front wheel plowed into the ground and the front wheel was injured. The damage will be easily repaired.

DOG DIES SAVING BOY.

Tries to Drag Parents to Drowning Son and Is Killed as Mad.

Special to The New York Times.

RICHMOND, Va., May 19.—Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McAllister of Quinton owe their happiness to-day to the fidelity and faithfulness of a setter dog. On Saturday their little four-year-old son tumbled into a creek. The dog succeeded in dragging the boy to land, and then sped home.

The animal sprang upon Mrs. McAllister, pulling and tugging at her garments in an effort to induce her to follow him. Mrs. McAllister, thinking the dog was mad, began to scream. Her husband struck the dog over the head with a club, cracking his skull. The dog, even with a broken head, succeeded in leading McAllister to the side of the half-drowned boy, after which he crawled off into the woods and died.

THE PETER RICKMERS AFIRE.

The Stranded Oil Ship Is Now Burning Up on Jones's Beach.

FREEPORT, L. I., May 19.—The oil steamer Peter Rickmers, which went ashore between Jones's Inlet and Zach's Inlet some time ago, with 125,000 cases of oil as a cargo, took fire this afternoon and is likely to burn for many days. There were still 100,000 cases of oil on board.

It is not known how the fire originated, but there is a theory that the oystermen set fire to the ship, as the leaking oil was a menace to the oysters and clams along shore.

TO RESCUE CONSUL MOFFAT.

Gunboat Paducah Will Take Him from La Guayra to Naval Station.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—To rescue Thomas P. Moffat, Consul at La Guayra, Venezuela, from that plague-stricken place, as no steamships are touching at the port, the gunboat Paducah, now at Willemstad, will go to Porto Cabello and get into wire communication with him. When the latter is prepared to leave, the gunboat will proceed to La Guayra and anchor in the offing, and the Consul will take a small craft from the city.

When he is aboard, the Paducah will proceed to the American naval station at Guantanamo, thus avoiding any quarantine regulations.

HOUSE IN NEWARK DYNAMITED

Building Wrecked and Fire Completes the Destruction.

A terrific explosion blew out the entire front of the two lower stories of a three-story vacant and unfinished dwelling at 47 Division Street, Newark, shortly after 9 o'clock last night. Bricks and pieces of woodwork were scattered about the street, and all the buildings in the neighborhood were shaken, but no one was injured and no other damage was done.

Fire destroyed what was left of the house. Mrs. V. M. Sibilia, the owner, could tell nothing about the explosion, and said that she knew of no one who would want to destroy her property.

NINTH ATTEMPT OF FIREBUGS.

Woman Sees Blazing Rags Being Lowered Into Threatened Tenement.

For the ninth time within the last two months an attempt was made shortly after 11 o'clock last night to burn the five-story tenement house, at 138 West Twenty-ninth Street.

Mrs. Annie Myers, who lives on the top floor saw a blazing ball of paper and rags, which had been soaked in kerosene being lowered from the scuttle into the airshaft by a cord. It fell to the ground floor in the airshaft. Mrs. Myers poured water on it and put it out.

The house is owned by Aaron Coleman of 204 West Thirty-fourth Street. The tenants are in a panic over the determined efforts being made to burn them out.

MURDER AND SUICIDE TO STOP A WEDDING

George E. Sterry, Wealthy Drug Merchant, Killed by His Son, Who Then Shoots Himself.

DID IT "TO AVOID DISGRACE"

Son Leaves This Excuse in a Note—Cards Had Been Ordered for Merchant's Marriage to a Teacher.

George E. Sterry, Jr., Secretary of the Weaver & Sterry Company, Limited, one of the oldest wholesale drug firms in the country, with offices and warerooms for fifty years at 79 Pine Street, shot and killed his father yesterday a few minutes before noon as the elder man sat at his desk, and then put a bullet into his own head at exactly the same point in the right temple, where he had shot his father. Both died instantly. The father was President of the drug company, was interested in a number of others, and was accounted a millionaire.

The cause of the parricide and suicide was that the father, whose name was also George E. Sterry, had decided to marry on June 3, Miss Rachel Blaikie, a school teacher of East Orange, N. J. The four sons had known for six months about the intended marriage. They all opposed it, and the murderer left a letter saying that he would not allow his father to disgrace the memory of his sainted mother. He had prayed over the matter sometimes as often as twenty times a day, he said in the letter, and he felt that God had prompted him to kill his father.

Thought God Told Him to Kill.

The son wrote the letter at 11 o'clock yesterday morning. The murder and suicide came at about 11:55 o'clock. What George Sterry, Jr., said to George Sterry, Sr., between the time of the writing of the letter and the double tragedy is not known. Most likely they were arguing over the matter of the wedding. Tiffany had the order for the wedding announcements. The old man had already written out an announcement, which was evidently intended for the newspapers, though stories of the approaching marriage have been published at odd times for six months. The letter found in the pocket of the son follows:

> To whom it may concern, (the Coroner first, I presume):
> I took a solemn oath (to myself) that my father should never disgrace the memory of my sainted mother.
> There is not a taint of selfishness in me, and had my father engaged himself to a lady of mature age, I would not have, and certainly none of my brothers would have, bade him more than luck and trust he would live forever.
> I certainly always desired a long and happy life for my good "old man," a term which I frequently affectionately used to call him.
> Now, no one is in my confidence, but my brothers may draw a conclusion from my double murder. There is a point which struck me as particularly interesting, and while riding down on the Ninth Avenue elevated train I cast casual glances on those around me, as they doubtless did on me.
> The thought I wish to convey is this: How many thousands would have stared me out of countenance had they known the prominent captions my double crime would warrant to-morrow.
> There is a a comical and laughable end to this. I would willingly give $500 to Rachael D. Blaikie to hear the beautiful and touching prayer for salvation of my soul she will offer up. Of course I am under a violent strain. Many of my sentences may not be grammatical and many may be crude.
> It seems to me that God had told me to do what I propose doing. I prayed to God no less than twenty times a day to show me another way out of this trouble; and I truthfully believe He has shown me the proper way to save my family from disgrace.
> Another point I desire to mention: Two seconds after my father starts, I will follow, as the poor old man needs a guide and a guardian. Should we ever run across some of that bunch from East Orange, we will glide up a side street.

Sterry Firm an Old One.

The offices of the firm at 79 Pine Street and 166 Pearl Street reflect the age of the company. It was about 1860 when George E. Sterry started in business there with a partner named Weaver. The firm imported and manufactured a great many drugs, dealing largely in licorice. It has had a factory for years in New Jersey.

The four-story building in Pine Street was connected with the one opening out in Pearl Street. But neither building was ever changed, nor the furniture, nor the clerks and other employes unless death took away one or increasing business called for the addition of another. The desks are of aged dark wood and all the rest of the office furniture shows that many years have gone by since it was new.

The name "Weaver" is retained in the firm's name because it was there long ago. The company was composed almost wholly of the Sterry family. George E. Sterry was President, George E., Jr., was Secretary, and William De Witt Sterry was Treasurer. James W. and John D., two other sons, were also Directors, the only other Director being David D. Kirby, who has been connected with the firm for many years. He began as clerk. He is now General Manager.

The senior Sterry as President occupied a little office by himself. It opened into the larger office, which was occupied by George E., Jr., and William De Witt. Both offices opened into a little hallway just at the head of the stairs. The elder Sterry's office has a window opening out into an airshaft, and his desk was right by the window.

Yesterday morning George E. Sterry, Jr., came to the office soon after 9 o'clock, went to his desk, on the second floor, and opened the mail. He made notations on the letters, indicating what the answers should be.

At about the same time William De Witt Sterry, the Treasurer, arrived and took his desk in the larger office. Soon after 10 o'clock the father, who was about 72 years old, entered his small office. De Witt heard his brother George say to his father:

"How are things now, father?"

The elder man answered with seeming cheerfulness. De Witt thought the question and answer were simply morning greetings. They might, however, have referred to some previous argument on matters which had been left hanging for decision, the police thought later. This is the story of the shooting and the events which led up to it, as told to Coroner Harburger, who took charge of the case not long after the murder and suicide and examined all the witnesses in the little office in the presence of the two dead men.

Son's Story of the Crime.

William De Witt Sterry said:

"I am the oldest son. I am 45 years old. My father was over 70. I live at Roselle Park, N. J., and I am married. I saw my father last at 11:30 o'clock this morning, when I went out of the office in there to get luncheon. I went a little earlier than usual, because I knew that he had an engagement at 12:30 o'clock, and I wanted to be here when he went out.

"I went over to Delmonico's and took a little lunch standing up. I got back here just a minute or so after 12. As soon as I entered the storeroom downstairs I saw my brother Jim sitting in a chair. He was in a fainting condition. He moaned:

"'Don't go upstairs.'

"'Why?' I asked.

"'There have been two shots up there,' he answered.

"I called to General Manager Kirby. We went up; we saw this sight. The revolver was in my brother's hand. He was sitting in that chair, within a few feet of my father's desk. My father still sat before his desk. The wounds in both their right temples were horrible. They both held papers."

It was found that the father held in his hand a stock market report, while the son had an afternoon paper of Monday. He had evidently picked this up after shooting his father, and had covered his eyes with it. Continuing his testimony Mr. Sterry said:

"George and I came in at about the same time this morning, about 9 o'clock. George was a few minutes behind me. Father came some time later. George went out for a few minutes during the morning. He behaved as usual."

The oldest son went on to say that there was no financial difficulty that could have anything to do with the murder and suicide. The company was in good condition, and its business was increasing all the time.

"How do you account for what has happened here?" asked Coroner Harburger.

"I cannot account for it," went on Mr. Sterry. "It may be that my brother was crazy for the time. I never heard any words between my father and my brother."

James W. Sterry, the fourth and youngest son of the dead man and a Director of the company, the dead son being the second, said:

"I am 38 years old. I lived with my father at 21 West Seventy-fourth Street. I was the only brother downstairs at the time of the shooting. I was at my desk. I heard two shots, and I told one of the clerks to go up and see what was the matter. I was afraid."

"What were you afraid of?" asked Coroner Harburger.

"I just didn't want to go up, that's all."

"Is there any possibility that anybody else did this thing?" asked Coroner Harburger.

"I wasn't an eye-witness. I don't know. I never saw a pistol in this house. My brother George was of a warm and genial disposition. He was steady and methodical. He drank a little, was nervous, and of late had worried a good deal about his eyes. He was married and lived at the Manhattan Square Hotel, 50 West Seventy-seventh Street."

Intended Wedding Caused Crime.

Asked why his brother had killed his father, James W. Sterry said that his father had been a widower for three or four years and that he had intended to marry again early in June. Asked if this had caused any dissatisfaction among the four sons the witness said:

"We all talked about it. We opposed it, but I don't think it could have caused such a terrible thing."

On the desk in front of the elder Sterry Coroner Harburger found this letter:

> Dear Brother George: I have to plead to you once more. You see by this that we must get out if you do not send $25. I promise not to ask again for a cent. The landlord says that if we do not get the money we will have to get out.

The address on the letter was 101 St. Nicholas Avenue. There is no such house number in this city. James W. Sterry said the letter was from a sister-in-law of his father, to whom the latter often gave money. The letter was signed "Tillie." The son was quite sure that the letter had no connection with the crime. It related to a piece of charity, he went on, and he didn't care to go any further into the details of it.

Imer T. Sterry of 224 West 114th Street, a nephew of old Mr. Sterry, and the Custom House clerk for the firm, was the man sent up by James Sterry to see what the shots meant. He said:

"I was downstairs. I heard the two shots. I knew that no one was in the second floor offices except George Sterry and his father. Jim Sterry said to me, 'For God's sake go up and see what's the matter.' I got to the top of the stairs. I looked through the door leading from the big office into my uncle's office. I could just see his chair in front of the desk. I saw the old man lying there in his chair with the hole in his head. I ran back downstairs. I telephoned for the police."

David D. Kirby, the General Manager, said that he was 62 years old and lived at White Plains. He had been with the company for a great many years. He had known the Sterry boys all their lives. He had been a director of the company only a year. Mr. Kirby said:

"I heard from the sons that their father was going to marry again. I also saw something about it in the newspapers. All the sons objected to the marriage, but I didn't notice that George objected any more than the others. I did not go upstairs to see the bodies until Will came back from luncheon. We came up together. At both the Pine and Pearl Street doors there are many old employes. No stranger could have got in here without their knowing it."

Two or three clerks were examined. They could throw no additional light on the case. John D. Sterry, the third son, who travels for the firm, is in Cincinnati.

When Coroner Harburger arrived, followed by Dr. O'Hanlon, his physician, he found the two dead bodies in their chairs. The 38-calibre pistol had been taken out of the hand of the son by a policeman. It was a Smith & Wesson pistol of an old pattern.

Both Died Instantly.

Dr. O'Hanlon found that the bullets had entered the right temple of both men at the same spot. The bullets had gone upward, fracturing the skull. Death must have been instantaneous, he thought.

The father, tall, thin, and gray, had his coat on. The son was in his shirt sleeves. He had come in through the door connecting the two offices. There had been no struggle. Evidently the younger man had walked up to his father, seated, had pressed the pistol to the skull and fired. The hair around the old man's temple was singed. And then, hiding from his view with an old newspaper the awful spectacle before him, the younger man had seated himself not six feet away and had ended it all.

The Coroner and the police searched the two dead men and the two offices. They found no will, and could not learn of any from the sons. They found on the younger man the letter which has been given above. It was written in a shaky hand; the writer must have been under a great strain when he scribbled it. The Coroner and the police discovered in a pocket of the father the following notice written in the old man's hand:

> MARRIED.

Miss Blaikie's Wedding Plans.

Miss Rachel Biggs Blaikie had made all preparations for the wedding. She resigned her place in a Newark school on May 1 and devoted her time to arranging for the wedding and for the European trip that was to follow. She lives at 67 Prospect Street, East Orange, in a boarding house, and a sister, Lillie, also a school teacher, lives near by.

The two sisters were at Newark yesterday afternoon when they heard about what had happened. They hurried home, and the elder sister was so prostrated that she sent for a physician. The younger Miss Blaikie said she had not heard her sister say anything about a quarrel between Mr. Sterry and his sons as to his marriage. There might have been a dispute, however, without her knowing of it, since the elder Miss Blaikie was very reticent, Miss Lillie Blaikie said.

Neither the Blaikies nor the Sterrys would say whether or not Mr. Sterry had made a will. They only knew that the young woman had made great preparations for the European trip, which was to take up all the Summer.

Miss Rachel Blaikie is the daughter of the late William Blaikie, author of "How to Get Strong and How to Stay So," a lawyer and an authority on athletics. He was an oarsman at Yale. The family lived for a number of years at Englewood, N. J. Mr. Blaikie died two years ago. MissBlaikie who is 38 years old, has lived in East Orange for fifteen years. Her brother, Cameron, returned to Englewood after his father's death. The wedding was to have taken place there June 3.

The Sterry and Blaikie families had long known each other. The Misses Blaikie were very good friends of the first Mrs. George Sterry, and after her death some four years ago the father began paying attentions to Miss Rachel. He often visited her at East Orange and at Englewood. Their attachment to one another was noticed, and last January the newspapers printed a story to the effect that the wedding was soon to take place. Mr. Sterry did not deny the engagement.

Besides being President of Weaver & Sterry, Limited, the elder Sterry was President of the Bloomfield Mills Company and a Director of the Spring Coal Mining Company. He was a Director of the Princeton Theological Seminary, and was on the Board of Managers of both the American Tract Society and the American Bible Society. He had been an Elder of the Fourth Avenue Presbyterian Church, at Twenty-first Street, for many years.

George Sterry, Jr., was a Princeton graduate. At a reception given by the elder Mrs. George Sterry to the younger Mrs. George Sterry in 1902 Mrs. Russell Sage assisted in receiving. A year or so previous to that young George Sterry had got into the papers because of the receipt of a sealed package which contained a snake. It was said to be an asp. The young man fled the town to escape interviewers. The handwriting on the package was thought to be that of a woman.

Young Mrs. Sterry Prostrated.

Many newspaper men gathered yesterday afternoon at the Manhattan Square Hotel after the shooting. Mrs. George Sterry, Jr., had heard over the telephone a vague account of what had happened. She came down to the clerk's desk, pleading:

"Tell me, tell me, for God's sake, what has happened. Let me know the truth."

She was told. She collapsed, and a physician was called to attend her.

After the murder and suicide yesterday the old employes in the ancient building went creeping around in the semi-darkness as if they were stunned. They couldn't answer a question. When asked whether a flight of stairs in plain view led up to the second floor they shook their heads, saying:

"We don't know."

They whispered in dark corners. They crept over to the doors that looked out on Pine and Pearl Streets, and, pressing their faces against the glass, looked unseeingly out upon the morbid crowds that fought with the policeman to get near the closed doors.

The sexton from the Fourth Avenue Presbyterian Church went to the store, took away the two bodies of the tall, pale men, with the red holes in their heads, and the old employes shut up the store and filed out, shaking their heads and muttering:

"Georgie killed his father."

SLAIN SHEPHERDS BURIED.

Thousands at Funeral in Brooklyn—Zastera, the Slayer, May Be Insane.

Thousands of persons stood about the entrances of the Church of St. John the Evangelist, in Twenty-first Street, near Fifth Avenue, Brooklyn, yesterday morning, when the funeral services of Mr. and Mrs. William Rauer Sheppard, the victims of Frank Zastera, the young art student, were held. The services were held in the same little church that the couple were married in about two years ago. The Rev. Father Thomas S. Duhigg, who married them, said a solemn requiem mass over their bodies yesterday.

Mrs. Ryan, the mother of the slain young wife, fainted twice on the way to the cemetery. A physician accompanied her, and last night her condition was reported to be alarming.

Special to The New York Times.

FREEHOLD, N. J., May 19.—Anton Zastera, the father of Frank Zastera, the slayer of the Sheppards and their servant, when here yesterday, consulted William T. Hoffman of Englishtown, former Judge in Hudson County, with the view of employing him as counsel.

Frank Zastera was taken from the county jail this morning at 4 o'clock by Assistant Prosecutor Stokes, County Clerk McDermott, and Detective Cosgrove, and driven in an automobile to the scene of the crime. Shown the blood of his victims on the floors and walls in an effort to break his nerve and compel him to reveal the hiding place of the money stolen from his victims, he showed no emotion, and a search for the money proved fruitless.

The opinion that Zastera is insane is growing.

HID FROM POLICE ALL DAY

Victim's Relatives Accuse Him of Refusing to Give an Antidote and Changing a Label.

Morris Schwarz, one of the proprietors of the Owl Drug Store, at Sixth Avenue and Twenty-sixth Street, surrendered to the police last night to answer for having caused the death of Eduardo Eraso, the rich Venezuelan coffee planter, and the serious illness of Señora Eraso, by erroneously substituting atropine sulphide for sparteine sulphide in a prescription for nervous trouble he filled for Señor Eraso on Monday afternoon.

It is charged by the relatives of Señor Eraso that Schwarz, rather than acknowledge his mistake in compounding the prescription, changed the label on the mixture he had compounded; that for the same reason he declined to administer an antidote, merely suggesting that Eraso should go back to the Victoria Hotel and drink coffee and seltzer, and that he even went so far as to say that if Eraso thought he wanted an antidote he had better get it in another store.

Señora Eraso, who also took some of the atropine mixture and was made ill by it, recovered only through the quick wit of a maid who took no chances, but administered an emetic as soon as her mistress was taken ill. Señora Eraso was approaching convalescence last night.

Search for Druggist.

Schwarz surrendered only after diligent search had been made for him all day by Capt. McCauley and detectives of the West Twentieth Street Police Station. This was after an autopsy had shown that the dead man's stomach contained enough atrophine to kill several persons, and it was equally certain that sparteine had been prescribed as one of the ingredients of the compound. All day the police sought Schwarz in the two drug stores in which he is interested, one at Sixth Avenue and Twenty-sixth Street and another at 1,010 Third Avenue, near Sixtieth Street.

Shortly after 8 o'clock last night, however, Coroner Acritelli was called on the telephone and informed that Schwarz was ready to surrender to the police, provided bail would be accepted. The Coroner said that bail would be fixed at $5,000, and advised Schwarz that he would be at the Twentieth Street Police Station at 9 o'clock. Schwarz arrived there with his counsel and bondsman shortly after that hour and was immediately placed under arrest. A charge of homicide was entered against him on the blotter. His bail bond was signed by H. Stein, a butcher, of 1,833 Amsterdam Avenue, and Schwarz left the station, accompanied by his attorney and Stein. He would make no statement.

Arrived Here a Week Ago.

Señor Eraso, accompanied by his wife and son, who is 20 years old, left Caracas to escape the bubonic plague which is now epidemic there. They intended to go to Europe next week, so that Señora Eraso, who suffers from rheumatism, could take the baths at Carlsbad. They arrived in this city on May 12 and went to the Victoria, where they took the most expensive suite in the hotel.

Accompanying the Erasos were Carmelita Lupez de Ceballo, a sister-in-law; Gertrude Lupez de Ceballo, mother-in-law of Señor Eraso; his uncle, Marieno Palacios, and Dr. Pedro Mendozo. On their arrival here they were joined by Dr. Carlos Leon, ex-Minister of Education in Venezuela.

The party spent their time here in sightseeing. On Monday afternoon they went out for an automobile ride in Riverside Drive. As they returned past Grant's Tomb, Señor Eraso complained of feeling ill and suggested that they hurry back to the hotel, so that he could take some medicine which had been prescribed for him in such an emergency by Dr. Kennedy of Caracas before the party left the Venezuelan capital.

Arriving at the hotel, Señor Eraso went to his apartments, accompanied by his wife. He opened the trunk in which he had placed the bottle of medicine, and found that it had been broken in transit. There was, however, enough of the bottle remaining unbroken to hold the label, which also contained the prescription, which read, "Sparteina sulphate, .030; aqua distl., 150.00."

Señor Eraso went down into the lobby of the hotel and asked to be directed to the nearest drug store, and members of his party say he was sent to the Owl Drug Company, at Sixth Avenue and Twenty-sixth Street. With a nephew, Señor R. Palacios Rivas, he went to the drug store.

"Can you fill this prescription?" Señor Eraso asked the man who waited on him, according to the nephew.

"Yes; it will take only a short time. Let me have the old bottle," was the reply, the nephew says.

Effect of the Drug.

The druggist then took the bottle back of the prescription counter, apparently put up the prescription, and in a few minutes handed both bottles to Señor Eraso, who returned to the hotel.

Arriving at the Victoria he went to his apartment, where his wife asked for a dose of the medicine, as she was tired out and thought it would brace her up. Señor Eraso gave her a teaspoonful, and himself took a tablespoonful in a small quantity of water.

In a few minutes Señor Eraso complained of feeling much worse, and said he felt as if his heart would stop beating and that his eyes would burst out of his head, which are early symptoms of atropine poisoning. His wife began to show similar symptoms, and in great alarm he summoned his nephew to come up to the apartment.

What happened thereafter was told thus by the nephew last night:

"I heard what Señor Eraso said about his queer symptoms, and looked at the bottle from which he took the medicine. There appeared to be nothing wrong with it, but I suggested that it might be well to go to the drug store and tell the proprietor just what effect the medicine had produced.

"We went there at once, and Señor Eraso told the druggist of the effect the medicine had had, and suggested that there might be some mistake. The druggist looked at the bottle and said:

"'That's all right. If you feel badly from taking too much of it, go back and drink some seltzer and coffee, and it will bring you around all right.'

"We went back to the hotel, and all the time Señor Eraso appeared to be getting worse. When we got back to the hotel we found his wife in a serious condition, and in an effort to find out what the trouble was with the medicine we made another trip to the drug store. We saw the druggist again, and he asked to see the bottle of medicine.

Dispute About the Medicine.

"Señor Eraso gave him the bottle, and he took it back of the prescription desk. Returning in a short time he said: 'That medicine is the same you bought, and it is all right.'"

"'This may be the bottle and it may be the same medicine,' I told the druggist, but the label is not the same it had when the medicine was first taken from this store to the hotel. This label says 'atropine,' and is not in the prescription on the broken bottle brought to you.

"'I did not change the label. It is the same that was brought to me,' the druggist replied.

"'But can you not see the man is ill; that he has taken something he should not have taken? Do please give him an antidote,' I begged him.

"'He doesn't need anything but some seltzer and coffee, and I guess he can get that at his hotel,' said the druggist.

"'But give him something to counteract the effect of the medicine he has taken,' I urged.

"'There is another drug store down there if you think you need an antidote,' he snapped. 'I don't see why I should give an antidote when there is nothing wrong with the medicine.'"

In the meantime, according to Señor Rivas, a physician whose name could not be learned came into the drug store, and, upon being told the trouble by the druggist, gave Señor Eraso a hypodermic injection of something to relieve his suffering and advised him to hurry back to his hotel and summon a physician.

On returning to the hotel it was almost impossible for Señor Eraso to get to his apartment. There he found his wife in an unconscious condition, and within a very few minutes he, too, lost consciousness.

In the meantime Dr. F. Wesley Smith, the hotel physician, had been summoned. He arrived about 7 o'clock. He found both Señor Eraso and his wife unconscious. He was told that one of the maids had given Señora Eraso a strong emetic, and this, it is believed, saved her life. Dr. Smith gave her stimulants for the heart and then, finding that he would need assistance, telephoned for Dr. Herman Besser of 95 West 119th Street, a friend of the family.

Worked Over Him for Hours.

Then he turned his attention to Señor Eraso. He worked over him until 1 o'clock yesterday morning, at which hour he died without regaining consciousness. Mme. Eraso continued very ill throughout the night, but improved, and yesterday afternoon it was found that she could be moved to the home of Mme. De Reval, at 148 West Sixty-fifth Street, a family friend. There she will remain until she is well enough to return to Venezuela with her husband's body.

Coroner Acritelli was notified of the death and the alleged mistake in the compounding of the prescription. He gave permission for the body to be removed to Campbell's undertaking establishment, in West Twenty-third Street, where Dr. Weston, the Coroner's physician, performed an autopsy yesterday afternoon. He gave as the cause of death "acute atropine poisoning."

A conference was held with Assistant District Attorney Du Vivier, and it was decided to have all those who know anything about the tragedy appear at the Coroner's office to-day at 2 o'clock for the inquest. In the meantime a chemical analysis will be made of the contents of Señor Eraso's stomach.

As soon as Druggist Schwarz, who compounded the prescription, learned of Señor Eraso's death he disappeared from his store. Detectives searched in vain for him, and no one at the Sixth Avenue store or the branch at 1,010 Third Avenue would admit knowing where he lived. They only said he was not expected during the day.

Charles L. Bernardo, who appeared to be in charge of the Sixth Avenue store, admitted to a reporter for THE TIMES that it was Schwartz who compounded the prescription for Señor Eraso.

Schwarz Was in Hiding.

Bernado finally admitted that Schwarz was keeping himself out of the way by advice of his counsel.

"Was the bottle of atropine sulphide anywhere near the sparteine sulphide bottle, or is it possible that Schwarz misread the prescription on the bottle brought by Señor Eraso?" he was asked.

"The two bottles were beside each other in the poison closet," he replied. "I don't know that any mistake was made, but I don't know anything about it. I was not here at the time.

"Will you let me see the case from which the medicine was taken? May I see just how the bottles were placed?" asked the reporter.

"I have been directed by Mr. Schwarz's counsel not to permit any one to look into the case," said Bernardo.

"I don't know who his lawyer is. All I know is that somebody called me on the 'phone and told me not to let any one see the case."

Despite the fact that at both of the drug stores in which Schwarz is interested, the clerks told the police they did not know where he lived, and his address was in neither the Telephone nor City Directory, it developed last night that Schwarz lives over his Third Avenue store. He gave his address to the police as 177 East Sixtieth Street, which is the door leading to the apartments over the store.

The Owl Drug Company is conducted by Morris and Max Schwarz, brothers, as partners. They conduct the store at 1,010 Third Avenue, under the name of Schwarz Brothers.

Private funeral services for Señor Eraso will be held at Campbell's undertaking establishment to-morrow, at which the Rev. Father Ducey, who administered extreme unction to Señor Eraso before he died, will conduct the mass for the dead. Public services will be held in the Spanish Roman Catholic Church of Our Lady of Guadaloupe, 229 West Fourteenth Street, and the body will be placed temporarily in a vault at Calvary Cemetery until Señora Eraso recovers sufficiently from her illness to be able to return to their home in Venezuela.

Señor Eraso was a graduate of Oxford University, England, and lived at Caracas, Venezuela. He was 47 years old and was a member of one of the most prominent families in Venezuela. He has numerous coffee plantations and was a large exporter of coffee to Europe as well as to this country.

HOT FIGHT IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Both Bryanites and Their Foes Claim Victory in To-day's Convention.

HARRISBURG, Penn., May 19.—The Democratic State Convention, which meets here to-morrow, promises to be one of the warmest in the recent history of that party. The fight, which has divided the Democracy of the State, is on the question whether the convention shall send the four delegates at large to the National Convention under binding instructions to vote for William J. Bryan or whether they shall go to Denver unfettered.

Col. James M. Guffey of Pittsburg, State leader and the National Committeeman, to-night was positive that the convention will not instruct the delegates. He said that he and his followers would control the convention two to one. The Bryanites assert that they will have a safe majority, and that the delegates will go to Denver under instructions. The Executive Committee to-day formally ratified Col. Guffey's choice for temporary Chairman. The fight will be precipitated over the selection of the permanent Chairman.

FRESNO, Cal., May 19.—The Democratic State Convention to-day adopted a platform instructing the California delegation for W. J. Bryan for President, and indorsing ex-Congressman Theodore A. Ball for temporary Chairman of the National Convention.

The platform opposes monopolies and special privileges, deplores railroad activity in State affairs, declares for independence of the Philippines, favors legislation to strengthen the State Railroad Commission, and commends Commissioner Lane's efforts to force the Inter-State commerce laws; municipal control of public utilities is favored, as is the total exclusion of Asiatic laborers.

GUARDS FIRE ON MOB IN CLEVELAND STRIKE

Shots Returned and Three Hit in Rioting Around a Stalled Trolley.

CAR WAS THEN BURNED

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, May 19.—While members of the State Board of Arbitration, union leaders, and officers of the Municipal Traction Company have been trying to bring about arbitration of the street car strike, there has been much violence in various parts of the city. The police are having great difficulty in controlling the situation.

Last night and to-day dynamite was found in various parts of the city, and to-night the first serious shooting occurred on the west side, four persons being badly hurt.

From the start of the strike until this afternoon no cars have run in Lakewood, just west of the city. This afternoon, guarded by special police, several Clifton Boulevard cars were sent to Rocky River. There had been more or less trouble in Lakewood from the time the first car reached the village at 2 P. M. to-day. When the third car arrived the wire was cut in two places and the car was surrounded by a crowd of over 300. The crew ran into the car for protection. The crowd stormed the car, but could not enter.

An appeal for help was sent to Cleveland, and Chief Kohler sent 50 police to Lakewood in automobiles, but before they arrived the guards opened fire and it was returned by the mob.

A motorman and a guard were shot, one man in the crowd was struck by a bullet, and a boy was badly hurt by a flying brick. None will die.

After the fight, gasoline was thrown over the car and ignited. In an instant the car was in flames. The Lakewood Fire Department was called. The fire was extinguished, but the car was almost entirely destroyed.

To-night the violence increased. Many lines were put out of commission entirely. What cars are now running are accompanied by police in automobiles, who ride beside the tracks watching for obstructions or cut wires.

Yetta Wolinski, a little girl, was killed by a Woodland Avenue car while attempting to cross the street. Her death was said to be due to the inexperienced motorman being unable to control the car. As soon as he realized what had occurred he speeded the car several blocks ahead, where the police were notified. The conductor had left the car and sought refuge in a near-by drug store. The crowd attempted to reach him, while others attempted to catch the fleeing car and assault the motorman. The police arrived just in time to save the conductor from the mob.

The child's head was severed from the body and in the confusion the head was taken away in one ambulance and the body in another. The efforts of the parents inflamed the mob and serious trouble was narrowly averted.

At midnight the police had reports of a dozen or more cases of cars having been partially damaged by the explosion of what they term railroad torpedoes. So far as known no one had been seriously injured. A bomb was reported to have been found in a Wade Park Avenue car as it passed along Superior Avenue in the business section.

Altogether seventeen persons are said to have received minor injuries during the day and night as the result of encounters between strikers, street car employes, and the police.

To aid the police of the suburbs in the protection of cars, Sheriff McGorray has made arrangements for the employment of 200 deputies.

BRYAN HOLDS ALABAMA.

He Says the Trusts Fought Him—Gov. Johnson Not Displeased.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 19.—Additional returns to-night from yesterday's primary indicate that William J. Bryan's majority in the State will be fully three to one over Johnson. Three of the declared Bryan delegates have been elected—John W. Tomlinson of Birmingham, Congressman J. Thomas Heflin of the Fifth District, and Congressman H. D. Clayton of the Third District. The fourth place is in doubt between Capt. E. W. Booker of Birmingham, a Bryan adherent, and Dr. R. M. Cunningham of Ensley, who declared for Johnson. In South Alabama the Johnson forces received many votes.

PHILADELPHIA, May 19.—William Jennings Bryan, when asked to-day his views concerning the outcome of the primaries held in Alabama yesterday, said:

"Alabama was claimed by the opposition, and while the vote is not a surprise to me it attracts attention because the returns answered the misrepresentations which have been sent out. The primary system enables the voters to express themselves. In this respect our Democrats in the West have had an advantage over the Democrats of some of the Eastern States, where the method of selecting delegates does not give the rank and file of the party such complete control.

"I appreciate very much the fight that has been made by my friends in Pennsylvania and in Alabama. In Alabama they had the Steel Trust to fight, and in Pennsylvania they had not only the Steel Trust but several other trusts. In fact, I do not know of any other State in which our people had so much to overcome as they had in Pennsylvania. The vote which I received here at the recent primaries answered the misrepresentations that the Eastern papers had made in regard to the sentiment in Pennsylvania, and the same may be said of Alabama."

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 19.—Gov. Johnson tok his defeat in Alabama very cheerfully, saying it was nothing more than he expected.

"I was practically unknown down there," he said. "Had I received 40 per cent. of the vote I would have looked on it as quite a victory, and 25 per cent. would have been complimentary. My friends have tried to make me believe that I would win there, but I was satisfied that I would not. Mr. Bryan is well known personally in that part of the country, having traveled extensively there, and has made many addresses in that section. They also tried to make me believe that I was solid in California, but I was not so sanguine as some of my friends have been."

INDICT MERCHANTS FOR FORGING BOOKS

FIRST CASE OF THE KIND

Action the First Step in a Campaign to Stop Wholesale Frauds on City Merchants.

After an investigation by the Grand Jury into the affairs of Brown & Taub, jobbers in dry goods, of 850 Canal Street, against whom a petition in bankruptcy was filed on Jan. 18 last, five indictments were returned yesterday against Louis Brown and Morris Taub, the members of the firm, charging forgery in the third degree. Late yesterday afternoon both men surrendered, and were later released after furnishing substantial bail.

The proceedings before the Grand Jury were conducted by Assistant District Attorney William P. Bosler, who was assisted in preparing the case by Julius Henry Cohen, the latter representing the Bear Mill Manufacturing Company and A. G. Hyde & Sons, two of the largest creditors. The case is considered to be of the utmost importance to business men, inasmuch as it is the first time in the history of the commercial world that such indictments have been returned in such a proceeding.

It is alleged that Brown & Taub, in making returns to various commercial agencies, supplied false figures in order to obtain credit from the wholesale houses with whom they did business. It is also alleged that on Jan. 1, 1907, a false set of books was opened for the same purpose, the correct books being destroyed in October or November. It is the latter act, as well as the opening of the false books, that constitutes the basis for the indictments for forgery.

Most active in bringing about the prosecution of Brown & Taub have been William P. Myhan, credit man of the Bear Mill Company, and Thomas A. Maguire, who holds a similar position with A. G. Hyde & Sons. They took up the case in the interest of the wholesale houses, in an effort to put a stop to a state of things which has been increasing at a great rate recently.

In December, 1906, when the period for making the usual annual statement to the commercial agencies was nearing, Brown & Taub found that they had been losing money during the previous year. It became necessary, therefore, to start afresh. They hired an accountant to open a set of books and gave him an inventory of merchandise amounting to about $50,000, whereas, according to the evidence adduced, the actual inventory only amounted to about $25,000.

They kept out of these books certain obligations, which they subsequently paid off after the first of the year, by charging half to each partner's account. In this way they were able to make a "surplus" of $52,000, while as a matter of fact they had less than $11,000 surplus.

The accountant, two weeks later, was called upon to audit the old books, each partner being suspicious of the other. He discovered the falsity of the new books, but it was not until he was examined before Commissioner Alexander in the bankruptcy proceedings, that he was compelled to disclose these facts and to produce the original sheets. The old books have since been lost.

In September, 1907, it was discovered that Bernard Zolty had been engaged with buyers of Charles Broadway Rouss in swindling Rouss by means of padded invoices. It was found that Zolty obtained the goods which were shipped to Rouss from Brown & Taub. All of these circumstances became the subject of an investigation by the District Attorney.

Following investigations by Special Government Attorney Beach, who prosecuted former Assistant Statistician Edwin H. Holmes, Jr., of the Department of Agriculture in Washington last year for "conspiring to defraud the Government" by giving out crop report information, forty-seven members of the Cotton Exchange were subpoenaed yesterday to appear before the Federal Grand Jury.

While none of the men subpoenaed would tell what the subject under investigation was, it was generally understood among the cotton men yesterday that the Federal authorities are seeking additional evidence against Holmes, whom the Government failed to convict.

MAE C. WOOD'S CASE AGAINST PLATT RESTS

BRINGS LOEB INTO THE CASE

Alleged Confession of J. Martin Miller, "Secret Service Agent," That Love Letters Were Taken from Her.

Charles Le Barbier, counsel for Mae C. Wood, who is suing United States Senator Platt for a divorce on the ground of the Senator's marriage to Mrs. Lillian Janeway, rested his case yesterday afternoon, contenting himself with only his client's evidence to establish the marriage which Senator Platt so strenuously denies. John B. Stanchfield, counsel for Mr. Platt, immediately moved to dismiss the suit, declaring that the marriage had not been proved, but Supreme Court Justice O'Gorman denied the motion, and Mr. Stanchfield opened the defense by reading into the record the depositions of two witnesses taken by a commission.

During part of the morning session District Attorney Jerome was an interested spectator of the proceedings, sitting to the right of Justice O'Gorman. He listened intently to the story of Mrs. Wood, and seemed particularly interested in her answers regarding the marriage certificate elicited by the searching cross-examination of Mr. Stanchfield. Senator Platt asserts that the certificate is a forgery.

Could Have Had $50,000, She Says.

Mr. Stanchfield took up her cross-examination on the ten-thousand-dollar receipt signed by her in Abraham Hummel's office. She said she knew the money came from Mr. Platt, and added that she could have obtained $50,000, but she knew the lawyers too well to take it. This was on the morning of Oct. 13, 1903. J. Martin Miller, whom she described as a Secret Service official, had called for her at the Hotel Victoria, and forced her to go to Hummel's office. After she had been locked up there all day, and subjected to the "third dergree," she said, Hummel paid her $7,500 and she surrendered the Platt letters. She was positive that she never retained Hummel. She admitted that the signatures on the release and receipt were in her handwriting.

A letter was then introduced which Mrs. Wood wrote to Hummel early in 1904. In it she said Hummel was the only man she could trust. Asked what she meant by that, after she had said that he had forced the Platt letters from her, she smilingly replied, "I was only flattering him."

"Were you not trying by these letters to obtain more money from Platt?" asked Mr. Stanchfield.

The witness denied this. She said that Hummel told her he had retained $2,500 out of the $10,000 for his services. Mr. Stanchfield then read a number of extracts from letters written by Mrs. Wood to Hummel after she had received the $7,500. In one she said:

> Miller took the Platt letters to the White House, and showed them to Loeb, and he told Miller to bring them back.

Another read:

> Your letter received. I will prepare a little typewritten statement which you can show to Mr. —. He can show it to his client, and it will be a surprise. Old Platt threatens me if I probe any gossip about old Janeway. I don't know whether they intend to murder me, or how they propose to destroy me.

Still another ran:

> Not for a million coin of the realm would I stand in the way of a hostess entertaining the Platts. If the Platts only knew how satisfied I am they would not let me know how they are being done up socially. You are the only person I have met in years who does exactly as they say they will.

She explained that the last sentence was meant ironically.

"You still say you were not trying to get more money from Senator Platt?" asked Mr. Stanchfield.

"I was not," she replied emphatically.

The Marriage Proposal Again.

Mr. Stanchfield then wanted to know all about the marriage proposal, which she swore Senator Platt made to her while they were seated on the veranda of a Manhattan Beach hotel. It was a Saturday afternoon, she said, and the weather was dark and gloomy. She was not a bit surprised when the point of the proposal was reached, she testified.

"But didn't you swear yesterday that you were astounded at the proposal?" asked Mr. Stanchfield.

"No; I told him it was so sudden, and that he didn't know anything about me. He assured me that he knew all about me, from the moment I was born."

"Was the day for the marriage fixed?"

"Yes, the following Saturday."

Mrs. Wood said that marriage had been talked of between them on several occasions before, and denied that she had previously testified that this was the first occasion on which the subject was mentioned.

They were married on the following Saturday, she said. The arrangements for the ceremony were discussed after the proposal. She said nothing was arranged about having the ceremony performed by a minister of any particular denomination. The witness was then brought down to the wedding. She swore she did not see the certificate signed, this being done in an adjoining room. It sets forth that the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Edward W. Rice.

"Didn't you write this certificate?" suddenly asked Mr. Stanchfield.

"I did not."

"Didn't you write the words 'New York?'"

"I don't think so; I don't remember."

Pressed for a definite reply, Mrs. Wood said loudly and slowly, "I did not."

She also denied writing the name "Catherine" in the certificate. She said Mr. Platt introduced the minister to her, but he mumbled the name so, that she didn't understand what he said, although it sounded like Mr. Rice. There was also another man present, who was the witness, she said. His nmae, she thought, was Jones.

"Was Mr. Rice an Episcopalian?"

Mrs. Wood answered that she thought not, as she knew it was contrary to custom for an Episcopalian minister to marry a divorced person. She, however, admitted that she did not tell the minister she was a divorcee, although she presumed Mr. Platt did.

"You are very clever at disguising your handwriting, are you not?"

Mrs. Wood indignantly repudiated this. She was then asked about the inscription "My little wife," which she admitted writing at the bottom of a large photo of Mr. Platt, with the latter's help. She said that while she sat on his lap she held his hand while he wrote the inscription. He wrote with his right hand she said.

"Does not Mr. Platt's right hand tremble so much that he cannot write with it?"

"Perhaps, after he has had a lot of 'dope' down him."

Asked whether she had ever seen him take 'dope,' Mrs. Wood said she had. Immediately she hastened to explain that by 'dope' she meant medicine and stimulants.

In Washington Incognito.

A visit to Washington on Dec. 20, 1906, by Mrs. Wood and another woman was then taken up. She admitted that they went to the Arlington Hotel where Senator Platt was staying, and there registered under assumed names. The reason of her visit was to obtain her rights, she testified. While at the hotel, she said she saw Mr. Platt one day in the lobby with a woman, and that he blinked at her. At that time she had read of his marriage to Mrs. Janeway.

Mr. Stanchfield handed her a letter alleged to be signed by Mr. Platt, and asked:

"Then if Mr. Platt signed this paper he acknowledged he was guilty of bigamy?"

"That's not for me to say. He had ample time to decide whether he wanted to sign that confession."

The letter was not read.

She was further asked about the four letters, copies of which were introduced by her counsel on Monday, purporting to be the text of letters received by her from Mr. Platt, in which the marriage was practically acknowledged by him. She admitted that they were copied from memoranda, which she had in her possession for some years, and from which she copied them three or four days ago. Asked to produce the original memoranda, she said she had destroyed them after making copies.

After questioning her briefly about an interview she gave to a Chicago reporter on the subject of her marriage to Senator Platt, Mr. Stanchfield concluded his cross-examination, which had lasted nearly six hours. Mr. Le Barbier then tried to clear up some points by redirect examination. He said a lot had been heard of J. Martin Miller, which he wanted to clear up. For this purpose he tried to get in evidence a railroad pass, which he said Miller had given to Mrs. Wood. Justice O'Gorman, however, held it was not material, as the sole issue before the court was whether or not a valid marriage existed.

Mr. Le Barbier argued that he would show a conspiracy against his client, and he wanted to show the circumstances under which Miller gave Mrs. Wood the pass, but the court was obdurate. The incidents of the visit to Hummel's office on Oct. 13, 1903, were then gone over again. Mrs. Wood said that Miller, after showing her his Secret Service badge, "took possession of her" and forced her to go to Hummel's office.

"Do you know where Miller is now?" Mr. Le Barbier asked.

"Higher Authority" Enters.

She said that Miller told her he was acting for Mr. Platt. She recounted her story of how she was locked in Hummel's office all day, and finally gave up the Platt papers. After that she was released and left with Miller, who told her the letters were wanted for a "higher authority."

"Did he say who the higher authority was?"

"Yes, Mr. Loeb."

Mrs. Wood, when asked what effect the news of Mr. Platt's marriage to Mrs. Janeway had on her, said she thought that he had obtained an annulment of their marriage in some way. She was asked whether she was certain that she had not filled in any words in the marriage certificate, and admitted it was probable that if the words "New York" were omitted from it, "we probably filled them in," but if so, she said, it was in the presence of Mr. Platt and on the day of the marriage.

Mr. Le Barbier then rested his case, and Mr. Stanchfield made a motion to dismiss the suit. Just before closing Mr. Le Barbier got into evidence a letter purporting to be signed by Miller, after the court had several times refused to admit it. Mrs. Wood said it was handed to her by Miller. It read:

> I was asked by high Government officials at Washington and New York to get possession of Senator Platt's love letters to Mae C. Wood. In order to do this I had to pretend I would get out a book, for which she gave me the manuscript on Oct. 8, 1903. It was agreed by all parties interested that I was to get her to New York and get the papers out of her room.
> Mr. Loeb called up Platt in New York and told him Miss Wood was going to sue him for breach of promise. Then Platt said he would be a party to the scheme. I failed to get possession of any original documents or letters. We then began the scandal in the newspapers to force her to come to terms. Wynne, First Assistant Postmaster General, started the ball rolling by getting The New York World to print the article as it first appeared. I established my headquarters in The Tribune Building and disseminated such information as I could get from the office of the First Assistant Postmaster General. Senator T. C. Platt was fully informed of all matters by me, as I was instructed to co-operate with him, but the original papers were not given to Platt, but to Mr. Loeb in Washington.
> I was got into the conspiracy by powerful officers whom I would not dare to displease from a newspaper or political standpoint. I consulted Mr. Howe, Senator Platt's secretary, frequently, and acted at all times under the direction of Loeb and Platt. J. MARTIN MILLER.

Senator Platt so far has not appeared in court, and it is doubtful whether he will take the stand in his own behalf. His son, Frank H. Platt, sat with his father's lawyers yesterday and took a lively interest in helping with advice and suggestions. The case will go on this morning.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Mr. Loeb, the President's secretary, said to-night that he knows nothing about the allegations contained in the statement signed "J. Martin Miller" and brought out in the Wood-Platt suit in New York to-day, and that the statements made therein in so far as they concern him are wholly untrue.

"I never called on Senator Platt," he said, "and know nothing whatever about the matter."

Consul General Wynne, also mentioned in the Miller statement, is at his post in London.

MEN CENSURE COL. E. W. HINES

Say He Won't Let Them Attend Manoeuvres Because He Cannot Go.

Some of the officers and men in the Fifth New Jersey Regiment are indignant at the action of Col. E. W. Hines, whom they hold responsible for a change in the plan to have that regiment go to Pine Plains, N. Y., at the end of next month to participate in the regular army manoeuvres. The First Regiment of Newark is now to go instead. Every officer and every man in the regiment, except Col. Hines, was planning to go, it is said, and Col. Hines is accused of making the change because he himself could not go.

Yesterday postal cards were received by the commissioned officers, calling for a special meeting at Paterson on Friday night, when the sudden change of plan and disappointment will be seriously discussed.

LAST ARGUMENTS IN TOBACCO SUIT

RIVALS APPLAUD M'REYNOLDS

Lawyers for the American Company Congratulate Him on His Day-Long Argument for the Government.

The final argument in the suit of the Government to dissolve the Tobacco Trust as a combination in restraint of trade under the Sherman Anti-Trust act was begun yesterday in the United States Circuit Court before Judges Ward, Lacombe, Cox, and Noyes. The three days of discussion in which counsel will put forth their theories in regard to the litigation will conclude a cause that has taken more than five months for the submission of testimony before a Special Master.

A notable array of counsel gathered yesterday to take part in or watch the termination of the Tobacco Trust case. For the Government there were James C. McReynolds and Edward P. Grosvenor, the special assistants to the Attorney General, who are in charge of the litigation. For the American Tobacco Company, the parent concern of the trust, ex-United States Circuit Judge William J. Wallace appeared, with De Lancey Nicoll, W. W. Fuller, and Junius Parker. For the Imperial Tobacco Company, the British branch of the trust, William B. Hornblower appeared, with John Pickrel, while Joseph Hood, a London solicitor, represented the British-American Tobacco Company and Solomon M. Strook the United Cigar Stores Company.

Mr. McReynolds occupied the entire day yesterday. He began with an exhaustive review of the decisions of the United States Supreme Court upon which the Government rests its contentions, pointing out that in the Northern Securities case the court held that a mere stockholding combination, the tendency of which was to restrain trade, was prohibited under the Sherman act, whereas in the present instances there were visible evidences of both the intent to restrain trade, and the result of such restraint. Following up this proposition with an analysis of other decisions such as that in the case against the meat packers, Mr. McReynolds emphasized the doctrine of the Supreme Court that it matters not how innocent individual acts pursuant to a combination in restraint of trade may be, so long as the effect of the entire scheme is contrary to the purposes of the law.

Mr. McReynolds laid particular stress upon the methods by which the control of independent companies was gained from time to time, in some instances so as to allow the subsidiaries after acquisition to go on as apparently independent companies fighting those companies which still remained outside the trust fold, and in almost all instances under agreements by which the tobacco men whose business had been taken over agreed to remain out of the trade for a given number of years. Next the warfare in England was rehearsed, leading up to the deal between the British Imperial Company and Ogdens, Limited, which was the concern that the trust first got hold of. And finally came the further consolidation of the different corporations through the Consolidated Tobacco Company and the present American Tobacco Company.

This whole series of acts, Mr. McReynolds charged, was in flagrant violation of law and intended to destroy competition and create monopolies, results which have been largely accomplished.

At the close of Mr. McReynolds's argument there was a rather unusual scene when counsel for the opposing side gathered around him to congratulate him on the able presentation he had made of the Government's case.

ART WOULDN'T FIT HER HOUSE

Mrs. McDermott Couldn't Even Plug a Broken Window with $500 Picture.

On the charge that when working on the roof of a building next door he entered an apartment on the fourth floor of Sherry's, at Fifth Avenue and Forty-fourth Street, and stole two oil paintings valued at $500 each, Charles McDermott, a young ironworker, of 1,150 Holme Street, the Bronx, was put on trial yesterday before Judge Foster, in the Court of General Sessions.

The pictures were missed on Sept. 1. They were Swiss rural scenes by Lamey. William H. Jackson, an assistant manager at Sherry's, began an investigation.

Recently he got a post card from McDermott which said he thought he had one of the paintings. Jackson called at the young man's house and found there one of the pictures. It had been cut from the frame. McDermott said he had bought it from a waiter at Sherry's for 25 cents. The other he said he knew nothing about.

McDermott's mother, in her testimony, said: "He brought home the picture, and I thought it was oilcloth. I asked him where he got it. He said he bought it for a quarter. I said: 'Charley, you got stuck. What's it good for? It won't fit the kitchen table, anyhow; you certainly got stuck.' Then I tried to fill a broken window in the cellar with it, and it wouldn't fit there either."

"Madame," said Judge Foster, turning to the witness, "you would make a first-rate art connoisseur if you were rich, for, as things are now, pictures, however beautiful, are measured only by their price."

Detective William H. Ticko, who arrested McDermott, is trying to trace the other picture.

GRAND JURY AFTER McINTYRE.

Hear Witnesses and Receive Documentary Evidence Against Failed Firm

Assistant District Attorney Arthur Train brought before the Grand Jury yesterday several witnesses and a great deal of documentary evidence bearing on the affairs of the failed Stock Exchange firm of T. A. McIntyre & Co.

The witnesses were clerks and bookkeepers, who were formerly in the employ of the firm, and Mr. Train questioned them in his office after the Grand Jury adjourned. The documentary evidence consisted of vouchers, certificates of stock, the books of the company, and other papers which pointed to misdealings with patrons of the firm. The examination will continue to-morrow, when Mr. Train believes the Grand Jury will have arrived at a decision as to whether an indictment is warranted by the evidence.

The Jersey City creditors filed a second involuntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court in that city yeserday.

The petition is against James E. Hulsizer of Jersey City, who was agent for the firm there, and the individual members of the firm. The claims are mostly for small amounts. Preferential payments to creditors in April last are alleged.

Judge Hough yesterday granted a motion of Myers & Goldsmith ordering the receivers of T. A. McIntyre & Co. to sign a general release to Gross & Kleeberg, stock brokers of 25 Broad Street, and their assignee from all claims and demands which T. A. McIntyre may have against Gross & Kleeberg. Myers & Goldsmith said that a claim appears on the books of T. A. McIntyre & Co. for $31,000 against Gross & Kleeberg, but it was contended that this was a "wash" sale.

CRIES FRAUD IN STOCK DEAL.

O. S. Ticer Begins Suit to Recover $8,333—G. H. Carpenter Arrested.

George H. Carpenter, who is on the books of the Monarch Corporation of 17 West Thirty-second Street, as owner of one share each in the common and the preferred stock of the company, was arrested yesterday in connection with an action brought against him by Oliver S. Ticer of Brooklyn to recover $8,333, of which he alleges Carpenter defrauded him in a stock deal. Carpenter gave bail and was released.

JENNIE BLUNT TRIES TO DIE.

Woman Sentenced for Shooting Lawyer Sanford Inhales Gas in Jail.

Jennie Blunt, the young woman who was sentenced on Monday by Justice Dike in the Kings County Court to four years in the penitentiary for shooting Charles M. Sanford, a Brooklyn lawyer, on Feb. 25, attempted suicide in the woman's ward of the Raymond Street Jail yesterday morning by inhaling gas. She was discovered by the matron, Mrs. Margaret McCormack, in time to save her life.

When the women prisoners were let out of their cells at 6 o'clock yesterday morning to prepare for breakfast the Blunt woman attached a small rubber tube, which she had concealed about her, to the gas jet and turned on the gas. The tube was so short that she was leaning in a corner with her head only a few inches from the jet when found by the matron. She was partly unconscious, but a doctor revived her without trouble.

She told the warden that the tube had been brought to her by her sister, but later denied this. The jail authorities are at a loss to know how the tube got into her hands, as nothing of its description could have been picked up in the woman's part of the prison. She will be removed from Raymond Street to Auburn in a few days.

URGES STATE CONTROL.

Board of Trade Writes to Hughes That Telephone Rates Are Exorbitant.

The New York Board of Trade and Transportation sent a letter of 4,000 words to Gov. Hughes yesterday, urging him to impress upon the Legislature in special session the need of legislation which shall place the telephone and telegraph business in the State under the control of the Public Service Commissions. The letter states that the telephone business is a natural monopoly and must remain so if the best interests of the public are to be conserved, but it suggests that it should be regulated by the State.

It is asserted that with no competition the telephone companies have advanced their prices at will, making the charges higher in districts where the use of the telephone is more universal until now the charge in this city is higher than anywhere else in the world, although about 200,000 telephones are in use here.

In closing the letter says:

"Excepting only telephone and telegraph companies all public service corporations are under some form of governmental regulation in this State. To fully answer the question, 'Why have telephone and telegraph corporations been thus far exempted from regulation?' would be to reveal the financial secrets of these corporations as well as those of the political parties in control of legislation during the past twenty years."

MRS. GUNNESS DEAD, TEETH PLATES FOUND

'LITTLE' BRYNHILD PEDERSEN

Mrs. Gunness Believed to be the Daughter of a Farm Laborer in Norway—Emigrated 24 Years Ago.

LAPORTE, Ind., May 19.—The upper and lower plates of artificial teeth from the mouth of Mrs. Belle Gunness were found to-day in the ashes of the Gunness home.

Dr. I. P. Norton, who made the lower plate, positively identified them.

"The finding of the plates proves, beyond the shadow of a doubt," said Sheriff Smutzer, "that Mrs. Gunness was burned to death in the fire."

The body of Jennie Olsen has been officially identified.

Prosecuting Attorney Smith said to-day that Ray Lamphere, now held in jail here on the charge of murdering Mrs. Gunness and her children, will not be tried before Sept. 1.

TRONDHJEM, Norway, May 19.—Mrs. Belle Gunness, the woman who is being sought for the Laporte (Ind.) murders, is believed here to be one of the two daughters of Paul Pedersen, a farm laborer and quarryman at Storsethgjardet, on Lake Selbo. Both children were named Brynhild. It is often the custom of Norwegian peasants to give two children the same name. These girls were called "Big" Brynhild and "Little" Brynhild to distinguish them. The second child, "Little" Brynhild, who is thought to be Mrs. Gunness, emigrated to the United States about twenty-four years ago. She was born in 1859, and was 25 years old when she left the country.

The two women have a brother, Peder Paulsen, who is a stone mason at Selbo. He was questioned recently, and said "Little" Brynhild gave evidence of bad character when she was young.

BROOKLYN WOMAN DROWNS.

Miss Lucy Tarsney Falls from Wharf Into the Connecticut River.

ESSEX, Conn., May 19.—Miss Lucy Tarsney of 289 Union Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., was drowned in the Connecticut River, opposite the boat landing, last night. She had been visiting the family of P. G. Campbell and was at the landing to witness the departure of Miss Sadie Campbell and John C. Campbell on the steamer Hartford, which runs from Hartford to New York.

The young woman stepped from the stringpiece of the wharf to the guard rail, and losing her balance fell into the water. Her head evidently struck some obstruction, for there was no outcry. Felix Tarsney of New York is here to institute a search for the body.

In definition of the word "best" the Standard Dictionary says in part: 'best' in trade use is a term of rather uncertain meaning * * *

The little word has lost its earlier significance—"excelling all others" not through use but misuse. In all justice, therefore, to fittingly describe our

Apparel for Men

we must say "better than best."

The "best" ready-for-service suits we can find elsewhere are certainly lacking in just those features we incorporate in ours to compel distinction.

The 'best' of which our designers and tailormen are capable begins at a higher level than ready-for-service garments have ever before attained.

The true test of merit in

Apparel for the Autoist

may be measured only by service

Garments intended only for the conventional uses of every day, if good fitting and of good materials, may serve their purpose reasonably well—though we have our own ideas even as to their standard.

But Auto garments must perform additional functions. Ours do.

Freedom and ease of movement—ready use of hands and limbs is afforded by the full and sweeping cut. Protection from dust, wind, rain or sudden atmospheric changes is assured by the use of fabrics which have successfully withstood all tests. And with all these features of utility, a further stamp of distinction unmistakable.

We have to-day the largest and most complete department in America devoted to ready-for-service Auto apparel for men and women. As a matter of fact, people who have toured all Europe tell us that nowhere have they seen a stock so comprehensive.

BURGESS OPPOSES THE "OPEN PULPIT"

But the Bishop Tells Long Island Diocese He Will Obey the New Canon.

USING HIS DISCRETION

The Rev. Mr. Wrigley Criticises Dr. Parkhurst for Saying the Decalogue Has Proved Useless.

Special to The New York Times.

GARDEN CITY, L. I., May 19.—About 500 delegates, clergymen, and laymen from every parish on Long Island thronged the Cathedral of the Incarnation to-day for the forty-second annual convention of the Long Island Episcopal Diocese. The session opened with religious services followed by luncheon at the Garden City Hotel.

The afternoon was given to the address of Bishop Burgess, which dealt with the "open pulpit" and the amendment to Canon 19. While Bishop Burgess was diplomatic in voicing his views, it was clearly evident he was not a supporter of the radical reforms involved in Canon 19. Inasmuch as both branches of the convention have adopted it, however, he believes that the Church should not oppose it. This was the Bishop's address in part:

> During this convention year an impressive meeting of the General Convention was held in Richmond, Va., a meeting which showed in a marked way the marvellous growth of this Church, and gave renewed evidences of the influence which it is destined to exert over the more intelligent classes of our countrymen. Still, in some respects, there was cause for disappointment, if not for apprehension. The House of Deputies has become altogether too unwieldly a body for true and careful legislation. No better argument for the Provincial system can be made than that which is realized by the sight of the House of Deputies crowded five and six in a pew, looking more like a mass meeting of voters than a deliberative body, and swayed bcakward and forward by the platform eloquence of men who seemed to know how to touch the popular vote. In such an assemblage, it is difficult to obtain a hearing, and many of the most thoughtful members never speak.
> I desire to mention two measures which originated in the House of Deputies, one of which must be sent to the dioceses and passed by the next General Convention, as it is a preamble to the Constitution, and the other, which has already become a law and is now known throughout the Church as a change in Canon 19.
> The preamble is a change in the Constitution, and must be made known to each diocesan Convention, and then passed upon again by the next General Convention. It is a radical departure, and I think that, while it was affirmed with good majorities in both houses, there is hope that it will not in its present form be finally accepted. Its radical character is shown in this clause: "Holding the Catholic Creeds, to-wit, the Apostles' Creed and the Nicene Creed, to be a sufficient statement of the Christian faith." That can mean nothing less than that the Catechism, the Thirty-nine Articles, the deep and touching statement of the atonement in the Communion Office, are unnecessary and unauthoritative, and that this great American Church, whose liturgy hitherto has served to teach its people the will and the purpose of God and the road to salvation, is to be limited in its appeal to authority to the two creeds, which were formed in early ages more to guard the Church from false doctrine than to make a full statement of the mysteries of God.
> The amendment to Canon 19, as it was first proposed in the House of Deputies, was distinctly an "open pulpit," giving to the clergy the right to invite any whom they considered Christian men to preach in their churches. In committee, it was amended by necessitating the approval of the Bishop. In this form, it came to the House of Bishops. Their subsequent action can only be understood by remembering that this canon came to them as approved by almost a unanimous vote. Only eight dioceses voted against it in the clerical, and three in the lay order.
> But, perhaps, some one would ask, "Why do you, as Bishop, holding such views, consent to any action under Canon 19 in this diocese?" My answer must be that the Bishop's function is only to interpret the canon. The canon has been amended and passed by the General Convention. It has thus become the law of the Church. Arbitrarily to set it aside as of no force or obligation in the diocese of Long Island would seem to me to be action far exceeding the powers committed to me at my consecration. But the canon does give to each Bishop the duty of deciding when and how the canon shall be applied.

Preaching from the text, "The Church of the living God, the ground and pillar of truth," Timothy xxxi., 5, the Rev. Charles J. F. Wrigley, rector of Grace Episcopal Church of Brooklyn, attacked those whose teachings and preachings tend to tear down the Church. The trend of his remarks seemed to point to the sermon preached last Sunday by Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst in which he was quoted as saying that the Ten Commandments were useless.

NEW CHURCHES PLANNED.

Baptists to Transform Two Houses—A Washington Heights Church.

Plans have been filed with Building Superintendent Murphy for making over the two three-story dwellings at 41 and 43 East 132d Street into a church edifice for the congregation of Mount Gilead Baptist Church, of which the Rev. L. B. Twisby is pastor. The church will have a frontage of 40 feet, and is to cost $20,000.

Plans have been filed for a church in a new residential district on Washington Heights to be built on a large plot fronting 253 feet on 181st Street, just west of Fort Washington Avenue, and to be known as the Collegiate Dutch Reformed Church, the fifth of the name established in Manhattan. The building will be owned by the Collegiate Church Chapels, a Dutch Reformed Protestant Foundation, and will have a frontage of 93 feet and a depth of 50 feet, with an extension. It is to cost $25,000. Nelson & Van Wagener are the architects.

FRENCHMEN SCORNED GERMAN

Incident in Morocco May Lead to Representations by the Kaiser.

BERLIN, May 19.—The Foreign Office has received a report from Dr. Rosen, the German Minister to Morocco, regarding the alleged maltreatment of a man under German protection by French soldiers. According to the information received here, the man was carrying a letter from the German Consul, Herr Luederitz, to the commander of a body of French troops, but the soldiers maltreated him, while the officer spat upon the Consul's letter.

Apparently the Foreign Office regards the case as one calling for diplomatic representations. It is assumed here that Chancellor Von Bülow brought this matter to the Emperor's attention at Wiesbaden yesterday, and possibly this was the cause of the Emperor's canceling a luncheon engagement with the provincial nobility.

MADRID, May 19.—The Foreign Minister states that the incident at Casablanca of Thursday last, when French and Spanish soldiers clashed, is now definitely closed by the arrest of five of the culprits, who have been handed over to the French authorities for punishment. The fight between the Spaniards and the French resulted from an attempt by the latter to prevent Spanish soldiers from injuring an Algerian rifleman.

PARIS, May 19.—The envoys in Paris of Mulai Hafid, the usurping Sultan of Morocco, called at the American Embassy to-day, but Ambassador White declined to receive them. Subsequently, however, he agreed through First Secretary Vignaud to receive and transmit a sealed letter to President Roosevelt notifying him that Mulai Hafid had been proclaimed Sultan at Fez by the Ulema, or body of doctors of the law, who interpret the Koran.

FRENCH DEFICIT $8,800,000.

Change in Dues on Stock and Bond Transactions to Make Up Deficit.

PARIS, May 19.—M. Caillaux, the Minister of Finance, announces that the budget of 1909 shows an estimated deficit of $8,800,000, the revenue being estimated at $785,800,000 and the expenditure at $794,600,000.

In order to make up the shortage it has been decided not to issue short-term bonds but to reform the collection of dues on stock and bond transfers and strictly enforce the existing regulations looking to the prevention of the present frequent evasions of duties in the matter of the transfer of realty. These measures, it is estimated, will produce $6,200,000. A further $2,000,000 will be obtained by doubling the license fees on all saloons where absinthe is sold, and the remainder of the deficit will be made up by slight increases in other taxes.

Mrs. George J. Gould in Paris.

PARIS, May 19.—Mrs. George J. Gould and her children arrived here to-day from New York. Her presence in Paris is expected to expedite a decision on the question as to whether or not any remaining opposition on the part of the executors to the marriage of Mme. Anna Gould to Prince Helie de Sagan will be withdrawn.

$400,000,000 RUSSIAN LOAN.

Finance Minister Explains the Reasons for It to the Duma.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 19.—In the Duma to-day Finance Minister Kokovsoff and Foreign Minister Iswolsky came to the defense of the bill providing for the construction of the Amur railroad. Its chance of success is still doubtful.

M. Kokovsoff made the first announcement of foreign and domestic loans to raise $400,000,000, the sum required for the construction of the Amur line, the double tracking of the Siberian road, and certain reforms in the army which are necessary for the defense of Russian interests in the Orient. These loans will be floated partly at home and partly abroad. Russian finances have improved so much during the last three years that this financial undertaking, although difficult, is quite feasible.

The Foreign Minister declared that the political horizon was to-day without a cloud.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

PARIS, May 19.—A telegram received here from M. Constans, the French Ambassador to Constantinople, says the Porte has recognized the French demands in the matter of the Heraclea Mines and that the incident is considered closed.

PARIS, May 19.—Jules Lefebvre, the artist, is anxious that the prize he has offered to American art students, consisting of a year's tuition at the Julian Academy under himself and Robert Fleurry, and a silver medal, shall be more generally competed for by art students in America. Hitherto the competition has been confined to the students of the academy at San Francisco.

PARIS, May 19.—The French Parliament reassembled to-day, with the Clemenceau Cabinet more strongly intrenched than ever as a result of the recent municipal elections. The most interesting questions to be debated during the Summer session are the income tax and the bill providing for the purchase of the Western Railroad.

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao, May 19.—A Dutch schooner came in here last night from Puerto Cabello, where it had been feared that the bubonic plague had made its appearance. The Captain of the schooner, however, declared that when he left Puerto Cabello three days ago the sanitary conditions there were good.

LONDON, May 19.—The British Government has received from Washington an invitation to attend the International Tuberculosis Conference to be held in Washington next September. It has not yet sent a formal acceptance, but it is understood that it will be represented.

PARIS, May 19.—The French Government has decided to take part officially in the celebrations to be held in Quebec next July commemorating the three hundredth anniversary of the founding of the city.

LONDON, May 19.—The bill to check the random slaughter of birds in Great Britain introduced in the House of Lords May 12 by Lord Avebury (Sir John Lubbock) passed its second reading to-day. It was then referred to a select committee, which is to recommend the best method of carrying out the objects desired and to consider whether or not representations can be made to foreign countries to secure their co-operation to prevent the exporting of plumage to Great Britain. Lord Avebury's bill is framed along the same lines as the New York State law on the subject, and enacts heavy penalties for contravention of the regulations.

SURE HE HAS FOUND GERM OF PARESIS

Dr. John D. O'Brien Cites Several Cases Which He Asserts He Has Cured.

OTHERS UNDER TREATMENT

Experiments Along Same Line as Those Which Demonstrated Existence of Diphtheria and Tuberculosis Germs.

MASSILLON, Ohio, May 19.—In the laboratory of the Massillon State Hospital Dr. John D. O'Brien to-day reiterated a statement recently made by him before the American Medico-Psychological Association's Convention at Cincinnati that he had discovered the germ of paresis, and that the disease is curable. He summed up the result of his experiments in these two declarations: That paresis undoubtedly is a germ disease and that the germ has been discovered; that, while in the experimental stage, sufficient tests have been made to show that paresis is curable, and that he has specific cases to point to as definite results.

Dr. O'Brien does not believe it would be proper to make public the names of the patients whom he asserts the treatment has cured, but he gives the specific cases as a newspaper man of Washington, D. C., who was treated for paresis and is again at work, cured; a civil engineer of prominence in Nashville, Tenn., who is cured and at work, besides a number of people in Ohio who were brought to the hospital with acute forms of the disease and cured. Others who are now at the hospital still under treatment are showing marked progress toward recovery.

Dr. O'Brien has at hand, in addition to his own statements and reports from hospital authorities in regard to the successful treatment of paresis, patients' photographs which show the hysterical form of attack when brought to the Massillon State Hospital and the patients when discharged from the hospital as cured.

"I know," said Dr. O'Brien, "that it is a bold statement to make that the germ of paresis has been discovered. Many scoffed when the germ theory of diphtheria and turebculosis was advocated. We feel warranted, from the number of cases treated and from the satisfactory results of the experiments made, in stating without qualification that paresis is a germ disease. We also feel that, from the work done, we have found the bacillus. We have cured patients, are helping many now and expect to go forward with the work."

Dr. O'Brien has confined his work to living subjects; no pathological investigation has been done on post-mortem subjects. He now has germs in cultures. He says that, like a farmer, he is seeking to find the best culture in which to grow bacilli from serum extracted from patients, and to that end is doing considerable experimenting. Since Dr. O'Brien read his paper at Cincinnati he has received many letters from doctors urging him to receive paresis patients for treatment.

Dr. O'Brien began his experiments by taking serum from the spinal columns of living patients. With this he treated dogs, rabbits, and rats, with results which proved to him that the animals inoculated contracted well-developed forms of paresis. He then used the treatment on human patients.

Dr. O'Brien was graduated from the Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, in 1903. He has passed four and a half years at the Massillon State Hospital in hospital and laboratory work.

STEAMER PERRY IS WRECKED.

Plant Liner's Passengers and Crew Rescued Near Port Hastings, C. B.

HALIFAX, N. S., May 19.—Word was received here to-day that the Plant Line steamer A. W. Perry, which arrived here Sunday from Boston and sailed yesterday morning for Port Hawkesbury and Charlottetown, P. E. I., went ashore last night near Port Hastings, C. B.

The Perry had on board seventeen passengers and a considerable quantity of freight. The passengers and crew reached land without difficulty. Efforts to float the vessel failed, and she filled with water, her bottom being badly damaged. The passengers were forwarded to Prince Edward Island by another boat.

EMBASSY FOR VANDERBILT?

May Soon Go to Rome—Said to Have Been Chosen for Berlin.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 19.—A curious corollary to the Rome dispatch in Sunday's NEW YORK TIMES referring to Cornelius Vanderbilt's aspirations to the Berlin Embassy is furnished by a Washington cable to the Frankfurter Zeitung, stating that the real reason of the Kaiser's displeasure over the appointment of Dr. Hill was that President Roosevelt first chose Mr. Vanderbilt, and then substituted Dr. Hill.

The Zeitung adds that Mr. Vanderbilt soon will be appointed to the embassy at Rome, and that he is well known to the Kaiser, who frequently met him at Kiel.

On the occasion of his visit to the Kiel Regatta Mr. Vanderbilt, at the Kaiser's invitation, visited the celebrated West Prussian castle at Marienburg, the seat of the Order of the Knights of St. John, and was received, as the German newspapers at the time described the incident, with all the honors of a royal sovereign.

The explanation was made on the Kaiser's behalf that he only intended to repay the attentions Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt had shown to Prince Henry when the latter visited New York in 1902.

REID NOT TO RESIGN.

Definite Arrangements Made for the Wedding of Ambassador's Daughter.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 19.—A report printed in a London paper this morning to the effect that Ambassador Reid would resign his post in London this year, as he found the Winter here very trying to his health, was dismissed as quite without foundation on inquiry at Dorchester House.

The chapel of the royal St. James's Church has been chosen for the wedding of Miss Jean Reid and the Hon. John Ward, which has definitely been fixed to take place the last week in June, prior to the departure of the Earl and Countess of Dudley for India.

Ladies Honor and Morvyth Ward, the children of Lord and Lady Dudley and nieces of the bridegroom, will act as bridesmaids, together with Miss Bessie Crocker and Miss Mills, cousins of the bride.

SAYS KEENE HIRED HIM.

Broker Ridgely Testifies He Had a Commission to Boom Southern Pacific.

A. N. Ridgely, the Manhattan stock broker who is seeking to recover $25,000 from James R. Keene and Talbot J. Taylor & Co. for work done in promoting the sales of Southern Pacific Railroad stock during the slump of 1902, was the sole witness yesterday in his suit before Justice Crane in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn.

Mr. Ridgely said that by means of daily letters and monthly circulars he had an active clientele of more than 1,000 persons up to Aug. 5, 1902, and was in communication with more than 20,000 investors. On that date, the witness said, he was approached by Talbot J. Taylor, who informed him that he was acting as confidential agent for Mr. Keene in promoting the sale of Southern Pacific stock, and that he had positive information that the stock, though selling at $68, was worth its par value of $100 per share and would assume that value before the close of the year. He proposed that the plaintiff, in consideration of a commission, should advise his clients to purchase Southern Pacific stock. Ridgely said he accepted the proposal and proceeded to "tip" his clients that "Southern Pacific was the only stock he expected to hold for a long pull."

The witness said he submitted his letters and circulars to Taylor for his approval, and the latter suggested that before any settlement was reached he should ascertain to what extent his clients had followed his advice. In accordance with this suggestion Ridgely says he wrote to his clients and received about 300 replies, showing that on his advice 130,000 shares had been purchased.

"I never urged payment for my services, considering the transaction perfectly safe," continued the witness. "During the election that Fall, however, I wagered heavily on the result, and being in need of funds applied to Talbot J. Taylor for $1,000. He said he could let me have $500 in cash and a check for the rest. I accepted the cash but declined the check.

"To my surprise some months afterward I received a letter from Talbot J. Taylor & Co., requesting the payment of $500, and I called in person to remonstrate. I was informed that Talbot J Taylor was out, but saw James B. Taylor, who informed me that I owed the firm $500. I demanded to know whether that meant that the firm owed me nothing, and Mr. Taylor replied, 'Why, certainly, we never owed you a cent.'"

The case will go on to-day.

GEMS OF A PRINCESS HELD BY CUSTOMS MEN

Two 42-Karat Diamonds, Owned by Mme. de Montglyon, May Have to Pay Duty.

WORN BY MARIE ANTOINETTE

An unguarded remark made by a Maiden Lane jeweler led to customs officials taking possession yesterday of two magnificent diamonds, described as heirlooms in the family of the Princess de Montglyon of Belgium, who three years ago came to this country and married an animal trainer. Much secrecy was thrown about the "detention" of the gems, and it was explained that they were not seized, but held pending a hearing.

The stones are each 42½ karats, and in circumference are about as large as a quarter. They are slightly irregular in cut and of a yellow tinge. The special Treasury agents who took possession of them make no attempt to put a value upon them. They are said by some to be worth about $30,000, while others say they are worth less. Only an expert appraisement will determine their value.

The diamonds, according to the Princess, were once the property of Marie Antoinette. In addition to her title of Princess, the wife of the animal trainer also bears the hereditary title of Comtesse de Mercy-Argenteau in the Austrian peerage, and is by a former marriage the Duchess d'Avary. Her father was the Count Eugene de Mercy-Argenteau, for many years with the Belgian Legation in Paris. Her father was Chamberlain at the Court of Napoleon III., and through him she inherited the two diamonds, once worn by the ill-fated French Queen. The customs men believe they are heirlooms, for the settings are very old in style.

Some time ago Maiden Lane was informed that two of the largest diamonds in this country were for sale. The jewels were committed to the care of a lawyer, who stated that he represented a woman of title, and that the stones were valuable for historical association. Not long ago, it is said, the diamonds were shown to a dealer. He examined them carefully and handed them back with the remark: "It makes my blood run cold to handle such magnificent stones." In the store at the time was another man, and on hearing this he pricked up his ears, got a glance at the stones, went to the customs people and told them his story.

The belief about the Custom House is that the Princess will get her heirlooms back. She came here three years ago, and as a foreign resident had a right to bring in her effects and jewelry duty free.

Vero=form Liquid Soap

Liquid is the ideal form for soap. You use a few drops, or many, as you please, and all that remains in the container is as pure as when first put there. Floating specks and germs cannot touch it. No hand can pollute it. The daintiest person can have no shiver of repugnance when using such a soap.

Try it on the finger nails. Warm water and a little of this liquid soap on a nail brush takes out every atom of dirt and leaves the nail flexible and the skin under it soft and smooth.

Try it on the hair for a shampoo. The dirt goes like magic, so does the dandruff. It leaves the hair soft and silky, with the "life," the natural oils, still in it. Such hair grows and thrives. Such a scalp is healthy.

In making Vero-form Liquid Soap the most perfect possible combination of soap elements is brought about. It is scientifically correct. It is practically correct.

M'DONALD DEMANDS HEARN'S LIBRARY

ACTS FOR JAPANESE WIDOW

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 19.—Following the receipt to-day of a letter from Dr. George M. Gould of this city, Pay Director Mitchell McDonald, U. S. N., literary executor of the estate of Lafcadio Hearn, determined to obtain the Hearn library, which is in the possession of Dr. Gould, for the heirs of Mr. Hearn by any means necessary.

He announced to-night at the Bellevue-Stratford that he would go to the length of using legal means, were that advisable.

He has retained counsel. Capt. McDonald said that he had referred Dr. Gould to his counsel as long ago as last June, but that the doctor had refused to take any recognizance of his demands for Mr. Hearn's scrapbooks and library and had persistently evaded the issue. Capt. McDonald declared that he had none other than a friendly interest for Mr. Hearn and his family and friends in condemning Dr. Gould's book, "Concerning Lafcadio Hearn," but as executor and possessor of power of attorney from the widow he intended to use all proper legal methods to obtain the library.

Capt. McDonald's Letters.

Because of the prominence of the persons on both sides the case bids fair to become a literary cause célèbre. The counsel selected on both sides are representative men at the bar in Philadelphia. Capt. McDonald sent to-day this letter to the editor of The Public Ledger: "In this morning's Public Ledger, Philadelphia, I find what, on the face of it, is a spontaneously offered reasonable explanation of an untoward mistake 'in order that no injustice may be done' in Dr. Gould's communication to THE NEW YORK TIMES and published Sunday morning, the 16th.

"Notwithstanding, however, that the said explanation was offered to The Ledger in a letter written the day before Mr. Hendrick made public denial on my behalf of a statement attributed to me, 'in Dr. Gould's published reply concerning Hearn's habit of abusing his friends,' &c., it doesn't appear to me to be as spontaneous as it seems to The Ledger, for the reason that a letter from me to Dr. Gould direct was delivered by messenger to his address before 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon asking for a true copy of the letter he 'credited' to me, in manner as follows: 'Mr. McDonald, acting for the estate and the representative of Messrs. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., in a letter now before me said:

"'It is quite true that several of Hearn's letters,' &c.

"Seeing that there was no intention to associate my name in any way with that letter, I regret that the doctor didn't feel it to be necessarily expedient to indicate in just what manner my name was made use of in the original manuscript before him.

"I am the more regretful because of a letter received from him this morning, advising that, 'owing to the character' of my letters, he declines 'to have any correspondence with me.' My letters had largely to do with the surrender to me of Hearn's library, and doubtless they were unwelcome to a person so seemingly reluctant to give it up, in spite of what he says to the world on Pages 101 and 102 of his book.

First Demand for the Library.

"Of my letters, three were distinct demands on him for the library, the first dated May 31, 1907; the second June 8, 1907, and the third May 16, 1908.

Philadelphia, May 31, 1907.

Dr. George M. Gould.

Dear Sir: Because of our seeming inability to shun matter extraneous to the purpose of my call on you to-day, I couldn't make myself as clear as should have been done, in consequence of which I venture the attempt to do it as briefly as possible in this writing.

There are now in your keeping Lafacadio Hearn's library and a number of his Scrap Books, which latter, I find myself in position, at present, to make productive of something substantial to his little estate. Accordingly, on behalf of Lafacadio Hearn's heirs, I make respectful application to you for the Scrap Books mentioned, begging to know the day and hour I may call, or send for them. MITCHELL McDONALD.

Philadelphia, June 8, 1907.

Dr. George M. Gould.

Dear Sir: Accepting as genuine the indignation you expressed with reference to a statement of fact, appearing in "The Life and Letters of Lafacadio Hearn," Page 70, Volume I., protesting, as you did, that it identified you as the insuperable difficulty confronting Hearn in the matter of his never having been able to recover his library, "enriched by his own notes, and many Scrap Books," after having been deprived of it "through his inability to cope with those more skilled than himself in worldly matters," I cannot at all understand the spirit that moves you to persist in denying his little estate even the Scrap Books, which I am, fortunately, now in a position to make substantially productive to the heirs.

That you have a grievance against me (as you intimate) or any one else, in connection with the said statement, is not a good reason for vengeance on Hearn's heirs, and I, accordingly, look for an immediate, satisfactory response to this, my second demand, for the Scrap Books in question.

MITCHELL McDONALD.

Philadelphia, April 30, 1908.

Dr. George M. Gould: In handing you herewith the inclosed clipping from The Philadelphia Ledger of Feb. 23, denying the misleading and injurious statements therein contained, I do it only for purpose of record, (in keeping with my letters of May 31 and June 8, 1907,) for my heretofore fruitless efforts do not give me to expect nor to hope that you may be diverted from your purpose to extend to and visit upon Lafcadio Hearn's hapless heirs the misfortune seeded in the untoward circumstances that "Dr. Gould at one critical stage of Hearn's career was able to exercise a profound influence over him."

Stated, as found in the context, the "profound influence" in question is necessarily assumed to have been salutary to Hearn, but this statement will be seen to be at least "misleading" when it is known that Hearn was afraid to even acknowledge receipt of your letter—a letter written several years after he should have been having the advantage of possession of his "tools in trade," promising to ship his library to the address you invited him to give you.

Since Hearn did not, at the time you thus made that acknowledgment of his undeniable ownership—nor ever thereafter—venture to have anything whatever to do with you, how do you expect to make it appear that, by inheritance or otherwise, you acquired ownership?

Hearn Suspected Sinister Motives.

The fact that he suspected you to be capable of a sinister motive in your belated readiness to restore his library to him leaves no room for possible question as to the bitterness of his recollection of the before-mentioned "profound influence over him."

To the unenlightened his fear of you would, naturally, seem to be unwarranted, and is comprehensible, but to me and to others who know, it is impossible to forget your promise—thus far not kept—to let me have the library for his son Kazuo, nor in addition thereto can it be forgotten that, on learning from me the profitable use it was intended, in the interests of the estate to make of the scrap books, in the publication of another book—supplementary to the "Life and Letters"—you (as it now appears to me) appropriated the idea, and the scrap-book material to yourself, alleging the pitiful pretext of a grievance against me, in that I should have had the publishers of the "Life and Letters" delete a few lines that were not to your liking.

As to the statement made with respect to the "Letters from the Raven," it, likewise, is "at least misleading," for, supported by Messrs. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., I made earnest effort to secure them, but unavailing effort, because, unfortunately, they had already been passed beyond the control of Mr. Watkins. Mr. Page Baker's consent to your use of the copyrighted matter under his control for the book now threatened (which book, I fear, may be a calumny) must have been obtained under a misunderstanding on his part, for it is unthinkable that he could have cooperated with you, even to that extent, had you frankly made known to him your purpose to withhold from the heirs the remaining fragments of Hearn's little estate.

While it may develop that there is no statute law to interpose between you and the dead man, you certainly ought to know what it means to underestimate and insult the intelligence of the general public.

MITCHELL McDONALD.

"Your Bewildering Fabrication."

Philadelphia, May 16, 1908.

Dr. George M. Gould: Your communication to THE NEW YORK TIMES, appearing in to-day's issue, imposes on me the necessity of saying something to you.

In the first moments after examining your bewildering fabrication concerning Lafcadio Hearn I find it difficult to resist the impulse to make the "punishment fit the crime," but a little reflection gave me to feel that in law it might not be possible to establish responsibility for "argument" composed only of invective, offered with the effrontery natural, as I thought possible, to an unmistakable megalomaniac.

I don't at this time purpose touching the malodorous character of your laborings beyond saying that I believe it will readily be seen to stamp you as obviously unfitted for the kind of work undertaken, if for no other reason than that it sustainedly keeps in sight that your nose for the "sensual" and the "sexual" is much too keen, and much too tirelessly on the alert to trust you in an atmosphere of poetry, where the buzzards' breath is taint—in fact, you seem to be so marvelously skilled in finding impurity where no clean-minded person could ever imagine it that you might easily become a menace to decency—witness what you found (Page 176) in "A Mountain," indicated as having the shape of a "curved hip." What do you mean by such nastiness as submitting in that connection "C'est toujours femme"? Don't you think you ought to be whipped? If you don't, the inference is clear that, however deft you are yourself in "fingering etymological dictionaries," you can't be made to feel the meaning of words.

What could have moved you to perpetrate your defamatory "concerning Lafcadio Hearn" if you really have any notion of, other than to prate about, "duty, 'stern daughter of the voice of God'?"

Recalling that of all of Lafcadio's friends you seemed to be one of the most warmly indignant at newspaper mention of the Cincinnati defamation, how is it possible, despite all I know, to take in the full significance of your present attitude.

At worst, however, it matters only where occasionally, you may be taken at face value, unthinkingly, so what, at the moment concerns me is that which I find on Pages 101 and 102, where, to my satisfaction, it appears that you make no sort of pretense to ownership of Lafcadio Hearn's library, frankly ackowledging that he simply asked you to care for it; and where, to my amazement, you, of your own motion, at last venture forth from under the shelter of Mr. Alden's reputable name in quoting as you do what he authorized you to state, to wit: "I feel sure that Dr. Gould acted precisely as I would have done if I retained possession of the library, that is, readily giving it up to any legitimate claimant."

You neglected to give the date of the letter giving you the said authority, but that is of no consequence, because however remote or however recent, it is seen that whenever it was, Mr. Alden must have been mistaken as to your acting precisely as he would have done, for you know it is of record that he, like a man of honor, promptly did do what you and I both know you have not yet done—"that is, readily giving it up to any legitimate claimant."

Demand for the Scrapbooks.

Nearly a year ago I made under the power invested in me demand on you for that portion of the library which consists of scrapbooks, and I so advised Mrs. Hearn, and have since received from her specific power of attorney "to ask, demand, sue for, receive, and give acquittance for a certain library and a number of scrapbooks which are detained from the estate of Lafcadio Hearn by Dr. George M. Gould, or by any other person or persons," &c.

I now again demand surrender to me of the scrapbooks in question, together with the library, and noting (Page 102) that you "found the books of no value" to you, plaintively adding that "they surely have been an expense," I cheerfully agree to reimburse you in the sum that may be owing.

Having had no acknowledgement of receipt of my letter of April 30 ult., I am sending this by messenger that you may have the earliest opportunity (now possible) to act in the manner indicated by Mr. Alden.

In addition to the library and scrapbooks I would like to have a true copy of the letter said to be mine which you incorporated in your before-mentioned communication to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MITCHELL McDONALD.

Dr. George M. Gould:

Having received no reply to my letter of the 16th inst., I must take it that you are still reluctant in the matter of giving up Lafcadio Hearn's library. If your hesitation has to do with any question of money, I now make the definite offer of reimbursement to you in the sum of $85, the full amount of your expert's appraised valuation.

The messenger taking this to you has instructions to wait for your reply. If you find it inexpedient to simply say "Yes" or "No," I shall expect your reply at length before 5 o'clock this afternoon.

MITCHELL McDONALD.

Promised Reply in Day or Two.

1,722 Walnut Street,
Philadelphia, May 18, 1908.

Dear Mr. McDonald: I shall soon be able to give you a reply. I have not time so far to consider the matter. Within a day or two I shall do so. GEO. M. GOULD.

Philadelphia, May 18, 1908.

Dr. George M. Gould: I hasten to acknowledge receipt of your note of even rate, and to say that, having in view the closing paragraph of your letter of the 16th to THE NEW YORK TIMES, I am unwilling to appear to be too precipitate.

At the same time I beg you to note that the matter in controversy seems so clear to me that I may reasonably expect you to feel that I am scrupulously observing the amenities in subordinating my convenience to yours till 5 o'clock to-morrow afternoon.

MITCHELL McDONALD.

Philadelphia, May 18, 1908.

Mitchell McDonald, Esq.: Sir: Owing to the character of your letters I decline to have any correspondence with you. If you have any counsel, he can communicate with my counsel, John G. Johnson, in relation to any matters which you wish to bring to my attention.

Personal communications from you will receive no attention. GEO. M. GOULD.

POLICE SCHOOL QUIZ FOR 3,200 PATROLMEN

Examinations for Promotions to Sergeancies Begun by Civil Service Board.

NO CHANCE FOR "CRIBBING"

Candidates Asked About Police Laws and How to Meet Auto Accidents—Grade of Applicants Higher.

The quadrennial civil service competitive examination for patrolmen, to qualify for promotion to Sergeancies in the Police Department, began yesterday in the large hall of the Grand Central Palace, under the supervision of F. G. Ireland, chief examiner of the Municipal Civil Service Commission. The list of candidates for promotion contains 3,200 names, and the first batch of 614 took the examination yesterday. Examinations will be held daily from 10 A. M. to 4 P. M., until Saturday afternoon, when Mr. Ireland expects that the whole of the 3,200 candidates will have been through the ordeal.

The Civil Service Commissioners were at the hall at 9 o'clock, and a series of questions taken from various sources were placed before them for selection to put in the papers for the patrolmen to fill up. The Commissioners picked out some of the questions, amended others to suit their views, and wrote some new ones.

The candidates were required to fill out four papers; first, on the rules and regulations of the Police Department of the City of New York; second, on the administration of the rules with regard to the other city departments; third, on the laws and ordinances of the city so far as they concern the Police Department, and the fourth paper, the most interesting to the patrolmen, is a report on assumed conditions of fact such as a policeman might be called upon to meet in the course of his ordinary duty. Fresh questions will be submitted daily during the examinations so as to make it impossible for the men who have undergone the ordeal to help those who come after them.

No talking is allowed in the examination room under any pretext, and the candidates were all warned by Mr. Ireland that the rule would be strictly enforced under the penalty of the offender being debarred from taking part in the examination.

Like schoolboys the 614 patrolmen sat writing away at their tables yesterday while stern faced monitors, two to each section of forty candidates, walked up and down to see that there was no whispering or prompting in filling up the papers. As soon as a candidate got through he had to leave the hall.

Young women called graduates sat at tables, one to each section of forty, collected the papers after they were filled in. Their pay is $5 per day.

The report the candidates had to make yesterday was on an assumed accident to an automobile in which a number of persons were assumed to be seriously injured. For some reason most of the patrolmen described the owner of the machine as a broker and gave the place of the accident on Fifth Avenue between Forty-forth and Fifty-eighth Streets. The time between 5 and 6 o'clock in the evening. The occupants were assumed to be mostly men, the candidates apparently being timid of writing about women in automobile accidents.

In the paper on laws and ordinances of the city the candidates were asked to describe what section applied to the speakers who addressed the meeting in Union Square when the bomb was exploded. One patrolman said that any person who publicly denounced the city laws and its officers was guilty of "trezen."

Out of the 4,300 candidates who were examined four years ago, 900 were passed and 840 were promoted to be Sergeants. Mr. Ireland said that the candidates, judging from those he had already seen, showed that the grade of men entering the police force had improved. As each man had four papers to fill in, and there were 3,200 candidates, it would be quite two months before the results were made known.

First Day Line Boat Starts.

The steamer Albany of the Day Line left yesterday on her first trip up the river, starting the season for 1908 between this city and Albany. The New York will go into commission to-day, and on May 30 the Hendrik Hudson will make her first trip of the season on an excursion to West Point, Newburg, and Poughkeepsie, replacing the Albany on the regular run on June 2.

FATHER CURRY AFTER RIIS.

Again Attacks Founder of Settlement in His Anniversary Address.

The Rev. James B. Curry, pastor of St. James's Roman Catholic Church, again attacked Jacob Riis at the final meeting of the three days' celebration of the rector's silver anniversary last night at the church. The priest said in part:

> It has been said that the poor people of the east side have many trials, but they have not greater hardship than in their having Father Curry for a pastor. Let the forest of flags and the decorations of the houses in my parish in honor of me be my answer. I tell Riis to look at the streets of my parish to-day and see the crowded church that I have had for three days and let that tell the story.

"It has been said," said Rev. Mr. Curry, thumping the altar rail in front of him, "that we priests and sisters do not know the meaning of the words Fatherhood and motherhood, because we are not married. It is they that do not know the meaning of the words. I want to say right here that I have 1,100 children and they are not stolen or kidnapped. I want to put the lie back in their faces."

NEW YORK CITY BILLS SIGNED.

One Raises Firemen's Benefit Fund from $10,000 to $25,000.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 19.—The Governor signed forty bills to-day. The most important of these were the Cassidy bill providing safeguards against infection from tuberculosis.

Four of the bills were New York City measures. One of these provides for the participation of probationary firemen in the life insurance benefits of the department, and raises the figure at which the fund must be maintained from $10,000 to $25,000.

Another provides that the minimum relief paid to the families of firemen killed in the performance of their duty shall be $600 annually.

Lost Her Rings at the Theatre.

Mrs. Paul La Croix, wife of an automobile man, lost three rings on Saturday, which she says are worth $2,000. She has advertised in the Lost and Found column of THE TIMES that a liberal reward will be paid and no questions asked upon their return to her. Mrs. La Croix lost the rings in the Casino Theatre. The rings are registered at the department store where Mrs. La Croix purchased them.

CLEARING HOUSE CURRENCY.

The currency conferrees are proposing to amend the Vreeland proposal by dropping the name of Clearing House Associations for their local groups. They seemed originally to think that the name is the thing. Now they think to evade the appearance of misleading the unwary by dropping the name and keeping the plan. The point is one of substance, not of words. The proposal is that any bank "may" join these associations, but that upon application for membership "shall" be admitted.

This is necessary, but fatal. No provision of law could propose to exclude any bank, although unincorporated Clearing Houses may very well choose their membership. The result is that Clearing Houses are willing to guarantee the acts of associates whose conduct and condition they can control. But Mr. Vreeland's "Clearing Houses" must be all inclusive, and they must be responsible for the acts of members beyond all discipline. There will be no associations of the prestige or character of present Clearing House Associations. Self-respecting bank officers will hold aloof, and any associations formed will be of second-rate institutions, throwing discredit upon the currency issues, if there are any.

The provision that the currency associations shall be incorporated, while Clearing Houses are unincorporated, remedies nothing. It is no accident that Clearing Houses are unincorporated. They are the purest examples of the merits of democracy at its best. For swiftness and excellence of administration they have no compeers. From their decisions there is no appeal, and scarcely ever is there any reason for appeal. For this prime merit in a crisis is substituted the "right to sue and be sued." Fancy litigation over a Clearing House edict! It makes the least sort of difference what Mr. Vreeland's associations are called—his currency will lack the merits of Clearing House currency.

THE SEVENTH AVENUE SUBWAY.

To Mr. John B. McDonald's representations concerning the necessity of a subway under Seventh Avenue, continuing the existing West Side Subway southward, the testimony of Mr. Samuel Rea, Third Vice President of the Pennsylvania Road, is now added. Mr. Rea's letter to Controller Metz is not based on theory or conjecture. He puts facts before the Controller and the public, the actual conditions that will be created when the Pennsylvania Terminal and the Post Office are occupied and used. There will then be 200,000 passengers daily landing at Thirty-third Street and Seventh Avenue, for whose needs and accommodation the Public Service Commission is at present taking no action. Mr. Rea says:

> This line on the west side of the city is imperatively needed, because the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Long Island Railroad will place in the Seventh Avenue and Thirty-third Street district daily over 200,000 passengers. In addition, the United States Post Office and other large buildings will be located in that vicinity, so that for the accommodation of the citizens in various parts of New York City, and especially those in the Boroughs of Brooklyn and Queens, who will reach our station over the Long Island Railroad, the Seventh Avenue Subway will be an absolute necessity.

This is something more than an argument or a plea, it is a demonstration. The Seventh Avenue extension will not be a speculative venture like the Fourth Avenue route, which the Public Service Commission was so readily persuaded to build. It will not be based on the expectation of traffic or on the influence and appeals of real estate owners looking for profits. The business is "in sight," the passengers will be there long before the subway trains will be ready to receive them. The number of passengers estimated by Mr. Rea, 200,000 daily, is greater than the estimated business of the present Subway when it was opened. The Boroughs of Brooklyn and Queens cannot raise the objection that the Seventh Avenue line would be entirely for the benefit of Manhattan. It would accommodate an immense number of the residents of Brooklyn and of all Long Island, taking or leaving Long Island trains at Thirty-third Street, offering them transportation northward to Forty-second Street and above, and southward to the Battery. The immense travel of the Pennsylvania line would also be accommodated.

Whether built with public money or with private resources, the Seventh Avenue line promises not only much greater rewards, but far ampler accommodations to the people of the city than the projected Broadway line continuing the Lexington Avenue route southward from Forty-second Street, closely paralleling the present Subway. The Public Service Commission may refuse to undertake the Seventh Avenue line or it may postpone action. But refusal or postponement can be justified only by much weightier arguments than any that have thus far been heard.

WHO WOULD PAY?

The advocates of a tariff tax on news print paper for the benefit of the Paper Trust are asking the cynical question, Why do not the one-cent newspapers raise their price to two cents to meet the extra cost of paper instead of demanding the repeal of the tax and cheaper paper? If that question affected only the publishing of one-cent newspapers, it would not require much attention from the public. But it goes to the root of the whole scheme of taxing the public for the advantage of special interests.

While detailed figures are not accessible, it is a fair estimate that the number of readers of one-cent newspapers in the United States is 7,000,000 out of the total circulation of 19,624,757 (daily, excluding Sunday) for all papers reported for 1905 in Census Bulletin No. 57, the latest official publication on the subject. If one cent were added to the price of the papers taken by these readers, each one would have to pay $3.12 a year additional, or a total of $21,840,000 a year. This is substantially as much as the value of all the news paper reported by the census to have been produced in 1900, which was $22,197,000. It would exceed probably by a considerable amount the total output of the Paper Trust for the past year. It would be more than twice the wages paid by that company. In other words, the advocates of protection against foreign competition for the Paper Trust impudently propose to tax the consumers of newspapers an amount equal to the total product of the Trust, rather than to compel the Trust to do business in a fair field with no favor.

In principle this is what every protected industry is expected to do and actually does do, so far as it can. The price of the protected article is advanced by the manufacturer as much as it can be without provoking undue competition. A further addition is necessarily made by the jobber, and still another by the retailer. The consumer pays all, and often pays twice or three times the equivalent of the protective tax. In very many cases—that of thread is a conspicuous one—the consumer is in reality a manufacturer on a large or small scale, and the added cost of the material is passed on again to the final consumer. The whole process is in effect one of ingenious extortion. The newspaper readers of the United States are a considerable number. They equal the entire male population of the country of voting age. They are entitled to attention, and if their daily expenditure per capita were not so small they would probably insist on getting it. In any event business men are not likely to listen with respect or even patience to the suggested application of the protective principle to which we have alluded.

THE RAILWAY CAR SHORTAGE.

No longer ago than last October there was a shortage of 86,811 freight cars. According to the latest official report there was a surplus of unemployed cars of 413,338 on the 1st of the current month. And before the month which witnessed this maximum has half passed the New York Central sends out a hurry call for 2,000 new steel gondolas and hoppers. It is a happy augury.

There is a certain relation between unemployment of men and cars. The proportion of railway employés idle was 22.35 per cent. on April 3, and of cars 22.50 per cent., as of June 30, 1906. It would be interesting to know the exact proportion of unemployment for the entire community, but no trustworthy statistics are available. It needs no argument, however, to show that there is a certain if inexact relation between the unemployment of general labor and railway labor. Before goods can become freight they must be made, and after they are made they must be moved. Making and moving are interrelated as closely as the employment or unemployment of railway men and cars. Railways do not order cars to lie idle any more than manufacturers make goods to store them. The Central believes that there will be work for these 2,000 additional cars before they can be built, and with reason. The crops are further along than these cars. According to President Trumbull the first wheat will be moving within ten days. It will take it some time to get East, but when it gets East the roads which have the cars will get the job. Even 2,000 cars are not a large enough flock of swallows to assure the end of the Winter of our discontent and the arrival of a Summer of prosperity, but it is acceptable as an installment.

The relative figures of unemployment of men and cars should be taken with reserve, the accuracy of the relation being disturbed by the fact that the relation of employés to cars is constantly shrinking, due to the employment of larger car units. Thus the relation of freight cars to employés has fallen from 1.54 in 1894 to 1.20 in 1906, the date of the latest Inter-State Commerce report. The efficiency of cars has constantly increased in the past, while the efficiency of employés has decreased. In other words, the companies have not experienced the full worth of their capital in betterments. But this is remedying itself under the stimulus of adversity. A General Manager has said that the efficiency of labor had increased to 80 or 85 per cent., as compared with 55 per cent. a year ago. That is to say, the efficiency of labor decreases as wages rise, and increases as employment declines.

The same cannot be said of the idle cars. A car makes its fastest progress toward the scrap heap when idle, and it is during the unemployment of equipment that many companies indulge themselves in the falsest economy. Railroads which are sidetracking their idle rolling stock, and using only that in best repair, are laying up for themselves remorse against the day when their cars are in the shop and freight is offering. Any company carrying cars on its inventories which cannot be sent out on the road at short notice is taking a long risk. After the unemployment of cars following 1893 it was seven years before the cars in use equaled the previous maximum. But it is an equal number of months only now before leading railways are making provision against an undersupply of freight earners. The cars which are now eating their heads off are in existence, and the dollars necessary to assist in moving the crops are also "in sight." The sun and rain are doing their work, safe against disturbance by lawmakers, whose unemployment is cause of regret to none.

STRAW HATS AND BERRIES.

No doubt the season has been rushed. One or two warm days in the month of May do not justify the appearance of straw hats. The ancestors of this blind and impetuous generation who set down June 15 as straw-hat day considered the vagaries of the climate. The sight of fifty straw hats on the rack at the Waldorf-Astoria one of the few warm days of this treacherous May does not prove them wrong. To be sure, continued warm weather, even in April, would justify the straw hat as well as the open street car, but thus far, in 1908, neither has been justified.

We are having a late Spring with a few days of fairly warm weather thrown in by way of relief. The wisest men will not put on their Summer things until the weather settles. Take it altogether, with the accustomed hot Septembers of this neighborhood, there is time enough to wear straw hats and thin clothes. The straw hat properly comes in with the strawberry. All our strawberries as yet come from the South, and it would be reasonable for the rushers of the Northern season to go South to wear their straw hats.

Apropos of the strawberry, Col. Watterson has been permitting himself a fit of temper over an alleged recipe for preparing strawberries for eating which, he has been told, is popular on Broadway. The dish is called the strawberry Edith, and, naturally, it suggests to our Kentucky contemporary a young woman of comic opera. It is composed of vanilla sugar, liqueurs, whipped cream, crushed violet leaves, and strawberries. It does suggest the supererogation of painting the lily. It leads Col. Watterson to declare that the perfect strawberry comes to the table directly from the garden bed; it should be picked in the morning and served at breakfast, with granulated sugar "on the side" and real cream served in tall glasses. Col. Watterson is right. When the strawberries are ripe in our garden we shall pick them and serve them that way, and wear a straw hat while picking them. Straw hats will then be in season.

STEPBROTHERS.

Brotherly love is a beautiful thing, and it can scarcely be carried too far, but the law does not compel a man to support his brother. State Senator Gilchrist of Brooklyn has come under suspicion because his stepbrother, Mr. Kay, has secured a good job at a race track. A stepbrother is not so often cared for by a statesman as to make this incident pass unnoticed. It is a well-known fact that all statesmen are devoted to their brothers-in-law, but such fondness for a stepbrother as will lead a Senator to place himself under grave suspicion is rare. In the case of the brother-in-law, too, there is always the wifely influence to be reckoned with. She may be fond of her brother, or she may be indisposed to have him loafing around the house all day and eating his head off, as the saying is. If Senator Gilchrist's vote against the anti-race-track gambling bill really obtained Mr. Kay his new and lucrative job there must be more than the usual affection between these stepbrothers.

It is a good job, and an easy one. Scoffers say Mr. Kay never saw a horse race in his life till he began his new duties, but knowledge of horses and racing is not required of him. A man may not know a colt from a sawhorse or a fetlock from a paddock, and yet be able to keep a close eye on bookmakers suspected of a desire to get away before they have paid their losses. It is to be hoped that the new incumbent of the newly created office will not develop a keen interest in horse racing, and thus keep his mind and eye clear to his branch of the game. Of course the bookmakers are indignant, but they ought not to be if they are all honest, as we have been told lately, and uphold horse racing only because it is a manly sport. Surely their withers are unwrung.

They ought, as a class, to be glad to know that the stepbrother of a statesman brave enough to stand up against public sentiment and the Constitution for them and their manly sport has captured something good. Incidentally, if the new race track officer is not something more than human they may be able to share his wages with him each day. It is pretty hard to be in the neighborhood of sure tips straight from the stables day after day and not do a trifle of betting.

If Mr. Roosevelt desires to use his influence for the passage of the anti-gambling bills at Albany, he is not likely to do it through remarks made to an unnamed person and reported verbally by a third person, even if the third person be a member of the State Senate and a supporter of the bills. There are many reasons why he should use his influence in this direction, political, personal, moral. There is only one why he should refrain, the fear of being regarded as interfering in State affairs. On that point perhaps he might as well have the game; the name he has already acquired.

The text of the new ruling on ice cream, promulgated Monday by the State Department of Agriculture, will be read by consumers and manufacturers with different feelings. Of course, "cream" has always been a generic term, and the ice cream vendors have availed themselves of this knowledge to such an extent that, as is well known, their product is usually guiltless of cream that comes from the cow. But few customers will be shocked by the labels printing the facts, that pure milk, sugar, and flavoring extracts, with gelatine or eggs as a "binder," make the ingredients of commercial ice cream. They are wholesome.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Success That Is a Failure.

So ready have been the detectives in telling how they extorted a confession from Zastera, the boy suspected of the Sheppard murders, that it is evident both they and the Monmouth County officials think the treatment to which he was subjected was much more than justifiable and the results obtained something to be proud of. They are likely to find that other people, or at least all such other people as have any knowledge of or regard for the fundamental principles of modern law and justice, hold an opposite opinion and are filled with mingled indignation and disgust by the employment at this late day of methods altogether too reminiscent of a mediaeval torture chamber.

To get those methods in exactly the proper focus for seeing them in all their enormity, one must imagine, or try to imagine, their use in a courtroom and as part of the trial of a man accused of murder. Then comes instant appreciation of how abominably far they are from being congruous with the ideas that every man must be held innocent until he has been proved guilty and that in no circumstances shall a man be compelled to incriminate himself. Zastera may have received a perfunctory warning that anything he said would be used against him, but even that is not stated as a fact, and it is evident that he had no friendly adviser to tell him, as any lawyer would have done instantly, not to talk.

Instead he was forced to talk, and when he persisted, hour after hour, in asserting his innocence to his tireless and implacable questioners, the latter shook his nerve by clothing him in the bloody garments of his supposed victims and by making him swear on a Bible, not that the story he had told was true, but that the assumptions of his inquisitors were false. That he broke down at last and admitted all they asked him to admit proves nothing. He was sure to do that in the end, if the pressure on him was kept up long enough, and now the case against him remains exactly what it was before he spoke. He has added nothing to the evidence against him, and the detectives have created for him a sort of sympathy which he would have lacked if they had let him alone and gone about their proper business, which was not that of holding a preliminary trial of their own—a trial in which all the rules of recognized procedure were reversed.

Zastera may be guilty; his original story contained elements of gross improbability, and to hold him for orderly trial was certainly indicated; but the presumption of his innocence is not affected materially by a confession made under duress.

Praised by a High Authority.

Pleasant as it would be to take at its face value the praises of an authority as high as Prof. Skeat, one cannot help fearing that when he contrasted so unfavorably to his own countrymen the knowledge of their common language possessed by Americans and by the English, his purpose was rather to scold the latter for the small amount of attention they give to his favorite study than to credit us as a people with any great knowledge of linguistic history and best usage.

Americans long since noticed with satisfaction that the differences between their way of pronouncing words and that of their cousins were least noticeable when the comparison was with Englishmen of the higher types, and most marked when it was with those whose speech even in England is recognized as dialectic, and therefore not standard. And, while most of us are willing to confess that the English have as a rule more agreeable voices than we do, we console ourselves with the thought that tone is largely a matter of climate and that it cannot be justly counted to us as sin that we have clearer skies and drier winds than England does. But one does not have to throw many stones in this country before somebody is hit who, as Prof. Skeat says of "the ordinary Englishman," is "entirely ignorant of the history of his own language and has no idea why words are spelled as they are."

To be sure, a slightly vague something known as "English" holds nowadays a prominent position in the curricula of our colleges and universities, and is not missing from those of our high schools, but the study so denominated often seems to some of us oldsters as merely a laborious and compelled doing of what we did of our own accord as an educational incident, and the results of the labor and compulsion are not strikingly apparent to us in the rising generation. And rather more of etymological and orthographic nonsense was talked and written in this country than in England during the recent but now almost forgotten war for a reformed spelling, but that, perhaps, was due merely to the fact that special circumstances—and a special personality—made us take more interest in the subject than the Britishers and we talked and wrote more about it.

However, praise from Prof. Skeat is praise indeed, and it should not be analyzed too minutely. What he calls "the ordinary Englishman" is wont, in moments of expansion and frankness, to speak of Americanese as if it were a rude and ridiculous patois, and to do it the more confidently—and offensively—in proportion to the definiteness with which his own speech places his own origin and lifelong associations in one little district of his little island. The change from that to the commendation of a man like Prof. Skeat is truly refreshing.

Korean Charges Supported.

Perhaps the best proof yet given that the Japanese have not been altogether kind and gentle with the Koreans is to be found in the fact that Prince Ito has just been moved to issue a proclamation, sternly ordering the Japanese soldiers and civilians in Korea not to treat its native inhabitants as a conquered people and to respect their rights under penalty of severe punishment. To enforce this proclamation he purposes to increase the gendarmerie by 5,000 men and to distribute them through the smaller towns, where there has been most complaint of tyranny and abuse by the invaders.

The Prince would hardly have done this if all the stories as to the invariable beneficence of Japanese rule in Korea had been well-founded. It looks, therefore, as if the Koreans did have a few grievances, little ones, of course, but real.

TO CONSERVE OUR RESOURCES

Bill in Congress for Appointment of a Commission of Fifty.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Senator Newlands of Nevada to-day introduced a bill for the appointment of a National Commission for the Conservation of Natural Resources.

The President is authorized to appoint a commission of fifty members for the investigation of all questions relating to the conservation, use, and control of the water resources of the United States for navigation, irrigation, municipal supply, power, and swamp land reclamation, prevention of flood, and prevention of waste in mining.

The Beethoven of Laurens.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It would be interesting to know which of the works of Beethoven suggests a lot of husky, hairy men (and a chauffeur (?) among the bunch) wrestling with some "bare ladies."

The Board of Education of this city has to some extent enlightened the "wage earners" as to this greatest of composers, but none of their very able lecturers has thus far given any such interpretation of his musical ideas as are depicted in your reproduction of Laurens's "Beethoven."

Your editorial in yesterday's issue was somewhat apologetic in tone, otherwise it would be up to you, I fear, to reproduce some sane conception of Beethoven's inspirations—such as the famous symbolical statuary group in Vienna—and so in a measure restore the good impression these same "wage earners" have formed of him, particularly that he was not a "roughhouse" composer, as this symbolical picture suggests, doubtless, to many of the working class who are not all "yellow journal" readers, quite a number probably reading your paper and consequently not prepared for the half-arm jolt you gave to-day.

This picture would seem to symbolize the present "intense" method of musical composition, but of course, being of the working class, I am not supposed to know about such matters. A "WAGE EARNER."

House Owner's Adjuration.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Every one should "read, mark, learn, and inwardly digest" that article in Sunday's Times on "New York Life on Thirty-five Dollars a Week." Agnes C. Laut, the author, knows what she is talking about. Paste this in your hats, you salaried men who have been set thinking by the letters and editorial remarks in The Times on owning and renting: "The everlasting toll that thriftlessness and shortsightedness and inefficiency are paying and have paid since the world began to thrift and foresight and efficiency." Grasp the full meaning of that sentence and take the hint! The man who tries to argue against owning a home should not be allowed to see his thoughts in print. HOME LOVER.

All Hospital Streets.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Board of Aldermen some time since passed an ordinance which forbids the making of unnecessary noise in streets near hospitals, and there are now notices posted up in various parts of the city which read: "Hospital street; make no unnecessary noise." This is no doubt very good. But why stop unnecessary noise only in the vicinity of hospitals? It injures the nerves, it disturbs sleep, it makes well people sick, it interferes with mental work. Furthermore, every street is a hospital street. There are always sick people everywhere, and noise is largely responsible for this. L.

Leadership in Financial Advertising.

From The Fourth Estate.

The New York Times, which is enjoying a visible growth almost equal to that of the rosebush under the wand of the Hindu magician, now claims the leadership in the United States—which means in the world at large—on financial advertising. It carried during the first four months of 1908 nearly a quarter of a million lines, notwithstanding that it rigidly excludes all advertising of even a questionable nature.

IN THE WOOD.

"Keep sweet!" the robin in the tree
Chirps forth his cheery song to me
So many times, as though he knew
That I was sorrowful and blue;
Still from his perch, high overhead
"Keep sweet! Keep sweet! Keep sweet!"
he said.
And if you listen you may hear
His message musical with cheer.

"Cheer up!" I heard it all along
The way, from trees came forth the song
So many times as though the words
Were messages from cheery birds.
Through all the wood their music rang,
"Cheer up! Cheer up! Cheer up!" they sang,
And if you listen you may hear
The message hopeful with good cheer.

"Don't fret!" I heard the branches stir
With many a hopeful messenger
Who in his wisdom seemed to know
That I was worn and grieving so.
So from the branches overhead
"Don't fret! Don't fret! Don't fret!" he said,
Until in listening I forgot
My troubles all and fretted not.

INJUNCTION LAW CONFERENCE.

Labor People Have Protested That Their Demands Are Reasonable.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—In the face of opposition from Speaker Cannon the Republicans in the House will hold a conference to-morrow night to discuss the general subject of injunction legislation. Representative Townsend, who has been steering several items of the President's legislative programme in the House, is pushing the movement with all the weight of the White House influence behind him.

A few days ago, after a long conference with the President, Mr. Townsend announced that he had come to the conclusion that the labor leaders, in asking for too radical and partisan legislation, had forfeited their right to be considered. Since then, however, Mr. Townsend has received a flood of protests from labor people declaring that they demanded nothing impossible, and that the enactment of some injunction legislation was absolutely imperative. Yesterday, after protracted consultation with his colleagues in the House, Mr. Townsend decided to recede from the position he had formerly assumed, in which he—and, according to his printed interview, the President—had blamed Gompers and the labor leaders for the failure of remedial legislation.

He presented a petition to the Speaker asking that the Committee on Judiciary be requested to report a bill involving the following provisions:

> First—That no restraining order or temporary injunction shall be granted without reasonable notice and after hearings, except that in cases where it is made to appear that great and irreparable injury will be caused by delay pending a hearing; that a restraining order may issue to remain in force until a hearing can be had upon the application for temporary injunction.
> Second—That such restraining order, issued without notice, shall not be continued for more than five days after its issuance.

To this petition there were sixty-two names—twelve more than are necessary for issuing a call for a caucus or conference. But the Speaker expressed himself as unalterably opposed to any call being issued on a subject as narrowly and definitely limited as that set forth in the petition. The insurgents then retired, held another private conclave, drew up a petition for a conference on the indefinite theme of "injunction legislation," and got the Speaker's approval for that.

The bill the insurgents will try to have the conference adopt will be drawn by Mr. Madison and Mr. Hubbard of West Virginia. It will be practically the same as Mr. Hubbard's former measure, without, however, the provision for the trial of cases in constructive contempt before another Judge.

COST OF COAL IN LIVES.

1,514 Persons Were Killed in 1907 in Pennsylvania Alone.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Statistics telling a story of Pennsylvania's enormous production of coal at a frightful cost of human lives was put into The Congressional Record this afternoon by Congressman Cooper of Uniontown, Penn. He was discussing an item in the Legislative, Executive, and Judicial Appropriation bill allowing $150,000 for an investigation of mine disasters and submitted the figures therewith.

Mr. Cooper stated that the production of bituminous coal was 149,559,047 tons. During the same period the ten anthracite counties produced 76,836,082 tons.

The cost to procure this enormous production, expressed in human lives, was 1,514. During the ten years 1898 to 1907 inclusive the number of fatal mine disasters rose from 200 in the bituminous districts in 1898 to 806 last year, and from 411 in 1898 in the anthracite districts to 708 in 1907.

This rapid increase, Mr. Cooper declared, should demonstrate the urgent necessity for the adoption of some means of prevention.

Lack of uniformity in legislation, it is said, is responsible in part to lax enforcement in States where the laws are good, because the operators in States where the statutes are all right think that by being compelled to observe the stringent regulations of their own States they are put at a disadvantage in competitive fields. Mr. Cooper thinks that a Federal inquiry would go far toward bringing about a desirable uniformity.

TO MAKE ROME A PORT.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Paolo Tuccimei, an Italian engineer, has come to this country to interest Americans in a scheme to make Rome a seaport by means of a ship canal from Castel Fusano, near Ostia. Mr. Tuccimei has had conferences with the Italian Ambassador here, and will go to Philadelphia, Boston, New York, and other cities.

The Italian Government has not been as forward in taking up this work as the people of Rome desire, and so a committee has been formed, which Mr. Tuccimei represents, to stir up a general public sentiment that will force the Government to act. Because so many Americans travel to Rome every year the committee thought something could be done here. Rome is only twelve miles from the sea and but forty feet above sea level, so there is no great engineering difficulty in the way of the construction of a ship canal.

It is estimated that a canal would cost less than $16,000,000 and that there would be business enough for it to make a very large profit on such an investment. The proposed plan includes a dock in Rome near St. Paul's.

Roosevelt Congratulates Czar.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—President Roosevelt to-day sent the Czar of Russia this cablegram: "I offer your Majesty most cordial felicitations and good wishes." The Czar is forty years old to-day.

MISS RICHMAN WILL FIGHT.

Friends Resent Charge That School Superintendent Assailed East Siders.

The petition signed by some residents of the east side asking the transfer to some other section of Miss Julia Richman, Superintendent of Public School District No. 3, which is in the heart of the lower east side, has reached the Department of Education and will be considered by the board on Wednesday next.

The petition charges that Miss Richman "constantly and systematically engaged and encouraged teachers of the district to spy upon our children in public places, and has taken every opportunity to suggest to our children that we are criminals."

It is also alleged that Miss Richman has appeared before classes of immigrants in the public evening schools and talked to them in an insulting and threatening manner, and in lectures has reviled and maligned the people of the east side and said that the east side is a den of vice and moral corruption. The petitioners therefore ask that she be transferred to some other district.

Miss Richman said last night that she had seen the petition, but had no statement to make regarding it, except that she would reply to the charges when the matter came before the Board of Education, to which body she was responsible.

Friends of Miss Richman who declare that she has done vigorous and effective work for the east side resent keenly the nature of the petition, and say it was agitated on the part of a few because of her efforts to suppress vice in that section of the city.

Sea Aid for Sick Children of the Poor.

The Directors of the Sanitarium for Hebrew Children at Rockaway Park announce that the institution has undergone complete renovation, and will be ready for the admission of sick children early in June. Nearly 300 beds in large, airy wards will be placed at the disposal of poor sick little ones from the crowded tenements. It is expected that fully 30,000 children will be cared for by this society during the Summer.

TARIFF IS UNFAIR, MANUFACTURERS SAY

CONGRESS IS CRITICISED

Members Accused of Working in Conjunction with Corporate Powers to the Public Cost.

The tariff once more was a bone of contention yesterday among the members of the National Association of Manufacturers at the second day's session of their annual convention at the Waldorf-Astoria. The report of the Committee on Tariff and Reciprocity came up for consideration, and the manufacturers literally breathed sighs of relief when it was finally disposed of without violence.

The report itself was mild enough by all ordinary standards of tariff revision. Presented by H. E. Miles of Racine, Wis., Chairman of the Committee on Tariff and Reciprocity, it noted with approval the passage of the Senate resolution calling for the employment of experts to take the necessary steps looking to reciprocity treaties and the obtaining of information on which changes proposed in the schedules of the Dingley act may be considered, lamented the neglect of the reciprocity principle as having taken employment away from Americans and given it to Canadians, and reaffirmed a disbelief in some parts of the present tariff as providing opportunity for monopoly abuses. The report continued:

> Congress and the Administration in the continuance of the present tariff for long years with full knowledge of its unfairness have permitted, if not invited, manufacturers to consolidate, and by consolidation to add no inconsiderable part of certain unfair schedules to their selling prices.
> Your committee sought for long months to use only soft speech and gentle ways. It found in Congress, backed by unmeasurable power, a few men representing each his own constituency only, not caring how a tariff overfavorable to his own constituency affects the rest of the United States. In these men is the sum total of our propositions. These men insist in legislating not for the Nation but for their own constituencies only.
> Consumers Pay the Freight.
> Not less than $7,000,000,000 annually of our manufactures, being one-half of the total, is overcharged to consumers because the tariff was made in great measure by such men as these and has been permitted to continue without change by Congress or the Administration. A plea of ignorance will not blot out these figures. It is a question if it will palliate the moral guilt.

As evidence of the need of a permanent tariff commission which the Committee of the Manufacturers' Association embodied in its plan for revision, it mentioned the fact that when the newspapers of the country finally made a House committee take up the question of the duty on wood pulp and print paper, five members were unable to hear all the evidence to be presented in less than five weeks, and now will need many weeks more to digest it.

The committee presented three resolutions, which as finally adopted were:

> We emphasize the importance of maintaining the principle of protection to American industries, of farms, of factory, and of labor.
> We recommend to Congress the creation of a permanent semi-judicial Tariff Commission, or board of experts, which shall investigate thoroughly and scientifically all matters pertaining to the subject to the end that Congress and the Executive may be fully informed, and shall assist the State Department when desired in the formulation and negotiation of treaties of reciprocity.
> We recommend as a basis of protective duties upon which the commission shall work the principle of international costs, to wit: Protective duties should represent substantially the permanent differential between the cost of production in foreign countries and that in the United States.

As soon as the reading of this report was finished by Mr. Miles, Col. E. H. Dean, head of the Dean Pump Works of Indianapolis, took the floor to explain that he differed so radically from the majority members of the committee that he was unable to work with them, and so would submit a minority report. He said that "the whole attempt of the association to browbeat Congressmen into the reduction of tariff duties has been tactless and offensive."

What Mr. Dean Fears.

He feared lest the "abusive measures" that had been taken by Mr. Miles and his associates toward prominent members of the Senate and House would alienate these statesmen from the support they had heretofore given to anti-labor union legislation sought by the association.

Howard Gillespie of Pittsburg moved an amendment to the majority report so as to make it call only for the creation of a board of experts and not for a permanent semi-judicial commission. He said he feared that if the manufacturers went after the tariff stand-patters in Congress they in turn would rend the manufacturers in their fights against Mr. Gompers and his organization.

His remarks did not please C. F. Du Brul, a Cincinnati manufacturer, who was in favor of "turning on the light." C. W. Scott of Philadelphia, while declaring himself a protectionist, took exception to the statement that the tariff was a party question, and said that it would cease to be such a question just the moment a permanent commission was appointed to handle it on a fair and just basis. Chairman Miles, in reply, said:

"This committee has been considerably criticised. The committee admits the defects of its qualities. It has said some things in a manner to make them remembered. Eight years ago you told me to go out and seek the truth on this subject. I've got it, even if some of you don't like it. I've had experts, the best in the country, and the records of the Government are behind me.

"I tell you that there are some men getting rates which have absolutely no justification in reason—rates of 200 per cent. on the cost to produce, and until you end these conditions and get the tariff on the principles of equity and justice you'll never get the tariff out of politics or get it out of this association.

"I want to say that some of the great corporate interests in this country have had the idea that they possessed a vested right to deny the theory of popular control. They've been hurt, and we'll get hurt if we persist in taking an attitude in this matter that cannot be squared with equality and justice."

The report of the Committee on National Incorporation declared for a National incorporation law applying to all inter-State corporations and suggested that it was too great a power to place in the hands of any one man to have his appointees the censors of what was and what wasn't a good corporation.

Resolutions were passed condemning the proposed increase of freight rates, unless the railroads shall first submit the case to the Inter-State Commerce Commission for adjudication; calling upon Speaker Cannon to oppose the anti-injunction legislation and commending Representative Charles E. Littlefield for the stand he has taken on matters affecting labor legislation.

In his annual address President J. W. Van Cleave of the association had this to say about the Hepburn bill:

> Its ambiguities, its contradictions, and its general looseness of verbiage raise some doubts as to whether the Hepburn bill would or would not legalize the boycott. The President has said that he is against the boycott, and supposed that the bill would leave it where it is now, among the crimes which are made punishable under the statutes.
> We were convinced, however, from the statements of many good lawyers in and out of Congress, who have examined the bill, that it would throw a sufficient semblance of legality over the boycott to encourage the American Federation of Labor to resume that practice and start a new orgy of crimes which would injure the honest worker as well as the employer, and delay the return of prosperity.
> The bill would place in the President's hands a power which no man in a republic, however patriotic, intelligent, and well-meaning he may be, ought to have, and such a power as is not wielded by the Emperor of Germany, the Czar of Russia, or by any other King, Kaiser, or Sultan who has ever lived.

KNOTE AS PEDDLER DECEIVED DE RESZKE

German Tenor Got Polish Singer to Tell Him He Had a Voice Worthy of Opera.

LONDON ACCLAIMS MELBA

Queen Alexandra Is Present When She Reappears in "La Boheme"—Miss Farrar Pleases Paris.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 19.—To a party of friends whom she was entertaining at dinner Mme. Jean de Reszke to-night related an anecdote that created the greatest interest.

"A few days ago," she said, "a man describing himself as a poor cloth peddler called and asked my husband for permission to sing before him. M. de Reszke is always on the lookout for undiscovered talent, and he granted the request. The poor stranger sang in a voice that was splendid. My husband was enchanted, and told the stranger that he was crazy to peddle cloth when he had such a voice, and promised him a place immediately in the Paris Opéra.

"The poor fellow was deeply touched. He said he had sung once in public, but was such a fiasco that he decided to stick to his trade. He then left.

"This afternoon we received a marked paper from Munich containing an interview with the supposed peddler. He told how he had succeeded in getting M. de Reszke's honest opinion. The man was Heinrich Knote, who was just back from a successful season in New York, where he was the leading German tenor at the Metropolitan Opera House."

LONDON TRIUMPH FOR MELBA.

With M. Zenatello She Makes a Strong Impression in "La Boheme."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 19.—Mme. Nellie Melba made her first appearance this season at the Covent Garden Opera to-night in "La Bohème," and the verdict of the brilliant house was summed up in the phrase, "Melba is still Melba." Never was the Australian diva heard to better advantage. She carried the audience with her after the first few notes in the great duet, "Che gelida manina." Her notes were as clear and true as ever.

When, as Mimi, she first appeared, such an uproar arose that her opening notes were inaudible. Time after time she came forward and bowed her acknowledgments before she was allowed to proceed. The scene between Mimi and Rodolfo culminating in the high C was sung with an effect so electrifying that Mme. Melba and M. Zenatello had no fewer than nine recalls.

It was Melba's birthday, and probably none of the many presents she received pleased her so much as the ovation at the opera.

So great was the interest in the event that a queue formed outside the gallery doors at 9 o'clock this morning, and after the performance the crowd cheered the singer as she left the stage door.

The rivalry between Mmes. Melba and Tetrazzini brought the Queen and a big audience. The public has been on tiptoe of excitement as to whether the Italian diva would be able to displace her Australian rival as the star of the season.

Comparisons are invidious, but the point of every remark was how Melba compared with Tetrazzini.

"Melba is as great as ever, but cold after Tetrazzini," was the statement made to THE NEW YORK TIMES's correspondent by an American opera director, whose impartiality is indisputable, seeing that both primè donne have sung under his management.

PARIS LIKES MISS FARRAR.

She Appears at the Opera Comique in M. Capoul's Opera.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 19.—Miss Geraldine Farrar achieved a personal triumph in a not very successful opera when she appeared to-night in "Le Clown" at the Opéra Comique. A goodly number of prominent Americans were present, but the French portion of the audience was equally enthusiastic. The libretto of the opera was written by the once famous tenor, M. Capoul. The music was by the millionaire banker, Count de Camondo.

At the Grand Opera House to-night M. Chaliapine appeared in the leading rôle of the Russian opera "Boris Godounow." He responded to numerous curtain calls, and received a great ovation.

CLASS LIKINGS OF PRINCETON.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, May 19.—The carefully compiled senior statistics of Princeton University, being a record of the likes, dislikes, and characteristics of the Class of 1908, were made public here to-night.

The seniors go emphatically on record in favor of blonde beauty over brunette and of blue eyes in maidens over brown or gray. Helen vies with Margaret as being the most tasteful name. Some 495 girls correspond regularly with 148 seniors, but only 27 of the latter have reached the engagement stage, though 160 have kissed a girl.

"Cap" Wister of football fame is the handsomest senior; "Jim" McCormick the best-built, and "Eddie" Harlan takes the prize for all-around ability. Thirty-six seniors have seen the inside of a jail, and 97 have paid 454 visits to the Faculty torture chamber; 7 have supported themselves wholly in college, and 58 have helped pay their expenses; 9 can wear a "P," and 52 their class numerals.

CENTURY FOR CAPT. CUPPERS.

Hearing for Fullerton.

OLYMPIA, Washington, May 19.—Acting Gov. Coon, who has revoked the extradition warrant for Robert W. Fullerton, the young millionaire, who was taken from the custody of New York detectives in San Francisco for habeas corpus proceedings, said to-day that when he honored the requisition of Gov. Hughes of New York for the extradition of Fullerton, he was not aware of a later practice requiring a preliminary arrest. He has since learned that Fullerton was not allowed an opportunity for a hearing in this State, but was taken to California, where it appears a new warrant has been taken by the New York agent, and where a hearing will be held.

GRAND OPERA CO. QUITS AT MAJESTIC

THE SOPRANO DIDN'T TAKE

Mme. Padovani Had Been Expected to Prove a Second Tetrazzini—Not Heartbroken by Result.

The Knickerbocker Opera Company, which opened at the Majestic Theatre on Monday night with the avowed intention of showing New Yorkers the real possibilities, hitherto unrevealed, of standard operas, gave no performance last evening, and Samuel Kronberg, director and manager of the company, was not to be found. An intimate friend of Kronberg explained that the company was in financial difficulties, and that there was practically no hope of reopening. A representative of the Shuberts confirmed the fact that the run of the company at the Majestic Theatre would have to be classed as for "one night only."

A TIMES reporter found the theatre dark at 9 o'clock, and not a soul to be found in "front." The manager of the house and the manager of the company had both gone. The stage doorkeeper said he had received orders to tell the singers that there was no performance as soon as they arrived, but he had no information about the future of the company or the provision made for the performers.

Mme. Padovani, the coloratura soprano on whose achievements in Boston Mr. Kronberg is said to have based his hopes, lives at the Hotel Imperial. Mr. Kronberg had cherished an expectation that she would be akin to a second Tetrazzini. The failure of her appearance to create a sensation is generally supposed to be the cause of the closing. Her secretary said that the singer had received no notice of the discontinuance, but she did not expect to sing again with the organization.

He denied that she was overcome by the disappointment and said that she was perfectly well.

"Mme. Padovani entertained friends at dinner," he said. "It was not her night to sing, so she did not go to the theatre. We have heard nothing at all from Mr. Kronberg."

MISS DORO MAY NOT RETURN.

Mr. Frohman Plans to Give New Star a Year in London.

LONDON, May 19.—Miss Marie Doro probably will not return to the American stage next year. Charles Frohman announces that he is preparing to keep the new American star in London all the year.

Since Miss Doro's arrival in London recently she has received marked attention in art and literary circles, being taken up by such leaders as Gilbert Chesterton, Oliver Herford, Bernard Shaw, Lord Rosebery, and Justin Huntly McCarthy. Miss Doro has kept pace with what is known as the "new thought" without having been stirred to queer doings, and besides is a remarkable performer on the piano.

Mr. Frohman will shortly present Miss Doro at his Duke of York's Theatre, London, in a new play, the parts for which have already been assigned. Miss Doro is now hard at work memorizing the part in her new play, as yet unnamed, but said to be another comedy by Somerset Maugham, who is practically keeping all the London theatres going.

CHAIN OF YIDDISH THEATRES.

L. Spachner Plans for Refined Vaudeville Houses in the Large Cities.

L. Spachner, husband of Mme. Bertha Kalish, is interested in a scheme to establish a chain of theatres throughout the United States devoted exclusively to vaudeville in Yiddish. His plan is to have a circuit similar to that controlled by the United Booking Offices, William Morris, Orpheum, Polig, and others. For the past ten days Mr. Spachner has been experimenting at the Kalish Theatre on the Bowery, and so far his efforts have been successful. He contends that he can provide employment to artists for at least thirty consecutive weeks at liberal salaries.

"I am negotiating for theatres in all of the large cities," said Mr. Spachner yesterday, "and already have obtained options on houses in Boston, Baltimore, Philadelphia, and Chicago. It is my intention to put vaudeville in Yiddish on a scale which this style of entertainment has heretofore lacked."

A SHAKESPEARE THEATRE.

London Meeting Declares It Would Be Better Than a Statue.

LONDON, May 19.—There was a demonstration this afternoon at the Lyceum Theatre, the scene of Henry Irving's great Shakespearean triumphs, in favor of the erection of a national theatre as a central memorial to Shakespeare instead of the proposed statue in Portland Place.

Lord Lytton presided over the gathering, and the house was filled with representatives of the dramatic and literary opinion of London, including Sir John Hare, Bernard Shaw, T. P. O'Connor, Sir Squire Bancroft, and Arthur W. Pinero. Alfred Lyttleton, M. P., was sponsor for the main resolution in favor of the establishment of a national theatre as the more appropriate memorial. This was carried unanimously, and a committee was appointed to draft a scheme of erection.

New Play for John Drew.

LONDON, May 19.—John Drew will appear during the coming season in a comedy, "Jack Straw," which Charles Hawtrey is now giving with great success at the Vaudeville Theatre. The King and the Queen witnessed the play last Saturday night. It is written by William Somerset Maugham, and Charles Frohman has obtained the American rights.

To Try Hitchcock Again.

Raymond Hitchcock, the actor, will have to answer to charges similar to those on which he was first tried, arising from the cases of Helen Von Hagen and Elsie Voecks. Both these girls appeared against him on his first trial.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

A professional matinee of "Girls" at Daly's Theatre will be held on Friday afternoon.

Henry W. Savage's production of "The Merry Widow" at the New Amsterdam Theatre will celebrate its two hundred and fiftieth consecutive performance in New York next Friday evening.

More than 100 members of the Retail Grocers' Association of the United States will attend the performance of "Paid in Full" at the Astor Theatre to-night.

CLAUSEN ATTACKS EVANS.

Says He Had a Wyant Painting Doctored and Bid in Pictures at His Sale.

William Clausen, the art dealer, who was arrested in a suit brought by William T. Evans over the sale of alleged fake pictures, last night gave out a statement headed "Where does fraud begin and art stop?" This is the statement in part:

> A statement was published this morning that Alexander H. Wyant left unfinished sketches, and that these had all been traced to friends. Yesterday, in company with Mr. Parker Mann, I called upon Mrs. Wyant about one of these unfinished sketches which subsequently came into the possession of that mainstay of American art, Mr. William T. Evans.
> In the year 1900 William T. Evans held a sale of his American paintings at Chickering Hall, because, as he alleged, his collection was becoming overcrowded. In the light of the present Evans-Clausen controversy, the history of the picture "Driving Mists," attributed to A. H. Wyant and sold in this sale on Feb. 1, 1900, is of public interest. Among the canvases left by Wyant at his death in 1892 was an unsigned and unfinished sketch which Mrs. Wyant told me yesterday she gave to Carleton Wiggins to destroy, or paint as he desired. Mr. Wiggins traded this sketch with a dealer named Rice, who then sold it to William T. Evans for $150. Mr. Evans then requested Mrs. Wyant to sign her husband's name to the sketch; Mrs. Wyant agreed to sign the picture if it was in the same condition as when she gave it away, but not if it had been changed. Up to that time the canvas had not been touched, and Mrs. Wyant therefore signed it in her husband's name in Mr. Clausen's place and presence. Mr. Evans wrote her a nice letter of thanks.
> Evans then gave the sketch to an artist, had it cleaned, retouched, and strengthened, had it framed up and placed it in the Chickering Hall sale, where it appeared as Catalogue Number 169, with the following description:
> "169—A. H. Wyant, 'Driving Mists.'"
> This picture, for which Mr. Evans had paid $150, sold at this sale for $2,550, with a profit of $2,400 to Mr. Evans for his interest in American art.

In commenting upon the sale referred to in his statement, Mr. Clausen showed in the catalogue of that sale that it was to be unrestricted and that presumably none but legitimate bidders would bid for the pictures.

"In spite of all this," he said, "there was a private agreement between Mr. Evans and myself by the terms of which it was understood that I was to bid for the pictures in order to encourage higher bids. I was mentioned as the purchaser of several paintings. Those were left in the gallery and the next day Mr. Evans sent me a check to cover the amount that I had bid. These were the pictures which he afterward presented to the National Gallery at Washington."

STUART PORTRAITS IN DOUBT.

Suspicions of the genuineness of two portraits in the Metropolitan Museum of Art acquired by a former director as the work of Gilbert Stuart have been revived since the bringing of suits by William T. Evans against William Clausen, the art dealer, over the Inness and Homer Martin pictures. The portraits are those of Don Josef de Jandenes y Nebot and his wife, formerly Miss Matilda Stoughton. Don Josef was the Spanish Minister to the United States.

A well-known art dealer was reported yesterday to have told his friends that he knew the history of the portraits and who had painted them. When, however, he was approached by a reporter, he declined to say anything about the paintings.

"It would not do," said he, "to criticise the museum. I would not be willing to talk of the matter under any circumstances."

One point which has aroused suspicion regarding the pictures is that they appear to be signed "G. Stuart," while known genuine pictures are signed merely "Stuart."

OLGA NETHERSOLE SUES.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, May 19.—Olga Nethersole arrived here to-day to confer with her attorneys regarding the suit for $100,000 damages which the actress has brought against The Cleveland Leader, and which is scheduled to come up in the United States Court to-morrow.

Two years ago during Miss Nethersole's appearance here at the Opera House, the dramatic critic of The Leader very severely criticised one of her plays, and among other things said the actress had been boo-ed off a London stage during a performance. Miss Nethersole shortly afterward sued the paper for $100,000, declaring that she had been libeled.

She has had depositions taken in London, New York, Philadelphia, and other cities, and some well-known people in the dramatic world have been summoned by both sides.

CITY TO ESTABLISH SCHOOLS FOR BLIND

SPECIAL BOOKS FOR THEM

They Will Receive Instruction in the Regular Studies in Classes of About Twelve Each.

That New York is to undertake the education of the blind is now practically assured. While the Board of Education has not passed on the question finally, there seems no doubt that it will do so at its meeting next Wednesday.

The Board of Superintendents has sent to the Committee on Elementary Schools a report recommending a provision at the earliest date possible for the education in the public schools of those children.

According to the last census of the children of New York between the ages of 4 and 18, taken about a year ago, there were eighty-four who could not see, most of them blind from birth.

This in substance is the plan which the Board of Superintendents has suggested to the Committee on Elementary Schools:

That there shall be established classes for the blind in certain centrally located public schools, each of which shall be made up of about a dozen children with four or five who can see, all to be under an expert. The idea of putting the children who can see with the blind is that the afflicted pupils will derive benefit from contact with them.

The plan involves the printing of the present textbooks in raised letters and the purchase of special slates which can be used by the blind. The children are to be taught the same subjects as are in the regular studies.

HOW GEN. WHITTIER DIED.

Heart Disease, Say Steamship Officials—Tale of Scalding in Bath Denied.

QUEENSTOWN, May 19.—The officials of the Cunard Steamship Company state that the death of Brig. Gen. Charles A. Whittier, U. S. A., retired, which occurred on board the steamship Mauretania on Thursday last during the voyage from New York, was due to heart disease.

Some of the passengers assert that Gen. Whittier was stricken while taking a bath, and that he accidentally turned on the hot water and was scalded. This lacks confirmation.

Mrs. Ernest Iselin, a daughter of the late Gen. Whittier, said in New Rochelle last night that there was absolutely no truth in the story that the General was stricken while in the bathtub and accidentally turned on the hot water. The General, she said, died from heart disease, and he was not in his bath when the fatal attack came.

ABBOT EDELBROCK DIES.

Rector of Only Benedictine Church Here—Headed Benedictine Order.

The Right Rev. Abbot Alexius Edelbrock, rector of St. Anselm's Catholic Church at Tinton Avenue and 152d Street, the only Benedictine Church in this city, died yesterday in the Parish House of a complication of diseases. Abbot Edelbrock was head of the monks of the order of St. Benedict in this city. Crowds visited the Parish House yesterday and last night to take a last view of the priest, whose body lay in state. When the Benedictine Order in the Bronx was established, Father Edelbrock was placed in charge. The funeral will be held to-day, and Abbot Leo Heide of Belmont, N. C., and Abbot Hillary will conduct the services. Abbot Edelbrock was born in Westphalia, Germany, in 1843.

Brig. Gen. David Perry.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Brig. Gen. David Perry died at his residence here last night after an illness of several months. Gen. Perry was born in Connecticut June 11, 1841. He was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the Second Cavalry in 1862. His regiment was attached to the Army of the Potomac, taking part in all the battles and skirmishes of the cavalry corps until the close of the war. Gen. Perry became widely known as an Indian fighter. In 1873 he captured Capt. Jack and his band of Modoc Indians, after they had murdered Gen. Canby and the Peace Commissioners. He fought in the West against the Apaches and the Sioux tribes. He was placed on the retired list in 1898. Six years later he received the rank of Brigadier General for civil war service.

You have to give it to this young Manning. He is trying all the time. He pitched winning ball for the New Yorks yesterday—nine innings of it—and besides holding the leaderless Tigers down to one run, he kept his head as clear as the plate glass windows of the Times Office. He was no more swayed by the situation described as bases-full-and-no-one-out than the top of our office tower is moved by the sprightly breeze of middle May. Mr. Manning appears to be a dependable citizen, and he rolled up quite a constituency yesterday by the way he played the game of ball.

President Ban Johnson put Pitcher Donovan and the cerise Jennings under his first name, and this suspension will cost the Detroits considerable in the way of slab and coaching encouragement. In the absence of the intense Jennings, Schaefer officiated on the cheer line, and a venturesome person billed as Killian was beguiled into entering the pitcher's province. Let us consider Mr. Killian closely, for he is not with us for long.

Niles, first up for New York, whacks one out to the cigar sign at the right field gate. Cobb makes an attempt at interference, but the Niles intention is not to be diverted. A home run for our able second baseman, and all the trimmings widely advertised to be served with the order. Keeler bowls one down to Killian, and Killian drives it into the ground, under the impression that his first baseman is handy with the trowel. Rossman cannot dig deep enough in the limited time, and Keeler is safe. Hemphill flies, but he has found the ball, you see. Chase likewise lands, and when the droll Schaefer fumbles, the gallant Hal is safely started on his four-lap journey. Stahl flies, and then Conroy bangs out a two-bagger to left, bringing in Keeler and Chase. Even with Ball's fly out, there are three runs in, and every man up has hit the ball.

Killian stuck it out for three innings. Some men can't take a hint. In the third, he was pounded right and left, and when the Yanks weren't landing on the ball, they were walking to first on four bad ones. One play in this inning must be spoken of. Hemphill had made a beautiful bunt, one of the sort that ought to be photographed and diagrammed, and had beaten it to first. Chase walked. Stahl made two bases on a hit to centre, and Hemphill scored. Conroy went out at first, and in trying to catch Stahl napping, the Tigers forgot all about the existence of Chase, and our famous first baseman scored. Stahl got in his run a bit later, when Ball drove a hot one to left for two bases.

Then Willetts, accompanied by a handy line of underhand curves, relieved Killian, and no more scoring was done by the Highland heroes, and the final score was 6 to 1.

Turning for a minute to a consideration of the case of Manning. Here is one who seems callously unimpressed by the rushing, mighty wind which accompanies the Detroits in all their walks and talks. He just goes ahead and pitches ball and takes his time, and throws 'em out at first when he isn't throwing 'em out at third, and in a variety of ways gives abundant evidence of the fact that he uses his head to think with as well as to wear hair on. In the very first inning, before he had had a proper line on himself, he gave McIntyre a base on balls, and then Schaefer hit to Ball, who threw low, and instead of being safe on first, Schaefer was safe on second, with McIntyre on third, and nobody out. Does Mr. Manning at this point develop a case of nervousitis? Does he go up in the air as high as the Turkish bath sign, thereby bringing glee to the undesirable citizens from Michigan?

Answer—He does not.

All this angelic youth does is to sit tight while Crawford goes out at first, and then strike out Col. Cobb, the star clubwielder of his day, following this up with an immediate strike-out of the ruby Rossman.

Rossman is a citizen much given to contemptuous sneer and withering glance. He affects to be bored with the placid preparations made by Manning for meeting the enemy, and, ostentatiously moves a dozen feet away from the plate and rests on his bat, as who should say, "Really, this pitching person is most annoying with his dilatory tactics; I greatly fear I shall have to make a noise like a bee when I can catch his ear." But it is the stinger stung, for Manning coolly accepts the gallery play, and when Rossman resumes his stand, is in not the slightest of hurry to serve the giant.

In the second inning, Manning has an even severer trial to face, for in place of two men on bases as in the first, three Tigers hold down the bags, and not a man is out. And then comes a historical repetition, save that Manning strikes out his two men—Killian and McIntyre—before the third man, Schaefer, is put out at first. It takes a steady arm and a clear eye to punch out two in succession when the game appears all going the way of the men on bases.

Detroit got a run in the eighth, and in this inning Manning was touched up three times. But his knack of getting out of awkward situations was again in evidence, for the hits were scattered.

An embarrassing incident somewhat marred the enjoyment of the first inning. An enthusiastic fan, shrieking "It's the greatest hit of the year!" attracted the attention of Mose Gumble, the song publisher, who occupied a prominent overcoat on the grand stand, and who naturally took the reference as a tribute to his latest popular composition. "I thank you," said Mr. Gumble, rising, "and if you will call at my office, you shall have a professional copy." When it was explained to Mr. Gumble that the encomium was caused by Niles's home run, the publisher's mortification was painful in the extreme. He insisted, however, that the mistake was natural.

Waddell Beats Old Teammates.

PHILADELPHIA, May 19.—Waddell this afternoon faced his former comrades of the Philadelphia team for the first time since his transfer to the Browns last Winter, and, largely through his excellent pitching, St. Louis won by 5 to 2. Bender, who struck out eight men, weakened in the seventh inning, when three singles and two doubles netted St. Louis four runs and decided the game. The largest crowd of the season saw the contest. New Records at Stevens Meet.

Stevens Institute held its annual interclass field meet at the new Castle Point Field, Hoboken, yesterday afternoon, the freshmen winning the point trophy by 4½ points after the closest contest ever held at Stevens. Three Stevens records were broken. Harlow increased the sixteen-pound hammer throw mark to 109 feet 11 inches, while Cooley ran the half-mile in 2:07 1-5, and Harris set the pole vault figure at 9 feet 8 inches, and could have gone higher. Thayer, 1908, and Harris, 1911, were the individual stars of the meet. They each won three first places for their respective classes, Thayer excelling in the sprints and Harris in the jumps. The freshmen won the interclass relay race, the sophomores finishing second.

JACK ATKIN MAKES A TURF SENSATION

NEW MARKS IN THREE RACES

Preceptor's Four and a Half Furlongs in 0:51 Takes Place as the World's Best Time for the Distance.

Records were reduced so numerously at the Belmont Park race course yesterday that the display of new time marks became almost monotonous, but in spite of the fact that two records had been broken immediately preceding the triumph of Jack Atkin in the Crotona Handicap, the Missouri-bred sprinter made the real sensation of the afternoon and received the heartiest and handsomest tribute that has been extended to any race horse this season when he returned to the stand with six furlongs, under 137 pounds, in 1:08 3-5 to his credit.

Jack Atkin, on the strength of his performances this Spring, is the most popular horse that has raced this season in New York, and arguments that he is a better weight carrier and faster horse than Roseben, the old favorite of racegoers, were many and warm after his victory. Circumstances helped the winner materially in the matter of the fast time, but Jack Atkin still ran a remarkable race for the Crotona, and the record that he made is likely to stand until some equally good horse comes down the straight course with a stronger wind behind him than the brisk breeze that followed Jack Atkin home in his swift gallop of yesterday. The aid that was received from the wind may be approximated through other races down the straight, in each of which the old records were beaten, but Jack Atkin's performance had real merit in both the style of the victory and the weight carried.

Jack Atkin started as a very slight favorite in a singularly open betting race with nine runners, odds of 5 to 1 being laid against any horse in the race at some time in the betting, and the starting prices showing Jack Atkin at 4 to 1, with the added starter Restigouche next choice at 9 to 2, and King James, Explosion, and Rialto at 5 to 1 each.

Jack Atkin and Restigouche, the first horses away from the post, went on together, and, carrying a swift pace from the start, raced on even terms into the third furlong, Jack Atkin then showing slightly in front and leading through the remainder of the distance, with his field fighting furiously after him, Restigouche stopping in the last eighth of a mile, and King James, Berry Maid, and King Cobalt challenging together at that point. Jack Atkin held his advantage, however, and won cleverly without pressure beyond hand riding, three parts of a length before King James, whipped out, which beat King Cobalt a similar distance for second place.

The time, 1:08 3-5, cut a second and two-fifths from the old mark for the straight six furlongs, made by Suffrage in 1906, and is only three-fifths of a second behind Artful's American record, made on the downhill course at Morris Park in 1904.

The winning put to the credit of Jack Atkin five stakes in the short period of racing in New York this Spring, with two of the most important handicaps run up to date among the victories. Twice this Spring in New York Jack Atkin has been second, and his earnings for the New York season total $24,420, while at New Orleans, where he was the champion of the Winter, with one race won under a weight of 145 pounds, his earnings since Jan. 1 bring the total sum of his winnings up to $29,735.

In the second race, four and a half furlongs for two-year-olds, Preceptor, with the wind favoring him as it did Jack Atkin, ran down the straight in 0:51, winning, ridden out, by a neck from Sea Cliff, with the favorite, Selectman, third. The time cut a full second from the track record, and three-fifths of a second from the accepted world's record made by Tanya at Morris Park.

The record breaking was started by Queen Marguerite in the selling five and a half furlongs down the straight, first on the card, Queen Marguerite covering the distance in 1:04, or a second and two-fifths better than the record for the track.

Only three of six runners finished for the steeplechase, King Castle, which made much of the running, winning in a canter, while the favorite, Penarris, was among the three horses that fell. Blue Book, first by a neck, was the only favorite besides Jack Atkin to win. The summaries:

Miles Wins Tennis Match.

LONDON, May 19.—Eustace H. Miles, the English tennis player, got a step nearer another match with Jay Gould of New York by defeating E. B. Noel three straight sets to-day in the second round of the preliminaries to the Olympic tennis contest. The score was 6—5, 6—1, 6—5. Mr. Gould will play with V. H. Pennell to-morrow.

Utah Sprinter Wants to Go to London.

Word comes from the University of Utah that Sam Brinton, a Utah boy, has shown considerable ability as a sprinter and is very anxious to compete in the tryouts for the Olympic team. Brinton is only 22 years old, and, according to Physical Director Maddock, covered 100 yards three times in 0:09 4-5 last season and is running better than ever now. From 100 to 450 yards Brinton is considered at his college to be unbeatable.

A. D. Shaw, the famous Dartmouth College hurdler, who equaled the intercollegiate record of 0:15 1-5 in the hurdle race in the dual meet between Harvard and Dartmouth at Cambridge, may not be able to participate in the Olympic tryouts at Philadelphia on June 6 owing to the examinations at his college. If he does not compete, it is still within the province of the Olympic Committee to place him on the team if, in its judgment, his previous performances warrant.

NOTES OF THE TURF.

Penarris, four years old, by Garry Hermann-Peninah, fell in the steeplechase at the Belmont Park track yesterday and so crippled himself that he was shot. The horse, racing as the property of J. W. Colt, was owned in partnership by Mr. Colt and the Schwartz Brothers, who paid $7,500 for him when he was a two-year-old.

J. Lee, the negro jockey from the West, who has been engaged by F. A. Forsythe, yesterday reported to the Forsythe Stable, and in the afternoon had his first mount on the two-year-old Warden.

Four of the seven Stewards of The Jockey Club and one Acting Steward were represented in the second race at Belmont Park yesterday by as many different horses, and at the finish the Stewards were first, second, and third, the Newcastle Stable, for Andrew Miller, winning with Preceptor, H. P. Whitney running second with Sea Cliff, and J. R. Keene third with Selectman.

D. Meaney, rider of The Knight in the steeplechase at Belmont Park yesterday, got a fall on the east side of the field that stunned him, and the track ambulance removed him to the jockeys' quarters. His injuries are not serious, it was said by the track physician.

FRANCE PROTESTS VANDERBILT RULES

But Chairman Thompson Says Foreign Cars Will Enter the Cup Race.

STATUS OF FRENCH CLUB

Refused to Name Official Team for Two Races, Hence Its Protest Is Considered Improper.

Jefferson Demont Thompson, Chairman of the Vanderbilt Cup Commission and of the Racing Board of the American Automobile Association, has received from the Automobile Club of America, through Robert Lee Morrell, Chairman of its Contest Committee, a letter inclosing a protest from the Automobile Club of France against the new rules for the Vanderbilt Cup race, adopted six weeks or more ago.

The letter of protest is sent to the Automobile Club of America, with which the French body is officially affiliated, and calls attention to the fact that the cup rules are not in accord with the regulations adopted by the International Association of Recognized Automobile Clubs at its meeting at Ostend held on July 14, 1907. The letter proceeds with the request that the protest be laid before the Contest Committee of the Automobile Club of America to the end that the cup rules be changed to conform with the European ideas, and states that if this be not done the foreign manufacturers will be unable to enter cars in the race.

The letter is signed by Chev. Rene de Knyff, President of the Commission Sportive, Automobile Club of France. Chairman Morrell declares the Automobile Club of America feels bound by the European rules; that they should be binding for any international race held in America.

Chairman Thompson said last night that he had written to Mr. Morrell stating that the Vanderbilt Cup rules had been adopted more than two months ago, and that they were conclusive. However, he said the letters would be laid before the Racing Board of the American Automobile Association and the Vanderbilt Cup Commission at their next meeting in June.

In discussing the matter he said: "The Vanderbilt Cup Commission adopted its rules, with a full knowledge of the situation on the other side of the Atlantic, for reasons which seemed sufficient to it, and which were acceptable to the donor of the cup, W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr. The possibility of foreign entries not being made in view of the changes was discussed at the time, and any fear that they will be withheld on this account is ill-founded. We have had requests from Europe for entry blanks and assurances from five countries that they would be represented. France, Germany, and Italy will all have cars in the race.

"I cannot exactly understand the reason for the Automobile Club of France making a protest. The club has had no official connection with the Vanderbilt Cup race for two years, and refused then to name an official team for the race. The entries that we had for the race were received from independent manufacturers and were made as individuals. The same is true of last year, when we had a number of entries for a race, and had to send them back. It will be true again this year. The status of the Automobile Club of France in the matter I fail to see, therefore. The rules are fixed, and will remain unchanged. The letters will be called to the attention of the Racing Board as a matter of courtesy merely. I also fail to understand why the protest mailed in France on April 18 should be delayed so long in reaching us."

Two American Women Win.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 19.—Play in the woman's championship golf tournament of Great Britain was started here to-day in rainy weather. There were 148 entries, a record for this event. In the second round Mrs. Sumter of Hunstanton, England, beat Miss Frances C. Griscom, the American champion of 1900, 3 up and 1 to play, while Miss Cecilia Leith, England, beat Miss M. F. Phelps, America, 9 up and 8 to play. Miss Anita Phipps of Springfield beat Miss Scovell, an Irish player, 8 up and 7 to play; Miss Marjorie Phelps of Brooklyn beat Miss Edith Leith of England, 5 up and 4 to play, and Miss M. Maitland of Scotland beat Miss H. B. Adams of America, 3 up and 1 to play.

Americans in British Golf Play.

LONDON, May 19.—One hundred and ninety-seven names have been entered for the British amateur golf championship which commences at Sandwich, May 25. The drawing took place this morning. S. L. Yaw of Philadelphia will have to meet a very strong golfer, Eric Hambro, in the first round. A. White of Providence was drawn against P. Kollser, a little-known player. The Canadian champion, G. L. Lyon, drew a bye.

Miss French Not to Defend Golf Title.

CHICAGO, May 19.—Miss Lillian French of this city, holder of the women's Western golf championship title, will not defend the honor in this year's tournament. The action of Miss French is based upon the advice of her physician.

NEWS OF THE GOLFERS.

In the qualifying round for the semi-annual competition for the Baltusrol Club Cup last Saturday E. L. Luder led the field with a card of 94, 20—74. Sixteen qualified, and they will finish their first match play round this week.

The large number of members who turned out on the Ardsley Club links last Saturday for the opening event of the season indicated clearly that the sport will be more popular this season at Ardsley than has been the case for the past two or three years. The President's Cup, presented by James Q. Brown, will be the competitive feature next Saturday. Four members will qualify in the 18-hole round, and the eligibles will play off at match play for the trophy.

The final rounds for the Mackey Cup will be played this week by the women of the Englewood Golf Club. Several of the club members will compete in the one-day tournament this week at Fox Hills, open to all members of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association.

The greens of the Morris County Golf Club have been put in good condition for the season's matches, by the new club professional, and the first big match of the year will be played on Decoration Day. A number of prizes have been offered for club handicaps during June, and the annual championship tournament will be started in July.

Secretary Calkins says that final arrangements for the open metropolitan championship will be completed within a few days. The dates of Sept. 24 to 26 have been set apart for the event. One or two applications have recently been received for the event.

Colonial Yacht Club Regattas.

The new house now being erected by the Colonial Yacht Club at 140th Street and the Hudson River is rapidly increasing the membership. At the meeting held last evening at the Winter quarters in Colonial Hall thirty-eight new members were elected. Owing to the many new applications which are expected upon the opening of the house the initiation fee and dues have been increased. The Spring regatta will be held in the early part of June; in addition to which a special race will be held on July 4 around Staten Island, for a silver cup, presented by a member of the club.

New York Interscholastic Meet.

Never in the history of scholastic sport has there been so much interest manifested in a meet as is being shown in the coming championships of the New York Interscholastic Association. Although only four schools, namely, Barnard, Cutler, De La Salle, and Berkeley, will compete for the honors at Ohio Field, University Heights, next Friday, the battle for the trophy cup will be fought tooth and nail.

THE WRIGHT & DITSON RACKETS

Wright & Ditson Racket

In the early days of tennis the Sears was the popular winner, followed by the Campbell. In 1894 to 1905 the Pim was the chief winner; 1905, Ward & Wright; 1906, Pim; 1907, Sutton. No matter what rackets the players may use in practice, when they want to win, a Wright & Ditson Racket is the thing.

If the above rackets have been a factor in winning National Championships, the balance of our entire line of Rackets must be superior.

Burns Agrees to Fight Johnson.

LONDON, May 19.—"Tommy" Burns, the heavyweight pugilist, to-day sent a cablegram to "Jack" Curley at Chicago, accepting an offer to fight "Jack" Johnson, the colored heavyweight, in Nevada on Labor Day for a purse of $35,000, Burns to have $30,000, win, lose, or draw. Burns is surprised at the strictures in the American newspapers because he did not reply earlier to this offer. He says he never heard of it until he received Curley's letter yesterday. Samuel Fitzpatrick, manager for "Jack" Johnson, said to-day that Johnson had not heard anything direct from Curley. As soon as he does he is ready to consider the offer.

New York Team to Shoot Boston.

The best trapshooters of New York and Boston will meet in a one-hundred-bird contest at Boston on next Saturday. The New York team will leave on Friday night for Boston, and will be made up of the pick of the gunners in the metropolitan district. It will comprise the following well-known shooters: C. W. Billings, Fred E. Hodgkins, and George F. Pelham, New York Athletic Club; F. M. Moffett and A. G. Southworth, Crescent Athletic Club of Brooklyn, and George Piercy, J. H. Hendrickson, and Ben Small of the Bergen Beach Gun Club.

Mao II. Enters for Bermuda Race.

Vice Commodore Seymour Oppenheimer of the Motorboat Club of America entered his seagoing motoryacht Mao II. yesterday in the Bermuda power boat race and will personally be in charge of the craft in the contest. Mao II. is seventy feet over all, fifty-six feet water line, and is equipped with a six-cylinder sixty horse power Lamb engine, which drives her at an off-shore cruising speed of ten nautical miles per hour. As Mao II. will be the limit boat of the class and Irene II. the minimum-sized craft allowed under the conditions, the result of the contest will be watched with interest, as the probabilities are that the latter craft will allow the Mao a considerable handicap. Irene II. is forty feet over all and thirty-six feet water line.

The Mao II. is the third boat entered for the long-distance race, the Ailsa-Craig, the winning boat last year, having been entered by James Craig on Monday. The race will start from this city on June 6.

J. O'Neil of the Bensonhurst Yacht Club; Treasurer—A. T. Menton of the Brooklyn Yacht Club. This association will have charge of the handicap racing on the lower bay this season. The need of an association of this kind has long been felt. Owners of a great many boats which are ineligible for the regular classes, have signified an intention to enter, and the class promises to be a success from the start. Among the boat owners present at the organization were W. J. O'Neil, Richard Runnell, A. T. Menton, J. T. Ives, A. J. Boyd, Alfred Mackay, G. R. Le Sauvage, H. H. Smith, and Harry O'Neil.

CORN SOARS TO 79 IN THE CHICAGO PIT

Only Twice Has Price Been Higher in Its History—Brokers Highly Excited.

PATTEN COOL OVER CORNER

He and His Friends May Get $1,000,000 from the Armour Contingent on This Deal.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 19.—Excitement was high among the operators on the Board of Trade to-day with all except one man. Corn, which opened at from 76 to 77 cents, sprang soon to 79 cents, the highest it has been this year, and, with two exceptions, the highest it has been in the history of the Board of Trade. Men yelled and struggled in the pit. The crowds in the visitors' galleries watched the scene with the greatest interest.

Outside the crush, James A. Patten, the man to whom the great "killing" is attributed, sat in one corner of the big Exchange. He was having his shoes shined and watched the boy who was doing it as keenly as though the youngster had the destiny of the corn market in his hand. Mr. Patten did not pretend not to be interested, but was in no way excited over a deal which, it is estimated, will put $1,000,000 into the pockets of the syndicate of which he is the head, and squeeze a like amount from J. Ogden Armour, his friends, and their followers. W. H. Bartlett is with Patten in the deal.

"The price of corn?" said Mr. Patten when he was approached. "Oh, it looks as though the shorts were pushing it up. That is all I can say about it."

He turned again to the inspection of his shoes.

Mr. Patten appeared in the smoking room of the Board of Trade early in the day for a short time. When affairs began to liven up he went to his office and stayed there until they were well under way. Persons who tried to see him met an office boy, who sent them to a secretary, who sent them to a manager. The manager saw Mr. Patten, and sometimes the applicants did; sometimes they did not.

The two preceding occasions on which corn has sold higher than to-day were once a few years ago when John W. Gates attempted to corner the market, and once in 1892, when corn was pushed to $1. Charles Coster, the principal figure in this deal, recently committed suicide in New York.

According to reports on the Board of Trade, J. Ogden Armour is one of the largest shorts in the corn market, and Patten is taking particular delight in squeezing Mr. Armour because a few weeks ago Mr. Armour caught Mr. Patten short on wheat and in a gentle but firm manner made him "pony up." Most of this corn will be delivered to Patten and his associates on May contracts. The latter already own about 5,000,000 bushels of cash corn, and are working hard to sell it to the trade.

Patten's holdings of oats are also enormous, probably 7,000,000 bushels.

The postponed meeting of the Directors of the Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron Company took action on the quarterly dividend yesterday, declaring a disbursement for the period of 1 per cent. on the common stock. THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Happenings of a Day in London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, May 19.—Money was abundant on the market to-day and discounts were easy.

On the Stock Exchange trading continued firm, and business is gradually becoming better. The improvement extended to Kaffirs, which were supported from Paris. Diamond shares rose on rumors of the reopening of negotiations between the Premier and the De Beers companies. Consols and home rails received the attention of investors, and fair business was transacted in foreign bonds. Foreign rails were higher in price.

American securities responded to the buoyancy of Wall Street and went over parity in the forenoon. The Continent assisted the professional support of Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, and Erie. In the afternoon Canadian Pacific jumped a point, and with New York bidding up the Harriman lines the entire list improved. But realizations in the late trading caused a sharp reaction and the market finished easy. Copper shares advanced in sympathy with the metal, but the close was weaker. Amalgamated was sold at 70.

Money, 1¼ per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills, 2 1-16 per cent.; for three months' bills, 2 1-16 per cent.

PARIS, May 19.—Prices on the Bourse here to-day were firm on the strength in New York.

Exchange on London, 25f 12c for checks.

BERLIN, May 19.—Prices generally on the Boerse to-day were weak. Government securities and American shares were firm on the advices from New York.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

The first serious attempt on the part of those who have had complete charge of the long rise in prices to distribute stocks threw yesterday's stock market into disorder, and left it at the close of the day with losses of from 2 to 4 points in the issues which had been the leaders of the advance. Shortly after the opening of business there was a resumption of manipulation upon the plan now thoroughly familiar, consisting in the forcing up of certain shares to afford a covering for sales in other quarters, and during this period of the trading new high records were made in several directions, notably by Union Pacific, which sold at 151½, or 51½ points above the extreme low price touched by it during the financial disturbances. For some time these tactics were successful, and the stability of the market seemed to be undisturbed by the quiet and heavy selling under way. Late in the afternoon, however, offerings were more openly made, and finally all pretenses were thrown aside and stocks marketed without thought of effect. Prices broke violently, losses of half a point or more occurring between transactions in individual issues, and the confusion was heightened by the closing out of small speculative accounts where stop loss orders came into operation. The volume of business, which was the greatest of the year thus far, and the character of the trading in the technical sense appeared to point to the culmination of the long rise, but such evidence is not entirely trustworthy, for the furtherance of manipulative programmes in stocks demands profits at certain periods with which to renew operations, and a day like yesterday in the stock market very often means nothing more than a move of this kind, with the added purpose of "shaking out" an undesired and weak following. The stock market itself absorbed so much attention that very little notice was paid to other matters, although these were of more interest than usual. An excited rise on grain markets was due in part to speculative conditions, but it found some basis in the decidedly unfavorable weekly report of the Weather Bureau, noting low temperatures and rain over large areas of the country. Wheat advanced 2 cents, and a similar rise in the price of May corn carried that option to a new high record. On the Metal Exchange a further advance in the price of copper metal was announced, and another item of interest from the metals world concerned an order for 20,000 tons of steel rails.

Call money again fell to 1 per cent., this making the third occasion upon which this rate has been reached during the current year, and, as was the case on Monday, this unmistakable sign of ease was accompanied by further announcements of gold engagements. Some $3,600,000 was taken for export to Europe, bringing the total for the movement thus far up to $31,500,000. In the foreign exchange market demand sterling advanced, indicating the likelihood of additional exports. As a result of the gold withdrawals thus far the banks reported a loss of $3,731,000 to the Sub-Treasury. Reports from Washington that hope of the enactment of the Vreeland bill into law had been practically abandoned were received with indifference, the general feeling among bankers being that the measure as it stands, or, in fact, any bill that might be framed by those now in charge of currency legislation, would be mischievous rather than really helpful.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

STANDARD OIL'S HIGH BID

Curb stocks were generally strong yesterday, though at the close declines were recorded in a number of issues in the mining list. One of the features of the trading was the rise in Chicago Subway on the announcement of new financing. The stock rose from 20 to 22¼, but closed ¾ down at 21¾ after transactions of 3,500. Standard Oil, on transactions of only 51 shares, made a new high record, selling up to 620. The close was 615, even with the opening. In the mining list Boston Consolidated Copper, which had been strong on reported short covering for several days previously, fell off yesterday from 14⅛ to 13⅜, closing at 13⅝, after sales of 1,200. Cumberland-Ely and Nevada Consolidated were also weak, the former losing ¼ on transactions of 4,000, dropping from 8⅜ to 8⅛ at the close, and the latter losing a point and a half on the day's transactions, dropping from 13¾ to 12¼.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 19.—A feature of the local market to-day was the large number of arbitrage stocks that were dealt in. While Reading and United States Steel contributed almost one-half of the day's sales there were a number of other stocks which showed a fair degree of animation. Rapid Transit continued its decline, and adversely affected Union Traction and United Gas, both of which closed with net losses. To-day's selling of Rapid Transit was largely by "tired out" holders. Cambria Steel declined ⅞ in sympathy with United States Steel. Lehigh Valley weakened ⅛, and the Lehigh Navigation issues, after showing considerable strength early in the day, later lost nearly all of their improvement. Total sales, 53,572 shares.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

WHEAT.—Considerable excitement was furnished yesterday by a strong final advance. Throughout the forenoon there was a bearish current. Part of the late buying was based on renewed reports of Hessian fly damage from Kansas and Oklahoma. Foreign advances included ¼ to ¾d at Liverpool and 1⅜c at Budapest. A dispatch from the Pacific Coast estimated the California crop at only 5,000,000 bushels, against a five-year average of 21,000,000 bushels. Export business of ten loads was reported after the close. Cash wheat in New York closed $1.04½ for No. 2 red, in elevator, and $1.07½, free on board, afloat, both nominal; No. 1 Northern Duluth was quoted $1.14¾ and No. 2 hard Winter $1.13½, free on board, afloat.

CORN.—Although clearing weather was predicted for the belt, many complaints of flooded lowlands have come in, and this, with the fact that planting generally has been considerably delayed, gave confidence to bull operations yesterday. While the Chicago receipts were 380 cars, the estimate for Wednesday was only 160 cars. Cash corn in New York was more or less nominal, except that 78c was asked for No. 2 in elevator.

THE COFFEE MARKET.

Coffee made a firm showing yesterday, closing steady at a net advance of 10@15 points. Sales were reported of 16,750 bags. The market opened steady, unchanged to 10 points higher. The business included a few exchanges, chiefly from July to May, 1909, at 5 points. Havre closed at a net advance of ¼@½f, while Hamburg was net unchanged. The Brazilian markets were irregular, Rio being 25 reis higher and Santos 50 reis lower. Receipts at the two ports were 18,000 bags, against 20,000 two years ago. Spot coffee was steady, 6⅜c for Rio No. 7.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 19.—Trading in the local market was active again to-day, with orders well distributed. There was no particular significance to the selling, however, it simply being profit taking by those who bought at lower prices. The undertone continued weak until the close, which was irregular at the decline.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Market Puzzle Unsolved.

Every bear in the market characterized the break in prices yesterday as the beginning of the end, and every bull asserted that it was only a healthy reaction. Nevertheless the bullish contingent did not seem to regard the net decreases between the high and low figures of the day as particularly stimulating to their enthusiasm, while the bearish crowd, that is that small contingent which is left, were hopeful only and a little bit suspicious. The sound drubbing those who have opposed the advance have received in the market has taught them caution, and it is doubtful whether they are content at the moment to extend themselves on the short side even with the allurement of a weak market, coming so soon after the predictions that the top had been reached. Those who tried to figure out the real reason for the sudden break, the only substantial break for some time, did not find much that was illuminating, and the suggestion of profit taking was not quite sufficient. Sentiment at the close of the market was a curious mixture of defiant bullishness and cautious bearishness. Those who leaned to conservatism did not believe, apparently, that there was any immediate reason for taking a new position.

Some attributed part of the reaction to nervousness induced by the wholesale subpoenaing of members of the Cotton Exchange. Just what influence that might have is not clear, except the suggestion of Government interference with the Exchanges. It was first supposed that the subpoenas had to do with an investigation of the methods of the Exchange, particularly in the matter of classification, but subsequently it was asserted that the subpoenas were really issued in connection with an attempt of the Government to reopen the so-called "cotton leak" case. It will be remembered that the defendant in that case was tried last Summer and the jury disagreed. The District Attorney's office of the District of Columbia and the Department of Justice cooperated in the prosecution. After the trial it was said that the case would be reopened in the Spring. It has been the opinion of those who knew anything about it that the case would never be brought to trial again. It has no stock market importance, anyway.

Reaching Stop Loss Orders.

Brokers pointed out to their customers yesterday that the character of the reaction indicated clearly that the market was honeycombed with stop loss orders. The way in which the prices would be recorded on the tape showed this. It was particularly indicated in such stocks as Smelters, Reading, Union Pacific, Northern Pacific—by, in fact, all the stocks that have been active in the advance. Traders on the floor have pointed out from time to time as an indication that many traders outside of the board itself were going along with the market more or less nervously; that is, they expected that some day a big reaction would develop which would carry off a great part of their paper profits unless they had a stop loss order in to save them. They followed the daily prices closely with the stop loss orders, the result being that when a reaction did develop it precipitated a selling pressure due to the execution of these orders. Observers of the market yesterday were puzzled to know whether the movement in prices had been aimed at these stop loss orders merely as a prelude to higher prices or whether in themselves they were a drag on the market, influencing if not precipitating the break.

Steel Men Not Unanimous.

Steel men are not unanimous with regard to the outlook. Some take the ground that the present quarter, not only in the Steel Corporation, but in the independent companies, will be the lowest for the year, and that June will mark undoubtedly the nadir of the depression. Here are two contrary views expressed by officers of the same corporation. One man said: "There is no gainsaying the present depression in the steel trade, and so far as I can see there is no particularly good reason for hoping that we shall have any material improvement for several months to come. I read every day of expected improvement, but I cannot see the signs from the inside. Possibly those who are not identified with the trade know more about it than I do.' The other man said: "This is the end of the trade depression. The third quarter of the Steel Corporation and for the independent companies will show a distinct improvement, and this improvement will be continued and emphasized. It is time to lay aside our blue glasses."

To appreciate the improvement in the bond market it is necessary, perhaps, to compare the prices of two or three years ago in the boom time in investment securities with the low prices of the panic and the present prices prevailing. This gives more or less of a clear idea as to the recovery and the progress toward the higher figures of the good times. Those who have made such comparisons appear to be satisfied with what the figures show, and are able to develop something akin to enthusiasm with regard to the outlook. But there is another factor which must not be overlooked and which accentuates the hopefulness, and that is, taking the quoted prices of good bonds, it will be found extremely difficult to get large blocks at these nominal market figures. That has been demonstrated time and again in the last few weeks. Yesterday a broker who attempted to find five blocks of $100,000 each of good bonds was unable to do so, even at the quoted offering price.

GOULD AND HARRIMAN IN FRIENDLY COMPACT

ROCKEFELLERS TAKE A HAND

Now Said to be Large Holders of Missouri Pacific—Significant Change in Western Railway Field.

The position of the Gould interests in reference to their many railroad undertakings has recently aroused much interest in Wall Street because of the doubling in the value of the Missouri Pacific within a couple months, and the successful financing of the Western Pacific and other Gould requirements following closely upon a great variety of rumors dealing with the difficulties which confronted the Gould properties.

Much uncertainty was expressed recently regarding George J. Gould's ability to carry his roads through the present business depression, and many references were made to the probability that some of his lines might fall into other hands, E. H. Harriman was frequently mentioned as a probable purchaser of some of the Gould roads, stress being laid on the strained relations which were understood to exist between E. H. Harriman and George J. Gould.

The relations between these two men, it was learned on authority yesterday, have, as a matter of fact, been so far improved since differences arose between them four years ago, as a result of Mr. Gould's determination to build a line to the Pacific Coast, that they now meet and discuss their plans so far as these are in any way interrelated. In short, friendly business intercourse between Mr. Harriman and Mr. Gould has been reestablished. This does not mean that any merger of interests has taken place, but the better understanding which has recently been reached by the heads of these two important systems has removed one of the elements of friction which had previously existed in the railroad field.

Wall Street will view this development in the light of the changed position of the financial affairs of the Gould properties since the successful flotation of the loan to care for the construction of the Western Pacific, and in the light of the very great improvement which has taken place in the price of Gould securities, notably in Missouri Pacific, which sold at 28½ in February, and yesterday sold as high as 63¼. Large advances have occurred in most of the other Gould stocks.

Wall Street has heard recently that the Rockefeller interests, which for a long time were large holders of Missouri Pacific and later sold out of that stock, have again purchased a very considerable amount of Missouri Pacific. This buying is said to have taken place on the recent decline in the stock and to have been completed when the price was within about five points of the lowest level touched this year.

Another matter which Wall Street associates with the better understanding between Mr. Gould and Mr. Harriman and his associates is the letting recently to the Western Union Telegraph Company of long-time contracts by some of the New York Central and Pennsylvania lines, between which and the Western Union there was a sharp struggle growing out of Mr. Gould's aggressiveness in the transcontinental railroad field.

The establishment of a friendly understanding between Mr. Harriman and Mr. Gould marks at least a partial return to the closer relationship which formerly existed between these two interests.

EARNINGS.

The present earnings of the Gold Mountain Consolidated Mining Company have averaged over $30,000 per month for the past 7 consecutive years.

Enlarging the present 200-ton mill to a 1,000-ton capacity, will immediately increase the earnings to over $150,000 per month.

With the present mill over $400,000 in dividends have been paid. With the enlarged mill the results of one full year's operation would enable the Company to declare a seven per cent. dividend on its Preferred stock, to retire the same, to declare a 7% dividend on its Common stock, and have on hand, in addition, a surplus profit of $330,000.

The remaining part of the portion of unsold Treasury stock now offered for sale will be sold at par for the purpose of immediately increasing the mine's output. Particulars upon application.

John H. Cronk, Treasurer,
52 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

Automobile Veils Dutiable Under Silk Schedule—Other Decisions.

That automobile veils are dutiable properly under the Dingley tariff at the rate of 60 per cent. ad valorem as "veils" was the gist of a decision made yesterday by the Board of United States General Appraisers.

The ruling was called forth by a protest filed by Hydeman & Lassmer of New York. It was alleged by the importers that as the veils are composed in chief value of silk, they should be returned for duty under the silk schedule at 50 per cent. This contention, however, General Appraiser Howell overrules and affirms the assessment of the higher duty.

The Government was defeated in a contention with the H. B. Claflin Company of this city regarding the classification to be accorded so-called pattern hats. The customs authorities returned the hats for duty at 60 per cent. under the provision for wearing apparel, whereas the importers claimed the merchandise dutiable at 50 per cent., as being manufactures of artificial flowers, feathers, &c.

General Appraiser Lunt handed down a decision for the board sustaining a claim filed by Merck & Co. of New York for a reduction in the duty on powdered opium. It was decided that the product is dutiable as a gum or drug advanced in value at the rate of one-quarter of 1 cent per pound. The assessment made by the Collector of $1 per pound as being crude opium is reversed.

NEW YORK Catskill Mountains.

The Best Place to Spend Your Summer Vacation Is in the Historic, Picturesque, and Healthful
CATSKILL MOUNTAINS

The high altitude of this great mountain sanitarium, ranging from 2,000 to 4,000 feet above the sea, is an important factor in the selection of a Summer home.

In addition to the private parks there are over 1,000 hotels and boarding houses amid the green fields and towering crags in this country of scenic beauty and wildwood charms.

The Ulster & Delaware R.R. offers superb train service without change of cars between Philadelphia, Jersey City, and New York and all points in this popular Summer resort.

The Rip Van Winkle Flyer, leaving New York, (42d St.,) via West Shore R. R., at 1 o'clock P. M., will make first trip May 23d.

The Summer time schedule for season of 1908 will go into effect Sunday, June 21.

The "Catskill Mountain Limited," composed exclusively of parlor cars with observation car, leaving New York on week days at 10 o'clock A. M., will be a popular feature of the service.

The West Shore R. R. will sell excursion tickets from New York and Brooklyn on May 29th and 30th, via Ulster & Delaware R. R., to all points in the Catskill Mountains, at one fare for round trip, giving an opportunity to select your Summer home or boarding place. These tickets will be good for return trip on any train up to midnight of June 1st inclusive.

An illustrated Summer Book, with map of the Catskills and list of hotels and boarding houses, will be sent free on receipt of 8 cents postage.

First Day of Lohbauer Park Sale Yields $177,000 for 257 Lots—Plot Sold on the Heights—Dealings by Brokers and at Auction.

The first session of the Lohbauer Park auction, at the stand of Joseph P. Day, in the Vesey Street Salesroom, yesterday, resulted in the sale of 257 lots for $177,035, or an average of about $689 a lot. The entire offering consists of 700 lots. Selling will be resumed promptly at 11 o'clock this morning. The lots to be offered to-day will include the most desirable ones in the entire tract—those on Eastern Boulevard and Town Dock Road.

The crowd at the sale yesterday was distinctively a Bronx gathering, made up largely of those who for years have been familiar with the Lohbauer place as a day resort for boating and fishing trips. The property extends from the Eastern Boulevard down to Pelham Bay, just south of the grounds of the Westchester Country Club.

The old Lohbauer Hotel, together with the eight lots on which it stands, was sold to William E. Mason for $12,000. It is understood that the property will continue to be used as a hotel in the hands of its new owner.

Twenty-five-foot lots, fronting on Pelham Bay and extending back 210 feet to Waterbury Avenue, at the foot of Town Dock Road, were struck down at from $2,850 to $3,000 each.

The Eastern Boulevard lots sold yesterday were those on the east side of that thoroughfare, between Baisley and Waterbury Avenues. The Baisley Avenue corner brought $1,175, and the Waterbury Avenue corner $1,075, with the intervening lots selling at from $700 to $750 each.

Along Waterbury Avenue, from the Eastern Boulevard to Ellsworth Avenue, prices ranged from $600 to $775 for corners and from $450 to $575 for inside lots.

For the block bounded by Baisley, Fairmount, Valentine, and Vincent Avenues, containing thirty-two lots, a total of $14,450 was realized. Inside lots on Baisley Avenue brought $400 and $425 each, the corners selling for $525 and $550. The corners on Fairmount Avenue brought $600 and $650, inside lots selling for from $450 to $525 each. On Vincent Avenue, between Fairmount and Baisley Avenues, $400 to $650 was paid for plots of about one and a half lots. The inside lots on Valentine Avenue ranged in price from $450 to $375.

A total of $15,525 was paid for the block bounded by Town Dock Road, Fairmount, Valentine, and Vincent Avenues, containing thirty lots. The corners on Fairmount Avenue sold for $625 and $700, inside lots selling at from $525 to $600. On Town Dock Road corners brought $700 and $725, inside lots going for $475 and $525. Inside lots on Valentine Avenue sold for $400 and $450 each, abutting lots on Vincent Avenue bringing $500 and $600.

The northwest corner of Layton and Dean Avenues, a lot 25 by 100, was sold for $1,000. Inside lots on Layton Avenue, between Dean and Clarence Avenues, sold for from $600 to $675, the Clarence Avenue corner bringing $950. Inside lots on Clarence Avenue, between Layton and Fairmount Avenues, sold at $650 each.

DOCTOR SEEKS DEATH; ENGAGED TO HIS NIECE

HAD BECOME DESPONDENT

Because of Opposition to His Marriage—Pair Had Planned to Elope to Rhode Island.

Dr. Jacob Haas, an eclectic physician with a lucrative practice on the east side, had planned to marry his niece, Fannie Thaller, on June 7. Miss Thaller's parents objected to the marriage, and the laws of the State prevent an uncle from marrying his niece, but the couple had arranged to elope to Providence, R. I. At least that is what Miss Thaller says, and the story is corroborated by friends of Dr. Haas.

The elopement plans came to a sudden end yesterday, when Dr. Haas attempted to end his life in his office, at 63 Second Avenue, after writing a letter to his fiancée. The doctor swallowed ten grains of cocaine, then slashed his throat and left wrist with a razor. For three hours his life hung in the balance, but he is now on the road to recovery, much to his chagrin, and is a prisoner in the detention ward of Bullevue Hospital.

"I am sorry I did not die," he said to the surgeons while they were stitching his wounds. "I am sorry for the girl, but I do not want to live."

That was all he would say. And while the surgeons were saving the life of Dr. Haas his niece and her father were sitting on a bench just outside the door of the operating room. Both were crying. Whenever any one would emerge from the operating room Miss Thaller would tearfully inquire:

"Will he live? Oh, tell me will he live?"

She asked repeatedly to be allowed to see the man she was to have married, but was told that she could not. At last, after being assured that her uncle would live, she went with her father, Max Thaller, to their home, at 2,335 Seventh Avenue, in the Bedford apartments. Relatives of Dr. Haas say that he drew a will a little while before he tried to end his life, leaving all his property to Miss Thaller.

The story of Dr. Haas's infatuation for his pretty young niece begins eight or nine years ago, when Miss Thaller was a schoolgirl and Haas was a student at the New York Eclectic School, in Fourteenth Street. Miss Thaller's mother is Dr. Haas's sister. They came here from Austria twelve years ago. For a while the parents of the girl thought nothing of the attentions of Haas. The two were together much of the time, and Miss Thaller did not seem to care for the attentions of other young men. Her attractiveness grew as she reached womanhood. She is now 21 years old. Dr. Haas is 28. A year or so ago Dr. Haas announced his intention of marrying his pretty niece. At once there came a storm of protest from his relatives. They pointed out the law which prohibited an uncle from marrying his niece, and they also told the young couple that it would be a disgrace to the family for such a thing to occur. But the protests had no effect on Miss Thaller. They worried Dr. Haas, though, his friends say.

Dr. Haas and his niece dined together Monday night, and Dr. Haas left her at her home soon before midnight. She says he was less depressed than he had been for several weeks, and, indeed, seemed happy at the prospect of their elopement and marriage.

Dr. Haas lives in the rear of his office at 63 Second Avenue. At 9 o'clock yesterday morning Mrs. Annie Alterman, his housekeeper, heard groans coming from his office. She entered and found Dr. Haas lying in the middle of the floor, bleeding from wounds in his neck and wrist.

Dr. Meyer Wolff of 61 Second Avenue was called in. He began at once to bind the wounds on Dr. Haas's wrist. The wounded man opened his eyes and said, "I have cut my throat and taken ten grains of cocaine in solution. Why didn't I finish it, or not attempt it at all?"

Bellevue Hospital was notified. While on the way to the hospital Dr. Haas was questioned by Dr. Simmons, the ambulance surgeon.

"I don't want to live any longer," said Dr. Haas. "I am sorry for the girl I was going to marry."

"Would you try to end your life again?" asked Dr. Simmons.

"Yes, I would," replied the wounded man.

At the hospital it was found that he had inflicted seven slashes on his left wrist. The gash in the throat just escaped the jugular vein. He lost a quart or more of blood, but seemed to suffer no ill-effects from the ten grains of cocaine. The letter addressed to Miss Thaller was found in his bedroom, also one to the Coroner in which he said that he was in ill-health and was short of funds, and did not care to live any longer. In the letter to Miss Thaller was a check for $220. There was a third letter, addressed to Annie Alterman, the housekeeper. In this was a check for $25.

Dr. Haas had three life insurance policies in Jewish societies, aggregating $3,000. Dr. Wolff, who was a friend of Dr. Haas, said yesterday that Haas had been suffering from some nervous disorder.

Dr. Haas's friends say that he had a horror of suicide. Mrs. Isaac Kaplan, who lives at 71 Second Avenue, said that Dr. Haas had often told her that he could not understand how a man or woman could nerve himself or herself to commit suicide. "I surely could not," he told her.

MANHATTAN ELEVATED LOAN.

Company Asks Permission to Issue $11,712,000 Bonds for Refunding.

The Manhattan Railway Company, which owns the elevated lines in Manhattan and the Bronx, applied yesterday to the Public Service Commission for permission to issue $10,818,000 bonds to pay off the first mortgage bonds of the Metropolitan Elevated Railway Company, which fall due on July 1, and to issue $894,000 bonds to repay the company for the cost of extending the lines in the Bronx from Tremont Avenue to Bronx Park, a total of $11,712,000.

Both issues are asked for in accordance with the consolidated mortgage dated Feb. 26, 1890, to the Central Trust Company, to secure issues authorized by the stockholders. This mortgage took up $10,818,000 of the outstanding mortgage bonds of the Metropolitan Elevated Railway Company, and it is to pay these that the present new issue is proposed. A representative of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. said last night that it was too early to make any statement about the proposed financing. It is altogether probable that Morgan & Co. will handle the matter when final action is taken by the Public Service Board.

The application to the commission was signed by George J. Gould as President of the railroad and Julien T. Davies and Charles A. Gardiner as counsel. The commission ordered hearings upon the matter to be held May 26.

DON'T LIKE SUBWAY PLANS.

Bronx Folk Want Lexington Avenue Line Carried to 138th Street.

Dwellers in the Bronx are not satisfied with the plans of the Public Service Commission for the Lexington Avenue Subway, and at yesterday's meeting of the commission communications were received from the South Bronx Property Owners' Association and the North Side Board of Trade requesting their modification.

The plans of the commission would make the division south of 138th Street, and provide two stations on that street, one at Mott Avenue and the other at Third Avenue. The petitioners, however, would like to see the main line carried as far as Third Avenue and 138th Street.

The Commissioners issued an order to the Long Island Electric Railroad to restore its service along Liberty Avenue and to clean its cars.

STEINWAY TUNNEL DECISION.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 19.—The Court of Appeals in a decision handed down to-day decides against the City of New York in its efforts to prevent the New York & Long Island Railroad Company from completing the so-called Steinway tunnel from Forty-second Street to Long Island.

In 1906 the city tried to stop the work on the ground that the railroad company no longer had any corporate power; that the company had not completed its route within the prescribed time, and that its franchise had lapsed.

An injunction restraining the city from interfering with the work is now upheld by the Court of Appeals.

100 P. C. DIVIDEND BY FIRST NATIONAL Declared by the Bank as Subscription to Capital of First Security Company.

AMOUNTS TO $10,000,000

Second Large Special Dividend Declared by This Institution — Eight Years Ago Had One of 1900%.

The Directors of the First National Bank declared yesterday a special dividend of 100 per cent., or $10,000,000, which will be used to subscribe to the $10,000,000 capital of the First Security Company. This special dividend was declared in keeping with the announcement made last February, when the plan for the formation of the First Security Company was outlined.

This is the second very large special dividend declared by the First National Bank within the last ten years. About eight years ago the capital of the bank was increased from $500,000 to $10,000,000, and in connection with this increase a special cash dividends of 1,900 per cent., said to be the largest dividend ever declared by a bank, at least in this country, was paid to stockholders. In effect, of course, this was a stock dividend rather than a cash dividend, for the cash paid out in dividends was immediately returned to the bank as subscriptions to the increased capital stock.

The First Security Company has been organized to handle banking operations other than those specifically provided for in the charters of National banks.

GOLD OUTFLOW GOES ON.

$4,000,000 Engaged Yesterday Exhausts Supply of Bars—Coin Taken.

The engagement of $4,000,000 more gold at the Assay Office for export by to-morrow's steamer practically exhausted the supply of bars available for export and leaves the exporters of gold only gold coin with which to make further shipments.

Two inquiries were made at the Sub-Treasury yesterday in reference to supplies of gold coin, and unless plans which were under way yesterday are changed it is likely that besides the $4,000,000 in bars to-morrow's steamers will carry $1,000,000 or more of coin.

So far only one shipment of gold coin has been made on this movement, $1,000,000 having been taken on Monday for export to Germany Coin shipments are more expensive than shipments of bars, but with Germany allowing special concessions to attract gold, it may well be that the handicap which exists in the case of coin will be overcome.

There is no danger of a shortage of gold coin, for in the New York Sub-Treasury alone there is at present a supply of $195,000,000.

INTEREST ON BOND PAYMENTS

Subscribers to Pennsylvania Issue Get 2 Per Cent. Rate from Bankers.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co. have mailed checks to the subscribers to the recent Pennsylvania Railroad $40,000,000 bond issue covering interest at the rate of 2 per cent. on the amount of the subscriptions from the date they were received by the bankers until May 25, when the bonds are expected to be delivered to the subscribers.

The bonds were sold at 96 and interest, so that all those who subscribed to and paid for the bonds in advance, as it turned out owing to the very heavy subscriptions, were out the interest for nearly a month. It was to adjust the matter that the bankers allowed interest at the rate of 2 per cent.

Full Food Value

A "true food" contains tissue-building, heat- and energy-making elements, and certain natural elemental salts—Phosphate of Potash, etc., (in wheat and barley)—without which new brain and body cells cannot be formed.

That's why

Grape-Nuts

is a "true food"—is more readily absorbed than any other—and is RETAINED BY WEAK STOMACHS when even water or milk is rejected!

PRACTICAL, PERSONAL TESTS are of far greater worth than any laboratory estimate of Food Value, and the large number of extreme cases wherein no other food could be retained, proves.

CLEARED AWAY

Proper Food Put the Troubles Away.

Our own troubles always seem more severe than any others. But when a man is unable to eat even a light breakfast, for years, without severe distress, he has trouble enough.

It is small wonder he likes to tell of food which cleared away the troubles.

"I am glad of the opportunity to tell of the good Grape-Nuts has done for me," writes a N. H. man. "For many years I was unable to eat even a light breakfast without great suffering.

"After eating I would suddenly be seized with a terrible attack of colic and vomiting. This would be followed by headache and misery that would sometimes last a week or two, leaving me so weak I could hardly sit up or walk.

"Since I began to eat Grape-Nuts I have been free from the old troubles. I usually eat Grape-Nuts food one or more times a day, taking it at the beginning of the meal. Now I can eat almost anything I want without trouble.

"When I began to use Grape-Nuts I was way under my usual weight, now I weigh 30 pounds more than I ever weighed in my life, and I am glad to speak of the food that has worked the change."

PLANS FOR SOUTHERN STEEL

Reorganization Approved and New Bonds and Stock to be Issued.

A plan for the reorganization of the Southern Steel Company which has been approved by the Trustees in Bankruptcy and the Reorganization Committee was made public yesterday. Holders of the $3,000,000 first mortgage bonds and the $734,000 of collateral trust notes will receive new first and refunding mortgage bonds to the amount of the principal and interest of their securities and in addition 10 per cent. in new preferred stock on account of adjustments for interest.

The amount of the new bond issue will be $10,000,000 twenty-year bonds, which are to bear 4 per cent. interest for five years and 5 per cent. thereafter until maturity The general creditors, whose claims amount to $2,200,000, estimated, will receive 50 per cent. of their claims in these bonds and 75 per cent. in preferred stock. Of the new preferred stock $7,000,000 of 6 per cent. non-cumulative shares will be issued. The holders of the existing $10,000,000 preferred stock will receive 25 per cent. of their shares in a new issue of $10,000,000 of common stock, and holders of the existing $15,000,000 of common stock will receive 5 per cent. of their holdings in the new issue. In addition to this, both classes of old stockholders will have the privilege of subscribing at the rate of $10 per share on their old stock and receiving 150 per cent. of their subscriptions in new preferred and 250 in new common.

The Reorganization Committee will name a new Board of Directors, which will continue the present management in control, and it is presumed that James T. Woodward, who has been the practical man of the company, will be the executive manager of the properties.

The plan provides the new company with ample funds for present betterments and improvements to the properties and for working capital, in addition to which $2,000,000 of the new first mortgage and refunding bonds are reserved for future betterments and improvements.

It is estimated that the average annual net earnings of the company will be $1,200,000, against which there will be fixed charges of but $352,700.

The committee appointed by the Directors of the Greene Gold-Silver Company last March to evolve a plan which would place the company on a sound financial basis, issued a circular to stockholders yesterday proposing a voluntary assessment on the stockholders of 5 cents a share.

The committee states that the company has no cash on hand, and the stockholders must contribute to a fund to pay for an examination of the company "from a legal, financial, and operating standpoint." The committee figures that $25,000 must be raised to pay the expense of maintaining the company's offices until a definite conclusion can be arrived at to employ experts to make a physical examination of the property and for other outlays.

The committee says that with the co-operation of stockholders it is believed it will be possible to rehabilitate the company. Col. W. C. Greene, the President, has been in Mexico since last Fall.

Col. Greene has issued a proposition to the stockholders of his Greene Consolidated Gold Company, by which he is to supply the capital to complete the company's plant and put it in operation. He proposes to repay himself and the money now owing him by the company out of the net operations after the plant is completed. Stockholders were called yesterday to a special meeting to be held on May 29 to pass upon the proposition and elect Directors.

CASH FOR WESTERN PACIFIC.

Directors Meet Bankers and Arrange for New Financing.

The Directors of the Denver & Rio Grande held a special meeting yesterday, and later a conference took place between the officials of the Western Pacific and the Denver & Rio Grande and the bankers who have taken the $10,000,000 notes which the Denver road is to sell at this time to provide for the completion of the Western Pacific.

At the Directors' meeting, it is understood, the officers of the Denver & Rio Grande were empowered to carry out the details of the issuance of a new mortgage in keeping with the plan outlined to provide not only for the present needs of the system, but also for future requirements and for the funding of the existing bonds of the Denver & Rio Grande.

DEFENDS NEW HAVEN MERGER.

Commission Chairman Says Harriman May Otherwise Buy B. & M. Stock.

BOSTON, May 19.—A defense of the report of the special Commission on Commerce and Industries and its action in favoring the merger of the Boston & Maine with the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad under certain restrictions was made to-day by the commission's Chairman, Joseph B. Warner, at the closing hearing on the merger before the Legislative Committee on Railroads.

Mr. Warner said that unless the New Haven road was permitted under restrictions suggested by his commission to hold the stock of the Boston & Maine, which it now owns, there was a liability that other parties outside of New England would obtain that stock, and that if the Legislature ordered it sold in open market representatives of Edward H. Harriman would probably purchase it. He said that the railroads of New England needed awakening, and that the merger offered opportunity for such a change.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC RUMORS.

New 5 Per Cent. Stock to Replace the 7 Per Cent. Preferred May Be Issued.

An old stock market story of the proposed retirement of the outstanding $175,182,000 of the 7 per cent. non-cumulative preferred stock of the Southern Pacific Railway, which has followed the rise of this issue from 106⅝ on Jan. 2 to its high mark of 125½ on May 13, was revived in financial circles yesterday. The shares closed yesterday at 119¼. When this stock was issued in 1904 the company reserved the right to redeem it at 115 at any time prior to July 1, 1910.

According to the story of yesterday, the Southern Pacific Directors proposed to issue a new 5 per cent. preferred stock to replace the old shares. An authority on Harriman financing said last night that the question of retiring Southern Pacific preferred had not been considered by the Directors, although it was a matter which might properly be taken up at any time.

U. S. RUBBER PROFITS KEEP UP

The annual report of the United States Rubber Company shows gross sales for the year ended March 31 of $62,696,105, an increase of $2,127,253. The operating profits were $4,484,904, a decrease of $173,159 from the previous year. The net income of $3,695,607, though a decrease of $961,310 from the previous year, left a balance for dividends of $3,553,556, a total which cleared the dividend requirements for the year by $58,108. The total surplus is $6,184,814.

In his report to stockholders, President Colt says that, in spite of the business depression, the company's business compares favorably with the previous year. He says that with the return of gentral prosperity the company looks for improved results.

Provident Life Control Upheld.

The control of the Provident Life Assurance Society, held by the syndicate of banking creditors of E. R. and O. F. Thomas, represented by Sullivan & Cromwell, has been confirmed by Supreme Court Justice Davis, who has decided that W. T. Gilbert, elected a Director at the recent annual meeting, was legally put in the board. Mr. Gilbert makes the eighth Director representing the banking interests out of fifteen members of the board. He was elected to succeed a Director put in office by the Philadelphia Coyle syndicate.

De Lima Heads Hungarian Bank.

At a special meeting of the Directors of the Hungarian-American Bank, at 32 Broadway, yesterday, W. H. Bryan was retired from the Presidency and succeetded by E. S. A. De Lima. Within recent months the European interests, which at the bank's organization were its important backers, have largely increased their stock holdings. The new President has been for twenty-eight years senior partner in the firm of D. A. De Lima, an old-established banking and export concern.

LAUNCH BIG COLLIER WHILE 30,000 CHEER

MISS GOODRICH IS SPONSOR

Thirty thousand persons cheered, marine bands played patriotic airs, and the sirens of ocean and river craft tooted in riotous concert yesterday when the Vestal, biggest and finest of naval colliers, was launched at the New York Navy Yard. It was the biggest crowd, with one exception—that which witnessed the launching of the flagship Connecticut—that ever assembled in the navy yard.

At a signal the great coal carrier started down the ways and she took the water without a hitch. She slipped down the ways like a toboggan, and her hull leveled off in the water the instant she was clear.

While the multitude cheered and the bands played there was one man in the throng that was more deeply interested than any other. He stood alone near the place where the bow of the giant collier had rested a few minutes before. That man was William J. Baxter, U. S. N., the naval constructor under whose supervision the collier was built, and the man who will go down in naval history as the constructor who had charge of the building of the battleship Connecticut, still considered, with the Louisiana, the finest type of American battleship now afloat. It may be mentioned in passing that Constructor Baxter will build also the great 20,000-ton battleship that Congress has stipulated must be built at the New York Navy Yard.

The launching was scheduled for 10:45 A. M., but it was nineteen minutes later before the vessel started down the ways. Miss Gladys Goodrich, daughter of Rear Admiral Caspar F. Goodrich, Commandant of the New York Navy Yard, was the sponsor for the Vestal. On the stand with her, when she broke the bottle of wine against the bow of the collier, were her father and mother, Major Gen. Frederick D. Grant, U. S. A., and Mrs. Grant; Capt. Cameron McR. Winslow of the battleship New Hampshire, Capt. A. J. Bowley, U. S. A.; Capt. William T. Johnson, U. S. A.; Commander H. N. Kellogg, U. S. N., and Rear Admiral Clifford H. West, U. S. N., retired.

The police arrangements, like everything else, were perfect, the seventy-five unmounted and ten mounted men being under the command of Inspector Flood. In the yard about two-thirds of the crowd were massed in the space to the left of the Vestal, while the other third witnessed the launching from the Cob Dock and from the limited space to the right of the collier. The bands were stationed about the yard in places where everybody could hear music all the time, the principal band, the Navy Yard Marine Band, had a stand near that erected for Miss Goodrich and the launching party.

At ten minutes to 11 o'clock the sand bags between the keel of the Vestal and the supporting blocks were opened and the sand began pouring out. The big ship sank gently to the greased ways on which she was to take her initial dip. Then the sole beams, the last supports holding the ship to the shore, were sawed in two, and she started on her short journey.

A naval officer stood beside Miss Goodrich with his hand against the red painted bow of the Vestal. The moment he felt the giant tremble he knew the time was at hand and nodded to Miss Goodrich. A moment later she caught the bottle of champagne that was suspended from a red, white, and blue line and dashed it with all the force at her command against the Vestal's side. The bottle broke into a thousand pieces. The multitude burst into cheers just as the bands struck up "The Star Spangled Banner." Five minutes later the Vestal was being towed to her berth alongside the dock, where the dismantled Massachusetts was up to Saturday.

The Vestal is now 84 per cent. finished, and will be ready to go into commission early in the Fall. She is 465 feet long, and is designed to displace about 12,585 tons. She is officially registered as a fleet collier and will have a capacity of 7,000 tons of coal. She will be manned by officers and sailors of the navy, and not by merchant masters and crews, as is the case of the colliers now in commission.

NEW CHICAGO SUBWAY PLAN.

A new financing of the Chicago Subway Company was made public yesterday in a circular proposing a twenty-year issue of 5 per cent. first lien bonds to be dated June 1, 1908, redeemable at 105. Provision is made for subsequent issues bearing a lower rate of interest and maturing later than June 1, 1828.

The Chicago Subway Company, in which E. H. Harriman and the Armours are largely interested, comprises the Illinois Tunnel Company and the Chicago Warehouse and Terminal Company. It is proposed to exchange the new bonds for the bonds of the Illinois Tunnel Company, which were issued Dec. 1, 1903, bond for bond, and the coupon on this issue due June 1 will be purchased at par for cash.

A release from the lien of the tunnel company mortgage is provided for as is also the sale, lease, or other disposition of the telephone properties and rights of the tunnel company.

The circular states that the controlling interest plans to extend the loan already made and to advance $1,000,000 more for construction and equipment. In Chicago the Central Trust Company and the Harris Trust and Savings Bank have been appointed Registrar of Stock, and holders of tunnel bonds in New York are invited to deposit them with the United States Mortgage and Trust Company on or before July 1.
